LIEUT. HANNA WILL SUCCEED CAPT. JOYCE

Forest Park District Officer Is Selected for Next Promotion by Board.

JOYCE TRANSFER IN APRIL

Excise Commissioner's Criticism of His District Caused His Downfall.

KEELY IS REAPPOINTED

"Jim" Smith Is Made a Captain, Much to Desmond's Relief.

Lieut. Robert Hanna, night commander of the Forest Park District, will be made a Captain to succeed Peter Joyce, whose resignation, requested and accepted by the Police Board in executive session Monday afternoon, becomes effective April 1. This information came from the board room to a Post-Dispatch reporter, although no member of the board would individually confirm or deny it. As exclusively published in the late editions of Monday's Post-Dispatch, the board Monday evening promoted Assistant Chief of Detectives "Jim" Smith to the rank of Captain, and reinstated John Keely as Assistant Chief of Detectives. Chief Desmond is still at the head of the Detective Bureau.

When the board went into session interest about the Four Courts Building was centered on Chief of Detectives Desmond, who was "tipped" for removal. Desmond was on the anxious seat, waiting to be called into the boardroom and asked for his resignation.

Desmond Had Speech Ready.

Desmond had a little speech all prepared and rehearsed. He was positive he was going to be called by the board.

When the board meeting ended Desmond was still waiting. He did not realize at first that the meeting was over, but convinced himself by looking out of the window and watching President Stewart climb into an automobile.

When Capt. Joyce was sent for by the board Four Courts attaches immediately passed the word about that Joyce would be asked to resign. This was an easy guess, as the Manchester Avenue District, of which Joyce is the commander, has been under investigation by the board for several weeks. A month ago President Stewart publicly told Joyce that his district was shiftless. The report of Excise Commissioner Mulvihill, after he made an inspection of the Manchester Avenue District saloons and found the excise laws being flagrantly violated, proved to be the "straw that broke the camel's back" for Joyce. It is understood Joyce will be offered a "pensioner's" job. The board considers him too old to do active police duty. He has been on the force since April, 1868.

Change in Central District.

Chief Creecy, who thinks a great deal of Joyce personally, asked to be excused from the board room while Joyce's resignation was being requested. The expression on Joyce' face when he left the board room was the same as when he entered. His stride was just as dignified.

Smith will not be assigned to a district for a few days. In the meantime Chief Creecy will make a transfer of several captains. The Chief thinks the service will be materially benefited if some of the captains are changed about. It is highly probable that either Capt. O'Malley or Capt. Street will be district or Capt. Smith will be placed in command of Central District, and Capt. Reynolds, who is there now, will be sent to the less important district, perhaps to the Wyoming Street District.

Desmond on Probation.

The present intention of the board is not to interfere with Desmond; not even to make suggestions to him, but to continue him in office virtually on probation. His department will be under the close scrutiny of the board, and unless Desmond succeeds in getting better work out of his men he will not be recommissioned when his present term expires next September. Against Desmond personally or officially there is nothing. He is regarded as honest and, so far as his own work is concerned, efficient.

The board is not satisfied with the work he has been getting out of his men. If he can demonstrate to the board between now and next September that he is capable of getting good service out of the detectives in the department he will stand a good chance of being recommended. The board will not even make suggestions to him along these lines.

Only last week Inspector McDonnell, who was acting as Chief of Police, under orders from men "higher up," broke up one of Desmond's combinations, known in the department as the "Big Four." Detectives McFarland, Cremin, Finan and Callahan, who have been credited with making more arrests than nearly all the rest of the force, were given new partners. Other detectives said that favoritism was shown these men, and that they got the "easy" assignments.

If Desmond fails to prove his executive ability to the board between now and next September, he will be allowed to die a natural official death. Keely and Smith will also be closely observed and expected to demonstrate that they are capable of greater things in the event it should become necessary to elevate either or both of them to higher rank in the department than they now occupy.

Board Encourages Rivalry.

It is apparent to the department that the Police Board is applying the methods of big corporations in pitting ambitious men against each other for promotion. Smith was reinstated in the department last Friday with his rank of Lieutenant, and promoted Monday to the rank of Captain. He is eligible for promotion to Chief of Police with the rank of Major, or to Chief of Police with rank of Colonel.

It is said that Keely stands a fair chance for promotion to a captaincy when the question of filling the vacancy caused by the requested resignation of Capt. Joyce comes up for consideration. Both Keely and Smith will then be eligible to the offices of Chief of Detectives and Chief of Police. If Chief Creecy, either through choice or disability, should retire from his present position, both would be available to fill the vacancy.

The law requires that vacancies in the Police Department shall be filled from the next rank below, except that a Captain may be made a Colonel to fill the office of Chief of Police. When Smith retired from the department he was a Lieutenant. It was necessary to promote him to a captaincy before he was eligible for appointment as Chief of Detectives.

It has been demonstrated that Keely has the confidence of the Police Board as well as Smith. If Keely is promoted to Captain it will not be a difficult matter to fill the position of Assistant Chief of Detectives. Anyone of the lieutenants could be transferred to that office, or any of the detectives, who have the rank of Sergeant, could be promoted.

BELT LINE ALONG THE ILLINOIS BANK

Otto Stifel, Donk Bros. and Conrades in $10,000,000 Railroad Scheme.

TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Will Touch Every East Side Line and Make Use of Thebes Bridge.

Civil engineers are mapping out a route for a belt line railway along the Illinois bank of the Mississippi River to relieve the present freight congestion of railways running into East St. Louis.

The line, which has been incorporated under the title of the St. Louis and Illinois Belt Railway, is planned to extend from a point north of East St. Louis to one south along the river front, reaching every railway on the Illinois side which is now part of the Terminal Association. E. C. Conrades is president of the corporation. Donk Bros. coal operators; Otto Stifel and other St. Louis capitalists are interested in the enterprise.

Since the project was launched, much secrecy has been observed by the promoters, as it was necessary to obtain options on land for the right-of-way. Engineers made several preliminary surveys to aid in choosing the route of the belt line.

The plans are said to provide a northern terminus at Alton and Thebes as the southern terminus. This would enable the company to handle freight along the East Side and carry it across the river by means of the Thebes Bridge.

In the absence of President Conrades, who is in Chicago, a Post-Dispatch reporter interviewed E. C. Donk, president of Donk Bros.

Company Is Buying Rails.

"The engineers are hastening the final plans from the preliminary surveys," said he. "Material in the shape of rails and ties is being gathered for the construction of the road. Just when actual building will begin, I cannot say. Mr. Conrades is conversant with all the the plans and is better qualified to speak.

"We had a number of preliminary surveys made in order to obtain the most feasible route. Just how far north or south it will extend we cannot say until we are farther along, nor can we definitely estimate the probable cost until the length of the line is agreed upon.

"No, our project does not include the erection of another bridge across the Mississippi. Of course, things are in an embryo state, and when we get them going well there is no telling what might happen.

"The belt line should be a good proposition. There is urgent need of one on the East Side because of the congestion. Such a line will relieve the situation at once and enable the railroads to handle their freight north and south with dispatch and less cost."

Mr. Donk thinks that $10,000,000 will more than cover the cost of the proposed belt line.

SENATE BEGINS EXCISE INQUIRY HERE MONDAY

Prendergast Says New Charges Will Be Offered Against Mulvihill.

COMMISSIONER EXPLAINS

One Member Declares Statement Before Committee Most Satisfactory.

LOYALTY IS QUESTIONED

Official Admits He Voted Against Democrats With Bad Records.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 22.—The Senate Committee on Municipal Corporations decided today to make an official inquiry into the affairs of the St. Louis Excise Commissioner's office before passing on the appointment of the incumbent, Thomas E. Mulvihill. It is the intention of the committee, of which Senator Mayer of St. Joseph is chairman, to begin the excise investigation in St. Louis, Jan. 28.

Senator Prendergast informed a Post-Dispatch reporter that other charges besides those contained in the affidavit made a few days ago with Gov. Folk would be offered in support of the opposition to Mr. Mulvihill's appointment.

Mr. Mulvihill was before the committee last night for nearly two hours. He made a full explanation of his official affairs and, according to one of the Senators, a most satisfactory one.

It appears, however, that the Senate is in no hurry to accommodate either the Governor or Mulvihill in rushing the Excise Commissioner's confirmation, but that he will be ultimately confirmed is certain. The members of the Senate committee who will sit in judgment on Mr. Mulvihill are Mayer of St. Joseph, Cooper of Kansas City, Wornall of Clay, Prendergast and Bauman of St. Louis, Gilmore of Kansas City and McDavid of Greene.

George P. Jones and Theodoric R. Bland, St. Louis police commissioners, were confirmed in executive session by the Senate today.

Upholds Some Democrats.

It is learned that the committee asked Mr. Mulvihill several embarrassing questions in reference to his loyalty to the Democratic party.

"Is it true," asked Chairman Mayer, "that you did not support the entire democratic ticket in St. Louis in the November campaign?"

"Yes, that is partly true," replied Mulvihill. "I voted against certain Democratic candidates for the Legislature and minor offices, whose records were odious."

At this point Mr. Mulvihill was reprimanded by a Democratic Senator, who said "Up in my country a Democrat is measured by his devotion to his party. We take the ballot and vote'er straight from top to bottom."

Following the submission of the committee's report a resolution providing for an investigation of Mulvihill's office was adopted after a sharp debate. Senator Gardner of St. Louis County said he knew of no reason at this time why Mr. Mulvihill should not be confirmed. However, as charges had been rumored in the public press, he thought they should be sifted to the bottom. Senator Anthony wanted the committee reduced to three members, but the Senate rejected this proposition.

Poet Rector Will Remain.

Rev. J. K. Brennan, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 4005 Washington boulevard, will not resign his present charge. He has decided to decline the call extended him by a church at Old Orchard, Ill. Rev. Mr. Brennan has written a number of poems.

PRETTY SMILES FOR POLICE END LONG AUTO RACE

"Better to Be Arrested Than Go Slow," Says Mrs. Sam Thompson.

DOCTOR'S RAPID FLIGHT

Nelson McLeod Was Taking Physician Home and Wasn't Arrested.

REYBURN IS DISGUSTED

Former Appellate Judge Is Stopped for Speeding, Wishes Machine Was Confiscated.

An automobile in which were Mrs. Sam A. Thompson of 4487 Lindell boulevard and a woman companion, was chased for two miles by Policeman Stinger in the police automobile Monday afternoon and finally caught after it slowed up at Union Station.

William Trimble, chauffeur of the machine, of 5067 Delmar avenue, was arraigned in the City Hall Police Court Tuesday for violating the speed limit.

The speeding machine, capable of a speed of 60 miles an hour, was sighted by Stinger at Newstead avenue and West Pine boulevard. He fell in three blocks behind it. Both machines sped east at from 35 to 40 miles an hour, according to the speedometer of the police automobile. Stinger says that if the stretch had been clear it would have been impossible for the police machine to have overhauled the other. On West Pine boulevard Mrs. Thompson's machine ran three blocks to the police auto's one.

Stinger was guided by the clouds of dust raised by the machine in front. Hundreds of persons were attracted by the chase and yelled to Stinger to put on speed. At Grand avenue the machines turned south to Lawton avenue and thence ran east to Nineteenth street and over Nineteenth street to Union Station. The fleeing machine slowed up on account of the heavy traffic here and the police auto ran alongside just as Mrs. Thompson was preparing to alight and enter the station.

Mrs. Thompson smiled as the chauffeur was arrested.

"We knew you were chasing us all the time," she said, "but we just had to get here to see some friends. Anyhow, it's better to be chased and arrested than to poke along."

Judge Reyburn Disgusted.

George Valle Reyburn, former Judge of the Court of Appeals, was stopped in his automobile at Olive street and Channing avenue Tuesday, by Patrolman Cooney, in the police automobile, and James Bernard, Reyburn's negro chauffeur, was arrested. Bernard and the auto were taken to the Manchester Avenue Station and Judge Reyburn went along. As he prepared to sign bond for the negro he glanced disgustedly out of the window at the fleeing car.

"I wish they'd confiscate the thing," he muttered. "Christmas Randolph was arrested, and once it nearly burned up with me, and now here I am in a police station."

He signed the bond with a vicious splash of the pen, and walked from the station with indignation and amusement struggling for supremacy in his face.

Patrolman Cooney says he followed Judge Reyburn from Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard, and that his speedometer showed the car was being driven 20 miles an hour.

Long Chase Out Westminster.

Policeman Cooney risked his life Tuesday morning in making one of the best captures of the year, and then turned his quarry loose. Cooney was going north in the police auto on Sarah street about 8 a. m. As he reached Westminster place he saw a touring car whizz by him west on Westminster place.

There were two men in the machine. One was gripping his steering wheel and manipulating the little brass levers. The other was holding a black valise in his lap and blinking as he held on with all his might. Neither saw the police auto.

The chauffeur of the police car didn't wait for instructions. He swung his machine into Westminster place with one hand on the steering wheel and the other fumbling with the speed levers. There was a sharp volley of explosions and then the car got into its stride, and with a roar from its exhaust pipe started out in pursuit.

The flying car ahead was swaying like the caboose of a fast freight, but at the crossings it slowed up and swerved to the right side, while its horn pumped out hoarse warnings.

While its horn was being sounded for Newstead avenue, the police machine was bumping across the tracks on Boyle avenue. It slowed up west of Newstead and when it turned sharply north on Walton the police machine was only half a block behind.

It Was Nelson McLeod.

The police car took the turn at Walton on hind wheels. It got its balance drunkenly and made another turn into Washington boulevard in the same way.

Out Washington the chase was a straight one, with the police machine slowly closing up the gap. As the car ahead neared Union boulevard it suddenly stopped in front of 5267 Washington boulevard and its two occupants had just leaped to the pavement when police car reached its side.

"You're under arrest," shouted Cooney to the man who had driven the machine.

"All right, officer," said that individual, "I'll be with you in a minute. My name is Nelson McLeod and this is a physician whom I've just brought to my house to attend a very sick member of my family. If you'll let me take him inside I'll go with you to the station in a minute."

Cooney said:

"I don't believe I really should arrest you in a case like this, Mr. McLeod, and I don't think I will."

Then he had his machine turned around and chugged away with a grin on his face.

"RUNNERS" PLY KNIVES IN WAR OVER A WOMAN

ONE VICTIM IS BITTEN

Zeal for Business Drives Competitors to Tiff on Hat Issue.

GRAPPLE UPON FLOOR

Employes Try to Interfere and Arrests End the Bitter Broil.

A desperate fight with knives in the office of the Carleton Dry Goods Co. at Twelfth street and Washington avenue Tuesday followed the effort of a representative of another wholesale house to take from the store a young woman who was buying goods at the Carleton establishment.

Lawrence Boogher, a salesman for the Carleton company, was cut and bitten, and Hugh Cox, a "customer chaser" for the White, Branch, Shelton Hat Co., was arrested with his twin brother, Frank Cox of Oklahoma City, O. T.

An information charging assault to do great bodily harm, was issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf against Hugh and Frank Cox, at noon today.

A warrant charging the Coxes with assault to do great bodily harm was issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf.

Before the warrant was issued the men had been released on common law bonds of $200 each, accepted by Judge Taylor of the Court of Criminal Correction. These bonds would hold them for a misdemeanor, but they may be rearrested and required to give new bonds on the charge of assault to do harm, which is a felony.

All of the big Washington avenue houses employ "street men," or "runners," whose duty it is to watch the hotels for prospective customers and follow the movements of these customers as they go up and down Washington avenue purchasing their goods.

Held to Strict Account.

Many of the customers remain in town only a few days and the street men are held to strict account if they do not round up the buyers before they leave the city.

Monday afternoon Miss Mabel Garvey of Arkansas City, Kan., went to the Carleton company's store to buy dry goods. She was being waited on by Henry Johnson, when Hugh Cox hurried into the store.

Cox knew that Miss Garvey was buying goods for a general store and that she would leave town Monday night. He thought that she might look at the hats which his firm had for sale and he walked up to her, touched her on the arm and told her so.

Johnson resented this and Cox became excited. Boogher prevented a fight and ordered Cox from the store.

Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. three men entered the Carleton establishment. They hurried through the front door and back to a desk where Boogher was sitting.

Only a few words were exchanged before the fight started. Boogher and Cox grappled and rolled to the floor and the other two men attempted to prevent employes of the store from interfering.

J. W. McDonald led a charge by the Carelton employes and Boogher and Hugh Cox were pried apart.

Those who witnessed the fight say that at least two knives were in sight a part of the time.

Arises Worse for Bites.

When Boogher arose he had cuts on his chin, lip and right cheek and there were marks as of teeth on his left cheek. The first joint of his left thumb was also bitten.

Hugh Cox was cut on the back of the neck and his thumb was wrenched.

Frank Cox showed many wounds about the head and face. These were dressed at the City Dispensary after the Coxes were arrested.

Boogher went to the office of Dr. Davis in the Missouri Trust Building and from there to the Four Courts, where he applied for a warrant charging the Cox brothers with assault.

The Coxes are twins, 45 years old. Boogher is 32. Frank Cox lives in Oklahoma City, Okla., and arrived in St. Louis Tuesday morning. He says that he took no part in the fight, but that he "was mixed in it against his will."

Boogher says that the trouble started when Cox tried to take the young woman customer from the store.

Hugh Cox insists that there has been a grudge of long standing between him and Boogher.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Four Courts he said:

"Boogher has had a grudge against me for five years because I was a Hearst-Hawes Democrat. This caused many quarrels between us. When I went to his store this morning I just wanted to talk things over with him. I telephoned him and asked him to meet me at Eleventh and Washington avenue, but he didn't show up."

A knife with blood on the blade was found in Hugh Cox's pocket when he was searched at the Four Courts.

SUES HER NINTH HUSBAND.

Woman Asks Divorce After Being Married Five Weeks.

BOONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Pollyanna Wood-Stone-Miller-Carroll-Freeham-Black-Carnes-Billon-Baker filed a suit in Warwick County Court asking for a divorce from William Baker, her ninth husband, whom she married five weeks ago.

Asked Big Sentence.

William Reeves, a negro, was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary Tuesday for killing Ira Chapman, a companion steamboat employe. After he had been led to the cage he sent word to Judge Muench that he'd rather be sentenced to 99 years. Judge Muench had him brought out again and accommodated him. The negro said if he had the longer sentence he thought he'd stand a better chance for pardon. He is 27 years old. He killed Chapman with an ax last April at the foot of Vine street.

UNION STATION IS WATCHED TO PREVENT THIS GIRL'S DEPARTURE

MARY ROSALINE CABRILLIAC

GIRL KIDNAPED, SISTER MISSING

Mary Rosaline Cabrilliac, Aged 12, Disappears on Pretended Errand.

UNION STATION WATCHED

Parents Believe That Kidnaper Wanted to Send Her Out of City.

Before the eyes of her unsuspecting father, 12-year-old Mary Rosaline Cabrillia was kidnapped from her home at 1412 North Thirteenth street. Her sister, Mrs. Mamie Wolff, is being sought in connection with the child's disappearance.

At the time the girl departed, her father, Theodore Cabrilliac, was about to enter his home. He was the last to see her as she walked north on Thirteenth street toward Cass avenue, Monday night. It was shortly after 9 o'clock, he said. He had been talking with some men in front of the house, when his daughter came out. He asked her where she was going, and she told him she was taking a note from her sister to her brother's house, a few blocks distant.

He saw a young man meet her a short distance from the house, and walk away with her.

He thought he recognized the young man as an acquaintance of the family.

An hour later, when the child had not returned, he thought she had stopped at his step-son's home, and was indulging in the forbidden pleasure of staying up late. He finally decided to go after her. His step-son, Joseph Higgins, lives at 1712 North Fourteenth street, and it took him but a few minutes to go there.

Higgins met him at the door with the information that Mary Rosaline had not been there at all. Cabrilliac then ran back to his home and told his wife the girl had disappeared.

He remembered that the child had told him that she had a note from his daughter, Mrs. Wolff, who also lives at 1412 North Thirteenth street, but occupies a different part of the house from that in which he lives.

Older Daughter Missing.

He went to her door and was told that she, too, had left the house. Tuesday morning Mrs. Wolff had not returned.

After searching the neighborhood, Cabrilliac, with an older daughter, Kate Morris, went to the Four Courts at midnight. He described the manner in which the child had disappeared, and detectives were sent out to aid him in the search.

Cabrilliac said he understood that the young man who had walked away with his daughter lived in a rooming house at Market and Center street. Inquirers at the rooming house Tuesday were told that he was not known there.

Cabrilliac said that ill feeling exists between Mrs. Wolff, his daughter, and her step-mother, his second wife.

Cabrilliac said that, if Mrs. Wolff is responsible for the girl's disappearance it is probable the child has been or will be sent to the home of an aunt near Belleview, Iron County. If this is attempted, she may be found by detectives at Union Station, who have been placed on the watch for her.

Cabrilliac said the girl's aunt, the sister of his first wife, had shown a great fondness for the little girl, and had urged him to let her go to the country to live. The aunt is Mrs. Mollie Hausmann, and her farm is near Belleview, about 100 miles from St. Louis.

The father's only theory is that Mrs. Wolff's friendship for her aunt, and dislike for Mrs. Cabrilliac, led her to take the child in the effort to send her to the country.

Dying Father Asks for Son.

Relatives of Henry Koeser, who disappeared from his home, 2137 Victor street, a month ago, have asked the aid of the Post-Dispatch to bring about his return before the death of his father, Peter Koeser, who is critically ill. Koeser is supposed to be in St. Louis. A brother, Ernest, called at the Four Courts Tuesday and asked the Police Department to renew its efforts to find the missing man.

DID HE STRIVE TO DECEIVE BY DEATH ITSELF?

Possible Explanation of Jewett Suicide Found in Accident Insurance Policy.

OWED MONEY ON HOME

May Be That He Drank Acid, as Train Dashed By, to Feign Death by Violence.

NONE SAW HIM FALL

His Family Does Not Think That He Met His End by Accident.

An accident policy for $5000 would have been honored in case it could have been shown that Walter P. Jewett of Maplewood, who sank beside a swiftly moving Missouri Pacific train last Friday morning and died without recovering consciousness, had been struck by the train. This would have enabled his wife to pay off the indebtedness on their home, and may supply a motive for suicide.

That the man died from carbolic acid poisoning was established by the autopsy by Dr. J. A. Hartmann of the Coroner's office, but where and when he took it, what became of the bottle which contained the drug, and how he managed to get to the point where he sank to the ground dying are circumstances that have not been explained.

Policeman Peter Mangan, who was the first person to reach Jewett's side after he had fallen, says that there was no indication that he had taken poison—that is, there were no outward indications. He was breathing laboriously, and was unconscious. In common with others who saw Jewett's body lying between the east and westbound tracks, Officer Mangan supposed that he had attempted to board the train while it was moving and had been struck by it. One old gentleman who knew Jewett insisted that he saw the train strike him, and knew that his neck had been broken.

Jewett was carried to the home of his aunt, Mrs. John Krietzer, at 6006 Magnolia avenue. The physicians who examined him there failed to find any broken bones, and his clothing was not in the least disarranged. Then the theory was advanced that he had died from heart failure, and that is the explanation of his demise that is still being made by the members of his family.

The Little Home.

But now comes the story of a little home purchased on the installment plan, which was to have cost Jewett $2600 on which he had paid $600. He was employed at the Cupples Station warehouse at a salary of $90 a month, and on this found it pretty hard to keep up his payments of $20 a month and interest and support his wife and two children. It is said that he also feared that his wife would become an invalid. Mrs. Jewett has not been strong for some time, and on the morning of her husband's death was sick and unable to prepare breakfast for him.

Jewett has two insurance policies—one an accident policy for $5000 and the other a straight life policy for $3000. If it could be proven that Jewett was struck by the train the accident policy would hold good, but even the members of his family do not hold the opinion that he was accidentally killed.

Jewett's home was at 7224 Rosalie avenue, in Maplewood. One block away is the Maplewood station, and to reach there it is necessary to climb a little hill. Jewett did this and then walked east for nearly three-quarters of a mile before he fell beside the train. The explanation of this act it is said that the train which he intended to take to his work did not stop at the Maplewood station. He was 500 feet from the station when the train passed and was walking between the tracks, which brought him very close to the sides of the coaches. From the depot his form could not be seen as the train sped by, but after it had passed Policeman Mangan and others saw him lying on the ground.

Searched for Bottle.

The policeman made careful search for the acid bottle, but was unable to find it. On his walk Jewett passed a rock quarry on his left side and a dump on his right, into either of which a small vial might be thrown and lost. Those who hold the suicide theory believe that into one of these holes the bottle was thrown.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter F. E. Jewett, father of the dead man, said Monday that he knew of no reason why his son should take his life.

"If he was in financial difficulty," said Mr. Jewett, "all that would have been necessary would have been for him to make his troubles known to me or his sister, who is a school teacher, and we would have helped him out. I am of the belief that heart disease was the cause of his death. My father died of heart disease, but he was 67 years old. I have no way of explaining the presence of carbolic acid in his stomach. He was a man of temperate habits and his home life was all that anyone could wish for. On my advice his wife has closed her home and brought her children to my house. Here she will remain until her affairs have been straightened out."

No Arrangements Made for Plea of Guilty.

The case against Charles H. Everly, defaulting teller of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., was continued Tuesday in Judge Muench's court to Jan. 5, by agreement between the prosecution and Attorney James Shaner, representing Everly.

Shaner was asked if Everly intended to plead guilty and asked for the minimum sentence, five years. He said no arrangement for that had been made with Circuit Attorney Sager, and Sager confirmed this. It was the belief of those familiar with the case that the continuance was obtained in order to give Everly time to straighten out his affairs.

After the shortage in Everly's accounts was discovered he fled to Colorado, but was found there and brought back to St. Louis after several months.

EIGHT DEGREES TONIGHT'S COLD

This Is the "Minimum" and May Not Be Reached.

The weather will suffer a relapse Wednesday, with increasing temperature, the weather man thinks. Tuesday night its condition will be normal.

The official forecast: "Fair and much colder Tuesday night; Wednesday fair, with rising temperature; brisk northerly winds, shifting to southerly Wednesday. The minimum temperature tonight will be about eight degrees above zero. The lowest temperature this winter prevailed Monday night at White River, Ontario—54 degrees below zero. Cold followed in the wake of a storm area which has moved in the past 24 hours from the Upper Missouri Valley to Pittsburg, and light snow fell in the sections it affected. In the Northwest it is warmer.

The Illinois River will rise at Peoria, where it is now 21 feet, the Mississippi River will rise between Hannibal and Chester. It is now 27 feet at St. Louis. The Lower Missouri will rise all along its course.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 22.—The Pennsylvania Bridge fill, which protects this town from several acres of water, is washing out below and the fire bells are sounding the alarm. The break is 50 feet long and the water is coming in slowly but surely.

The citizens are terrorized. Business has been suspended. It is certain that the greater part of the town will be inundated.

MANY HOMELESS IN TWO INDIANA TOWNS.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 22.—The break in the Wabash River levee, a mile south of this city, near the village of Taylorville, has widened from 15 feet last night to several hundred feet today, and the surrounding country for miles is inundated. The river is still rising.

One thousand inhabitants of the villages of Taylorville and West Terre Haute are homeless. The majority of them are in a pitiable plight, with neither food, clothing nor shelter.

The break came so suddenly that few were able to get their belongings to high ground. Hundreds of head of stock and other domestic animals have perished.

Charitable organizations are caring for the homeless.

Frank H. Bocklage, salesman for the John D. Manley Implement Co., charged with the embezzlement of $51, balked a second time Tuesday when taken into Judge Muench's Court to plead to the charge. His inability to decide whether to plead guilty or fight the charge is due to the advice of the two women who claim him as a husband.

They were both in court waiting for Bocklage to appear. The first wife, Mrs. Josephine Huppert Bocklage of 3710 Cook avenue, found a chance to speak to him. She advised him to plead guilty and "take his medicine."

The second wife, Mrs. Clara Frohberger Bocklage of 222 North Compton avenue, didn't get a chance to speak to Bocklage, but Monday night she had urged him to fight the charge.

When called before the Judge to declare whether he would plead guilty and take a two years' sentence or stand trial and take whatever the jury gave him, he stood for five minutes without saying a word. This was a repetition of his performance Monday when Judge Muench gave him a night to make his decision.

At the expiration of five minutes' indecision he turned to Assistant Circuit Attorney Newton for advice.

Another Day to Think.

"I can't advise you," said Newton. "The State will agree to drop all prosecution if you plead guilty to this one. It is a right accorded you and you can take advantage of it or not. The State will not hold this offer out much longer and you may be assessed a greater punishment by a jury if you go to trial."

Newton walked away and Bocklage thought over the matter again. He turned to Deputy Sheriff Boepple and asked him what he should do. Boepple repeated Newton's remarks and walked away. Judge Muench waited a few minutes longer and than told the deputies to lead the man back to the prisoners' cage.

"Let him come up tomorrow," said the judge. "He may be ready then."

After Bocklage had been led back to the cage the second wife made another effort to talk to him, but the first wife was already close to the wire screen, where she remained until he, with other prisoners, was led downstairs to the Jail.

After he went into court Monday and agreed to plead guilty and accept a sentence of two years in the Penitentiary Bocklage withdrew the plea when he was informed it would not act as a bar to subsequent prosecution on other charges.

He was sent down to Jail. About ten minutes before the closing hour for jail visitors Mrs. Clara Frohberger Bocklage called at the Four Courts and got into the Jail on a pass issued from the Jailer's office. She had a short talk with Bocklage and told him to stand his ground and fight for his liberty.

Bigamy Charge Unlikely.

The Jail doors had hardly been closed against visitors when Mrs. Josephine Huppert Bocklage called and wanted to have an interview with her husband. Under the rules of the Jail she could not gain admission. She then went to the Circuit Attorney and through him had Bocklage taken to the Sheriff's office, where she had a talk with him, and gave him advice contrary to that given by the second wife.

Circuit Attorney Sager has come to the conclusion that a bigamy charge will not stand against Bocklage, although Mrs. Clara Frohberger Bocklage declares she was legally married to him in Little Rock last April. Bocklage was married to his first wife at Washington, Mo., Nov. 27, 1900. She is 30 years old, being two years his senior. The second wife is 22 years old, being one year younger than Bocklage. Sager says he has not sufficient legal evidence of the second marriage.

There was a striking resemblance between the two women, who claimed the implement salesman as their husband. Both have brown hair and blue eyes and rosy cheeks and wear nose glasses. The first wife wore a black dress and furs when she visited the Four Courts, and the second had a brown waist and furs to match in color. The two women dressed their hair in almost exactly the same style.

Bocklage was arrested Saturday night on the embezzlement charge. The two women discovered his double life after his arrest, and decided to prosecute him.

It was stated at the Circuit Attorney's office Tuesday that charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and signing his first wife's name to a check will not be pressed against Bocklage.

VANDIVER ASKS PROBE.

Wants Charges Growing Out of 1904 Campaign Investigated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 22.—W. D. Vandiver, State Superintendent of Insurance, today requested Representatives Simmons of Shelby and Muir of Lewis County to notify the House that he desired an investigation of the charge that he had collected contributions from public service corporations in the 1904 State campaign. Vandiver at that time was chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee. Vandiver has remained silent under the charges of his political enemies and his friends say he is now determined to have a complete inquiry made into the affairs of the Democratic State Committee.

Gov. Folk is said to favor a rigid campaign of investigation, but he wants it to cover the campaign receipts and expenditures of both Democratic and Republican parties between 1900 and 1906.

The House passed a bill by Johnson of Charlton County, changing the time of probating wills from five to two years. The vote was 124 to 9.

DISCRIMINATIONS CHARGED.

Missourian Says Wabash Ruined His Stock Business.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTGOMERY CITY, Mo., Jan. 22.—C. H. Munford has filed suit against C. W. White, O. E. Porter and the Wabash freight agent here for $1500 damages. He alleges that by discrimination the defendants have destroyed his stock business.

Munford asserts that the defendants received through the Wabash agent here double-decked cars and were permitted to ship hogs below and sheep above to the amount of from twenty to twenty-two thousand pounds, when they should not have carried over 17,500 pounds, and that by getting this discrimination defendants were enabled to pay more for stock than the plaintiff.

At the Four Courts the boys said they would like to continue their journey. They gave their names and ages as Harry Hein, 16; Frank Newmann, 15, and Harry Fisher, 16. Fisher was the leader of the crowd. He carried a revolver. The other boys had planned to get their weapons from the Indians that Fisher killed.

ANTI-TIPPING BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Members Cheer When Tubbs' Measure Goes Through by 86 to 39.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—The anti-tipping bill, introduced by Representative Tubbs of Gasconade, was passed by the House of Representatives this morning. The vote was 86 to 39.

When the result of the roll call was announced there was cheering from every member of the House. The bill is up in the Senate, and immediate action is expected by that body on the measure, which has been the cause of more merriment in the Assembly than any other.

The anti-tipping bill, which prohibits the giving or receipt of tips and prohibits hotel and restaurant keepers from permitting employes to receive tips, was introduced two years ago by Dr. Tubbs, and was generally looked upon as a freak bill. Tubbs lost his bill two years ago, but was in earnest regarding it and again introduced it this year. Those who braved their waiter and porter constituents and voted in favor of the bill were:

CROSSING RIVER, 3 DROWN.

Swift Current Catches Wagon Near Exeter, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EXETER, Mo., Jan. 22.—Word was received here today of the drowning of a man, woman and child by the name of Evertson, while they were trying to cross White River in a wagon, 29 miles east of here, last evening. The family was en route from Oklahoma to their home in Arkansas when the accident happened.

Evertson attempted to cross the swollen stream, but the wagon was caught by driftwood and upset, the occupants being thrown into the swift current. Persons living near the river called to the man, telling him of the danger, but were unable to make him hear on account of the roaring waters. Efforts to rescue them were futile. Evertson was seen in a drift with the child in his arms, but before the rescuers could get to them they were swept downstream. The woman was not seen from the time the wagon overturned until her body was found three miles down the stream. The body of the child was found about fifty yards from where the accident happened, lodged in a drift. The man's body was found in a drift 100 yards from where the woman's body was found. The horses were drowned and the wagon and contents were swept away.

FOLK'S ANTI-TRUST BILL PASSES HOUSE

Republicans Oppose Measure Which Regulates Prices in the State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—The Governor's anti-discrimination bill passed the House this morning by a vote of 117 to 14. A few Republicans voted against the measure, which was introduced by Griffith of Bates County.

The bill provides that no firm or corporation shall sell its products higher in one part of the State than another, cost of transportation being considered. A penalty of a fine of $500 to $5000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year is provided. The penalty may be enforced against a firm or any member.

The bill is aimed at trusts which reduce their prices in one part of the State to drive out independent competition, and will affect the Oil Trust and Beef Trust.

HOLES BORED IN VESSEL.

Captain and Mate Face Life Imprisonment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

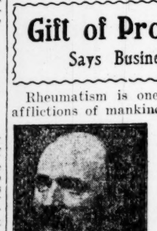

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 22.—For the first time that the crime has ever been charged in this State, Gilbert M. Tower, formerly captain, and Haskel Davis, mate of the derelict schooner Fortuna, of Jonesport, Me., which went ashore near Highland Light, Cape Cod, a month ago, will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Burleigh, at Augusta, it being alleged that they scuttled and abandoned their own schooner to get the insurance money, $600. The penalty for this crime is life imprisonment.

Capt. Tower and Mate Haskell rowed into this port Monday morning, Dec. 3, in a small dory, asserting that the Fortuna had struck and sunk off Alden's Rock, outside the harbor, the night before.

Two weeks later the Fortuna drifted ashore near Highland Light, on Cape Cod, Mass., Edward M. and Hugh S. Sawyer, of Jonesport, who were half owners in the vessel with Capt. Tower, investigated and found that a dozen big auger holes had been bored in the Fortuna's centerboard box and that her stern planks had been ripped out.

Gift of Providence
Says Business Man

Rheumatism is one of the greatest afflictions of mankind. Old and young, rich and poor suffer alike with this painful malady. Probably no two medicines now known have done so much to relieve sufferers from the disease as the preparations with which L. T. Cooper has swept the country.

G. F. BALDWIN

Mr. G. F. Baldwin, manager of the Capitol Lumber Co., 1712 W. New York St., Indianapolis, who has recently used the new medicines, says: "I suffered with inflammatory rheumatism for about a year and tried everything without the slightest relief. I was confined to my bed a good part of the time and suffered greatly. A short time ago I secured a bottle of Cooper's New Discovery and began taking it on Saturday. By Wednesday, just four days later, every trace of Rheumatism had disappeared. I consider the medicine a Godsend."

Besides Rheumatism Cooper's New Discovery cures Catarrh, Stomach and Kidney Trouble, Blood Diseases, and strange as it may seem, the worst and longest standing cases yield as readily as any.

The remedies are prepared by The Cooper Medicine Company of Dayton, Ohio. They are known as Cooper's New Discovery and Cooper's Quick Relief. The medicines are sold for one dollar per bottle and fifty cents per bottle respectively, and can be secured in this city of all druggists.

CULLOM ELECTED FOR FIFTH TIME

Illinois Senate and House Name Him United States Senator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 22.—Senator Shelby M. Cullom was elected a fifth time today to represent Illinois in the National Senate. The House and Senate voted separately today. Tomorrow the two houses will meet in joint session to ratify today's action.

Practically no interest was taken in the cut and dried proceedings, the galleries being empty. Since the primaries last fall, when Ex-Gov. Richard Yates was a candidate in opposition to Senator Cullom for the Republican nomination, "Uncle Shelby's" re-election has been assured, and it is this fact that makes his fifth election so different from any of the other four. Six years ago the fight between Cullom and Tanner developed the fiercest political contest in the State's history.

On this occasion there was not a ripple to disturb the calm of the proceedings. Senator Cullom finding it even unnecessary to leave Washington or come home for the election. The empty honor of being nominated by the minority was conferred upon Judge Carroll C. Boggs of Fairfield, a former member of the Illinois Supreme Court.

In placing Cullom in nomination, Representative Cicero J. Lindly of Bond, called attention to the fact that the members of the Assembly, for the first time in the history of the State, are instructed for United States Senator by the vote of the rank and file of the party. This method he characterized as the nearest approach to an expression of the people for their choice which could be devised until such a time as the Constitution of the United States is amended so as to give the people the right to elect the member of the United States Senate by a direct vote.

EXPRESS COMPANIES AS COMMON CARRIERS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 22.—Representative Campbell S. Hearn of Quincy today introduced in the House a bill making express companies in the State common carriers and placing them under the control of the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission. The bill is copied largely after the Texas and New York laws, and is the same measure that was introduced by Mr. Hearn in the Forty-fourth General Assembly, but which failed to come out of the committee.

The Bill gives the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission power to establish reasonable rates for all classes of merchandise and other commodities handled by express companies and requires the express companies to print these rates and post them for the convenience of the public.

Penalties for rate cutting and rebating are fixed at $500 for each offense. Companies are required to file with the commission certified copies of all agreements between them and other express companies or railroads and other transportation lines of the State and also copies of all joint schedules and rates.

Local Option Bill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 22.—Senator Potter of Moultrie introduced a local option bill, which, with one exception, is similar in all respects to the measure being drawn up by the Anti-Saloon League. The clause in Senator Potter's bill not contained in the Anti-Saloon League's bill of last session provides that 25 per cent of all the revenue collected under the act shall be paid into the treasury of the county in which the revenue is collected. The Anti-Saloon League's bill has not yet made its appearance in either branch of the General Assembly.

SHAWNEETOWN IS SAFE.

Residents Believe Danger of Water Sweeping City Is Over.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., Jan. 22.—Although the river has reached a stage of 49.2 feet the levee is still holding and but small fears of its breaking are entertained. All danger of the town being submerged by water is thought to have passed. The reason that the lower part of the town is covered by water is because it is completely penned in on all sides.

Many of the residents have fled from the city in terror, but there are ample provisions on hand for those remaining. A shipment of 100 tents arrived Sunday and were quickly distributed to the homeless. The levee is still being patroled by armed guards.

No lives have been lost in the flood, but in the farming lowlands many cattle and horses have been drowned. The greatest objects of need here today are rubber boots, and rush orders have been sent for large quantities of them.

Alarm that was felt over two houses seen floating down the river was dispelled when it was learned that the tenants had taken timely warning and made their escape. Trains are running on a fairly good schedule.

HE MAKES THE DEAF TO HEAR

Remarkable Scenes at the Planters Hotel in the Office of Mr. Geo. P. Way, Inventor of the Way Ear Drum.

A representative of the Post-Dispatch called on Mr. Way yesterday at the Planters Hotel and found him busily engaged in examining and advising with a large number of deaf persons who had called to consult him.

No one who has not seen Mr. Way at his work can form any idea of the wonderful manner in which the Way Ear Drums restore the hearing of the deaf.

Mr. Way, whose home office is in the Majestic Building, Detroit, Mich., does not claim to cure every case of deafness. In all cases he tells his patients plainly just what can be done for them.

Mr. Way will be in St. Louis, at the Planters Hotel, until February 2d, inclusive. All who are deaf should be sure to call on him.

Take the elevator and the attendant will show you to Mr. Way's parlors.

HUSBANDS EASY TO OBTAIN, SAYS MRS. MARX, WHO KNOWS

Chances Came Thick and Fast After She Was Granted a Divorce —She Was Courted by the Insurance Man, the Barber and Other Men.

MRS. ANNA MARX, a cook, buxom and loquacious, who is employed at 4142 West Pine boulevard, cannot understand why any woman should have trouble in getting a husband. She had four chances—one, two, three, like that—in less than no time after she obtained a divorce from her first husband, and all she had to do was take her pick.

There was Flaherty, who worked at night, and Shannahan, the insurance man, and Ziegler, the barber, and Marx, who was the winner, and the blithe divorcee might have passed them all up for the policeman on the beat, but he had a wife and the mild flirtation that she carried on with him was only to pass away the time.

The data about the many suitors of Mrs. Marx was brought out Monday afternoon in Division No. 7 of the Circuit Court in the habeas corpus suit brought by George Malsch of 4163 Osceola street, the former husband of Mrs. Marx, for possession of their 11-year-old daughter, Lillie.

Mrs. Marx's daughter, Mrs. Rose Calvert, and several of her former neighbors, when she lived at 7708 Michigan avenue, had testified about the wooing of the different suitors. Mrs. Calvert said nearly every time she went home at noon she found the insurance agent, whose name was "Shannahan, or something like that," sitting at the dinner table, and Mrs. Emma J. Cortner of Arloe had said that the insurance agent often stayed around all day. Ziegler, it appeared, called in the evening, and Flaherty, who worked at night, dropped in on his way home early in the morning. Between times, according to the witnesses, Mrs. Marx found time to exchange airy persiflage with Eichelberger, the cop.

When Mrs. Marx was put on the stand to explain these things she rose to the occasion gracefully.

She made it plain that when she obtained a divorce from Malsch it was Flaherty who had the first chance to "buckle up" with her, but he lagged when opportunity knocked and missed his chance. She was moved to tell about that by the testimony of her daughter that she had caught them hugging.

"About me hugging and kissing that man," she said, "that may be true. Maybe she did see us in a lovin' embrace."

She extended her arms by way of illustration and Stenographer Taylor, who was almost in reach, drew back discreetly.

"That is all true," she went on. "We thought the doors were locked. We did not know she was there at that time. We were engaged to be married. At that time I was divorced. I was divorced and engaged to be married."

"And this gentleman courted you at that time?" suggested Harold Johnson, her attorney.

"Sure."

"And this was in your parlor?"

"No. In my kitchen."

"Did you marry the man afterwards?"

"No, sir, because he was a little slow and didn't have work. I said to myself, 'Tush, if I have to look for something to do'—"

"You intended at that time to marry him?"

"Sure, sure."

"He had requested you?"

"Sure."

"And under these circumstances you permitted him to do that?"

Had to Speak Up.

"Sure. He used to call sometimes. He worked at night, and passed by at 5 o'clock in the morning. After Malsch got married again, I said, 'John,' now Malsch is married and I won't get any more money from him, and we've got to do something.' It had to come to a close. I didn't care just as long as Malsch wasn't married again, as long as I got $2 worth of groceries a week, and I was doing a little washing, and we were living very happy, me and my child, but then I wanted to hurry matters, so I thought now we would be married. That was right after the World's Fair.

Policeman at Play.

One of the witnesses had testified that one evening when Policeman Eichelberger called in the gloaming and was talking to Mrs. Marx they tried to make Lillie think that he was her papa.

"How about the policeman?" Mrs. Marx was asked.

"That policeman is a good friend of mine," she said. "I was a neighbor of Eichelberger's and he helped me many a time. Malsch used to be prowling around and I asked for protection. That is how I got acquainted. I know his wife well. This child happened to come in the room from the outside and we had been sitting in the dark about 7 or 8 p. m. It was in the summer time. He was playing with the child. He was hiding and she said, 'Who is that?' It was dark and he said, 'This is papa.' She said: 'No, it is not papa,' and he changed his voice, just like a man will, 'Ooof, oof,' like that. That is all there is to that affair. That is the whole thing about Eichelberger."

She told of marrying Marx in Texas and was asked if she had gone there with him.

Could Hardly Understand.

"No," she answered. "He went on ahead. I wasn't sure that I wanted to marry him. Yes, I was sure that I wanted to marry him, all right, too, but I wasn't sure whether he meant business. He stuttered so much that you couldn't hardly understand him. And besides, he drank so much that I wasn't sure whether it was him talking or the whisky in him talking. So I thought I would let him go ahead and if he wrote back that he wanted to marry me I would go. He wrote and I went."

DYER CASE RECORD GOES TO CONGRESS

Bill to Reimburse Akins Is Held Up, Pending Investigation.

Representative Barthold appeared before the House Committee on Claims Tuesday morning in behalf of his bill to reimburse T. J. Akins, Subtreasurer at St. Louis, in the sum of $61,500, the amount of the shortage in the Subtreasury, according to a dispatch from Washington.

After hearing a statement of the case by Barthold, the Committee decided to postpone the hearing until a transcript of the testimony in the Dyer case could be had. They will also send for the bonds of Treasurer Akins and former Paying Teller Dyer.

The Committee will hold another meeting as soon as these documents are secured. It is the understanding that no action will be taken in the Senate on Senator Stone's bill, which carries the same provisions as Barthold's bill, until after the House Committee has completed its investigation.

Here's to Hadji Omar!

For He Discovered Coffee

The earliest record credits Hadji Omar, an Arabian dervish, with the discovery of coffee in the year 1285, while almost dying of hunger in the wilderness. After failing to relish the only bitter curious looking berries, as a last resort, to satisfy the craving for food, he made a fire, roasted some of the berries and tried to soften them with water. Finding this too tedious, he eagerly drank the water, and to his great surprise found it both nourishing and refreshing. Returning to Mocha, in the district of Yemen, on the Red Sea, he told the wise men of his discovery, and after brewing and serving some of the wonderful beverage he was feted. He was made a saint, so popular did his discovery cause him to become.

JUST THE TRUTH

Sallie Van Wick, Vice-Pres. of the Anderson Driving Club, Atlanta, says: "Knowing how prevalent hard colds are at this season of the year, I want to tell the people of St. Louis my experience with Vinol, the best cod liver oil preparation in the world.

"I contracted a severe cold and cough, and tried different cod liver oil preparations and cough remedies; they only upset my stomach and gave no relief. I finally sent for my physician. He advised me to try Vinol. I found it was delicious to take, and did not upset my stomach, but it built up my general health, and made me feel stronger and better than I have for years.

"If Vinol does for St. Louis people what it did for me it will be worth $100 a bottle to them."

The reason Vinol is so efficacious is because all the useless oil has been eliminated from the medicinal elements of cods' livers and tonic iron added, and there never has been sold a remedy equal to Vinol for chronic coughs, colds and bronchial troubles or to build up a weak, run-down system. We will return the money in every case where it fails to benefit. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

NOTE.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in St. Louis, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

SENATOR CALLS MOVE TO UNSEAT SMOOT HYSTERIA

Sutherland of Utah Speaks in Senate in Defense of His Colleague.

ATTACKS HIS DETRACTORS

Says Witnesses Against Mormon Were Drunkards or of Unsound Mind.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — Senator Sutherland today came to the defense of his colleague, Senator Smoot of Utah, defending his right to retain his seat in the United States Senate. Prefacing his argument with observations on the gravity of the charges against Mr. Smoot, the junior Utah Senator said if Smoot was a violator, or recognized any allegiance to any power paramount to the allegiance he owed his flag and country; or if by reason of his conduct he was so morally unfit that his continued presence in the Senate would bring reproach or shame upon it, he should not retain his seat; otherwise, he should.

Discussing the charge that Smoot had taken an oath as apostle that conflicted with his obligations as a Senator, the Senator stated that this charge had originally been made by the same man who had charged Smoot with polygamy; and that of the five witnesses who testified to it, four had been shown by uncontradicted evidence to be persons of bad repute, "drunkards or of unsound mind." There was a large amount of evidence, said he, given by thoroughly reputable citizens of the State, to the effect that no such oath was taken, and that, taking all of the testimony together, this charge was utterly discredited.

The two charges remaining were that polygamy and polygamous cohabitation were still being practiced by adherents of the Mormon Church, and that the church interefered in political and temporal matters. As to the first charge, the speaker traced the history with reference to the growth of polygamy until its final abandonment by the church in 1890.

As to the charge that there has been polygamous marriage since the manifesto, he said that he had no means of knowing how many such cases there might have been, but that there had been some he had no doubt. These men occupied a wholly different position from the old polygamists; for them no word of excuse or toleration could be uttered by any honest man.

The Church in Politics.

Discussing the question of the interference of the church in political matters, he traced the history in this respect, showing that when the Mormon people went to Utah in 1847 their movement possessed all the characteristics of a religious exodus.

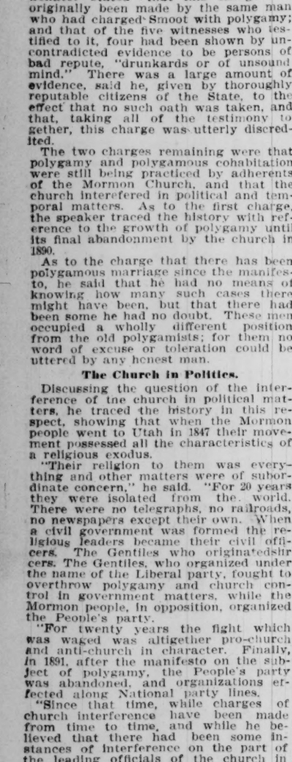

"Their religion to them was everything and other matters were of subordinate concern," he said. "For 20 years they were isolated from the world. There were no telegraphs, no railroads, no newspapers except their own. When a civil government was formed the religious leaders became their civil officers. The Gentiles who originated their cers. The Gentiles, who organized under the name of the Liberal party, fought to overthrow polygamy and church control in government matters, while the Mormon people, in opposition, organized the People's party.

"For twenty years the fight which was waged was altigether pro-church and anti-church in character. Finally, in 1891, after the manifesto on the subject of polygamy, the People's party was abandoned, and organizations effected along National party lines.

"Since that time, while charges of church interference have been made from time to time, and while he believed that there had been some instances of interference on the part of the leading officials of the church in political matters, on the whole there has been marvelous advance.

Mr. Smoot himself, said Mr. Sutherland, had always insisted that the practice of polygamy should be abandoned, had never been a polygamist and not a line of testimony could be found which indicated that he had ever advocated the practice of polygamy. He said that Mr. Smoot's whole life had been clean and above reproach, that the demand of the petitions that he should be removed from the United States Senate in order that he might not from that exalted place make war upon the American home, was "hysteria, pure and simple."

CATARRH DESTROYS BEAUTY

Catarrh spoils good looks—there isn't a vestige of doubt about it.—Red nose will come from constant use of the handkerchief—weak eyes are caused by inflammation of the internal membrane. And there are other disagreeable things about catarrh—bad breath for one thing—and the snuffles for another — and hawking and spitting.

Perhaps your case hasn't reached that stage yet—but it will unless you take prompt action and intelligent action Kill the germs; that's the only way to cure catarrh—and there is only one remedy that will kill the germs and that remedy is

HYOMEI

The Antiseptic Air Cure

Just breathe Hyomei in, and the medicated and soothing properties of the antiseptic air will reach every nook and corner of the membrane of the nose and throat; it will destroy the germs, allay the inflammation and drive out the foul odor. Hyomei is guaranteed to cure catarrh and colds and coughs or money back.

Suffered Fifteen Years

I suffered fifteen years with catarrhal trouble. I went to two different hospitals for treatment but without any lasting benefit. I have used only two bottles of Hyomei and have been cured by the remedy. It has made full and complete recovery.

WHITE PLAGUE DEATH FACING ONE OUT OF 10

Consumption Is Menace to Be Fought, Says Dr. Brown.

SCOURGE IS INVIDIOUS

You Can Grind Up the Bacilli, but It Won't Alarm Them.

TINY FOE VERY DEADLY

Education Hope of Race Physician Tells Academy of Science.

St. Louis is a first-class health resort for the treatment of consumption, Dr. O. H. Brown told members of the Academy of Science Monday evening at their headquarters, 3817 Olive street. He is an instructor in the medical department of St. Louis University, and his address was on "The Problem of Tuberculosis." In the middle of it he startled his audience by declaring that climate has little and altitude almost nothing, to do with cure of the malady; and he followed this up by telling, simply, how it can be cured right a thome.

Dr. Brown spoke first of consumption as one of the most universal scourges, not only of man, but of domestic animals, and he said sometimes even reptiles and birds suffer from it. Man may contract it by infection from an animal. Census reports show, Dr. Brown said, that 1,050,000 persons in the United States suffer from it—about one-sixtieth of the population. One-tenth of the population, he said, died from it, and he sent this point somewhat unpleasantly home by remarking that one-tenth of the audience before him faced that death.

In St. Louis this means that about 75,000 will die of consumption; in Missouri, 300,000; in the United States, 7,000,000.

Dr. Brown then summed up the quaint features of the tubercular bacilli as follows:

You can grind them with mortar in a pestle, and it won't hurt them; but if they are exposed to sunlight, with no protection of dust or dirt they perish quickly.

Lye Kills the Bacilli.

The white corpuscles of the blood destroy them—digest them—when they are not present in the system in too great numbers.

They are present, or give evidence of having been present, in 95 per cent of the bodies that go to the autopsy table.

When they affect a human tissue, as the lungs, a sort of abscess forms, and this consuming process gives rise to the name of the disease.

In 24 hours one and one-half billions or more of them are thrown off from a tuberculous patient.

The lye used to clean your sink kills them. It is excellent for sterilizing.

A bacillus remains alive outside the human body, in layers of dirt or dust, 70 hours.

It must be magnified 1000 or more times before the human eye can detect it.

Consumption is preventible, and it is curable. Dr. Brown assured his hearers. It is not hereditary, although a weak constitution, making persons more liable to its inroads, may be inherited.

Is an Insidious Foe.

"Of all diseases none may more properly be described as insidious than consumption," Dr. Brown said. "Sometimes the patient is only conscious of being slightly 'run down' when the malady has gained such headway that it is nearly impossible to check it.

"It is a deplorable fact that physicians are too often superficial in their examination of patients suspected of being subject to the disease. Sometimes they do not even make a microscopic examination, and in consequence the disease is often not discovered until it is too late, or almost too late.

"Many intelligent persons are ignorant of the infectious character of tuberculosis and of the precautions necessary to prevent its spread, and for that reason the most imperative need is to educate the public. People must be taught that the disease is infectious, that the bacteria are thrown off by the patient and that they remain alive unless exposed to sunlight.

"When this is generally known tenements will be better lighted and better ventilated, street cars will be less crowded, people won't inhale dust and will be more careful as to their dress and food.

Hope in Education.

"Pamphlets telling of the character of tuberculosis and free dispensaries where patients too poor to obtain private treatment may be cared for are absolutely necessary. The National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has done much good along these lines, and its St. Louis branch distributed 25,000 pamphlets last year among the school children of St Louis. It caused the passage of a law for a State sanitarium, and the corner-stone has been laid. It now has under way a tag to compel the registration of every case of consumption.

"In the past ten years the ravages from consumption have been decreased 50 per cent in New York and Pittsburg. There is no reason why the same thing should not be accomplished in St. Louis. It would mean the saving of 40,000 lives a year in St. Louis, and the economic value of this, even if you disregard the humanitarian view, is almost incalculable.

"A generation ago patients from the East were flocking to Illinois in the belief that it was the best place for them, and some of them found cures there, but more found only rest. A high altitude is advisable, but it is not essential, and climate in itself plays only a minor part in cures. St. Louis is a first-class health resort for the cure of consumption.

Life in Air May Cure.

"In doing this, the patient should be given a room to himself, if possible—certainly a bed to himself. He may live in a tent in the back or front yard, on a veranda or the roof, just so he gets plenty of air and sunlight.

"Rest is paramount—enforced, absolute rest. The patient must recline 24 hours a day. His food must be regularly prescribed and details as to his clothing and bathing should be supervised by a visiting nurse or a physician. This system, as tried in St. Louis, has produced excellent results, and it is the system by which deaths from the disease have been reduced one-half elsewhere."

Dr. Brown gave a technical description of the progress of the disease, and of the experimental work done by great specialists in studying it. He told of cases which seemed hopeless, but were cured by vaccination with tuberculous serum—a recent application of a discovery made many years ago.

"The problem of tuberculosis must and can be solved," Dr. Brown continued. "The disease is easily preventible, with proper precautions, and it can always be cured if proper treatment is begun in time.

Spitting Is a Peril.

"Proper receptacles for sputum should be placed in all homes, in public buildings, streets and vehicles. Spitting into anything but one of these should be stopped. Cleanliness, a liberal use of soap and water, and simple common sense precautions wil l work wonders toward checking the spread of the disease."

BUSCH CHEERFUL AT BALMY AIKEN

Patient Stands Trip Better Than Family and Physicians Expected.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 22.—Adolphus Busch arrived here in his private car last night at 10:30. The train was half an hour late. He was somewhat weak from travel, but his condition was much better than the family and Dr. Ludeking expected. In his apartment in the private car Mr. Busch talked freely, declaring himself improved.

Almost immediately on arrival his car was transferred to the Southern Railway train for Aiken, S. C., and reached there about midnight. Dr. McManus, a resident physician, advised that he remain in his car until this morning, as the weather was about freezing point there, and he did so. At 10 a. m. he was removed to the Park in Pines Hotel, near Aiken, where he is now resting quietly. The climate is warm and dry and his friends are highly pleased with the chances of early recovery.

The hotel where Mr. Busch will stop is regarded as one of the finest in the country for pulmonary troubles of any kind, and doctors and family are sanguine over the prospects. The plans now are to remain here six weeks, and if by that time Mr. Busch is sufficiently recovered he will leave for his country estate at Pasadena, Cal., to stay until his health is entirely restored.

GRIEVED BY ARRAIGNMENT.

Sharp Thought Auto Arrest Aspersion on Character.

Fidelio C. Sharp of 4532 Lindell boulevard, one of six drivers of automobiles arraigned in the City Hall Police Court Monday for exceeding the speed limit, told Judge Tracy that he regarded the arraignment as a blemish on his character, as he had never intentionally violated the law. He did not deny the testimony of Policeman Cooney, who arrested him Sunday for speeding on Lindell boulevard, between King's highway and Newstead avenue. Judge Tracy reminded him that he was not accused of a criminal ouense, and discharged him.

Fines of $10 and costs each were imposed on the following: Ernest Stehan, a negro, chauffeur for E. E. Harlan of 5017 Vernon avenue; Ewing Hill Jr. of 4477 Westminster place; Gustav Rosberg, chauffeur for City Treasurer Franciscus, and J. Y. S. Barrett of 4520 West Pine boulevard. Dr. Floyd Stewart of 5215 Delmar boulevard was discharged.

Pre-Inventory prices rule throughout this entire establishment

EVERY department is making a determined effort to clean up stocks before inventory. Odds and ends, broken lines and winter goods make no showing to speak of on the stock sheets—they are "taken" at a great loss—and the department managers know it is advisable to sell these goods at any price rather than invoice them. This clearing movement is not confined to any particular lines, but affects the store in general. All grades of merchandise are involved. The prices in force on winter goods would lead you to imagine that summer was at hand, and the savings on merchandise meeting everyday requirements are unusual.

GREAT BRITAIN IS ANXIOUS TO MAKE AMENDS

She Hopes Swettenham Didn't Write That Letter, but Will Investigate.

DISMISSAL IS PROBABLE

Foreign Office Expected to Rebuke Him, Then "Separate Him From Service."

Jamaican Governor Cables Root He Is Grateful for Aid.

"JAMAICA, Jan. 20.

"The Hon. Elihu Root, State Secretary, Washington:

"Jamaica profoundly grateful to Your Excellency for expression of sympathy and for the very practical aid so kindly given by Admiral Davis, and the entire particular service squadron of the United States Navy.

"GOVERNOR."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1907, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—All the ministers continue to hope that Gov. Swettenham's amazing letter to Rear-Admiral Davis will prove to be an invention. To that end they have ordered an investigation in Jamaica.

But being extremely humiliated by the tone of the letter, be its justification what it may, the Government dispatched its letter of thanks to Washington last night.

Obviously this message was drafted to placate public feeling in America, to smooth over the unpleasant incident, to put forward Swettenham as the originator of the message as an ingenious diplomatic device to exhibit him as kissing the rod which an indignant foreign office brandishes over him.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent is informed, at the Colonial office, that up to the time of writing not a word from Swettenham, regarding the letter, has been received there.

So, during his silence and lacking an explanation from him, the Minister's faint hopes are vanishing. In fact, the letter and every other aspect of the incident has caused consternation here. The vast majority of persons cannot believe that the Governor sent such a missive to the Admiral; are only too anxious to doubt its authenticity.

The Times voices the general public sentiment when it says that the only excuse possible for such a letter is that Gov. Swettenham was overcome by strain and excitement when he wrote it.

But the impression grows that Gov. Swettenham is treating the colonial office with disdain. This impression is strengthened by the fact that the newspaper reports of the earthquake were several hours earlier than his, and when his reports finally came the colonial office criticised them as inadequate. Besides, there is internal evidence to prove that Swettenham wrote the letter to Admiral Davis.

The Governor bears the reputation of being blunt to rudeness. He has passed all his life in ruling "subject races," and his naturally domineering temperament has been accentuated by that experience.

Swettenham is well known in the colonial service as a rabid jingo fire-eater. He has a particularly morbid dislike of Americans and a fear of the growing power of the United States in the Caribbean Sea. He protested strongly against the withdrawing of certain British warships from West Indian naval stations, which was carried out in pursuance of the new policy of concentration adopted by the naval and military experts of the council of the imperial defense.

Swettenham's Nightmare.

Swettenham's mind is deeply imbued with the idea that West Indies are destined to be absorbed by the United States. He contended that the diminution of the visible naval power in west Indian waters would grievously impair British prestige, hasten the Americanization of that region and hurry the realization of the nightmare which haunts him.

Swettenham has some apologists here. They say: "Remember Swettenham's obsession about American designs on the West Indies."

"Remember the frightful, the nerve-straining effects of the earthquake.

"Remembering all this, it is conceivable that Swettenham lost control of himself and in that frame of mind wrote his undignified letter to Rear Admiral Davis."

The Governor has supporters even among the newspapers. The Globe, while acknowledging that "the Americans' intentions were good," justifies Swettenham's repudiation of the Americans' services on the ground that "it would be an intolerable humiliation to have British colonists succored by foreign warships."

Behind this attitude stands partisan politics, of course. The jingoes had been denouncing the present government for diminishing the navy.

"The first fruits of this policy!" they mock now. "No British warships were at Kingston; the suffering Jamaicans had to depend on foreign aid."

The Government cannot overlook Gov. Swettenham's conduct, the best informed politicians believe. Indeed, it is possible, that relying on jingo support at home, he may adopt such an attitude as will compel the Government to remove him.

The message to the American State Department, put as coming from him, indicates that Swettenham is beginning to "climb down." But that cannot save him from receiving a severe rebuke, which will mean the termination of his official career after a short time.

British Press Comments.

The Daily Chronicle this morning describes what the British public regards, in slang phrase, as Gov. Swettenham's "rummy" letter to Admiral Davis, as amazing and adds:

"It exhibits a temper where tact was wanted; it is lacking in dignity, in restraint and in good feeling. It can hardly be read except as a piece of studied offensiveness. It is a deplorable document; in the wrong, even if he was in the right before."

The Standard says: "Perhaps trouble would be saved if we assumed forthwith that Rear Admiral Davis was a trifle too energetic and Gov. Swettenham unduly tenacious of his prerogative."

Most of the morning newspapers seem to regard the incident as already virtually settled, or at any rate, they say the tension of the crisis has been relieved by the admirably toned dispatches exchanged between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States. Some of them add that the most charitable view is that the Governor was suffering from "nervous breakdown" when he wrote the letter.

"It is impossible to express the sense of astonishment with which Englishmen read that extraordinary communication," says the Daily Telegraph. "We can as little hope to convey to the citizens of the United States a just impression of the pain and utter regret with which national opinion on this side of the Atlantic regards one of the most deplorable and unintelligible incidents in the record of Anglo-American relations."

The Morning Post's correspondent at Washington cables:

"I have been informed that the British Government has informally assured the American Government that it will investigate the Jamaica incident and that, if Gov. Swettenham's letter was not justified, it will be withdrawn and an apology offered."

Names of prominent clergymen, university men, politicians and others are published in the Tribune as signed to a statement that newspaper prepared. It declares that, so far from involving any humiliation, the offers of American aid to Jamaica have elicited the unmixed appreciation of the British nation and empire, and it expresses the earnest hope that the Government and people of the United States will be assured officially of the British people's deep gratitude.

Bernard Shaw makes this characteristic utterance on the affair:

Rear Admiral Davis, evidently, is unaccustomed to the manners of the British official classes.

"Gov. Swettenham would naturally regard an American Admiral with a certain superciliousness, first as a foreigner and, probably a dissenter; second, as a member of the naval branch of the service, into which the sons of clergymen and of other professional persons enter freely, and finally, as an officious intruder whose action implied that England could not cope with an earthquake without assistance.

"The Governor probably conceived himself as acting with studied politeness under circumstances of the most presumptuous provocation"

Jamaican Governor Cables Root He Is Grateful for Aid.

"JAMAICA, Jan. 20.

"The Hon. Elihu Root, State Secretary, Washington:

"Jamaica profoundly grateful to Your Excellency for expression of sympathy and for the very practical aid so kindly given by Admiral Davis, and the entire particular service squadron of the United States Navy.

TO SAVE EIFFEL TOWER.

France Will Use It for Wireless Telegraphy.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—The Eiffel Tower, one of the marvels of the Paris Exposition of 1900, will become a permanent institution as a result of the decision of the Government to use it as part of the army wireless telegraph system.

From its great height, 900 feet, the War Department, during the fall army maneuvers, was able to maintain communication with the eastern frontier along the Vosges, and since then the Eiffel Tower station has communicated with Berlin and London. New installations are being made by which regular communication with Algeria and Tunis, the French African colonies, is expected to be assured.

BARTHOLDT RAPS FOLK AND VANDIVER

Congressman Asks Why $28,000 Was Not Returned to St. Louis Police.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—During the debate, which preceded the passage by the House yesterday of Mr. Tillman's bill to prohibit corporations from contributing to political campaign funds, Representative Bartholdt of St. Louis rapped Gov. Folk. The bill now requires only the President's signature to become a law. A House amendment makes the penalty for a guilty corporation a fine of not exceeding $1000 and not less than $250, or imprisonment of not more than a year, or both.

"Mr. Speaker," said Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, who was recognized for three minutes, "with all of this talk about returning campaign contributions, I want to ask why the great reform Governor of Missouri does not return the $28,000 extorted from the poor policemen of St. Louis by his Campaign Committee two years ago. It is a matter of record, through an investigation by the State Senate, that this money was so procured.

"And we would like o know, too, why his campaign manager, W. D. Vandiver then a member of Congress, did not appear before the Investigating Committee. Congress was not in session at the time; he could have gone to Jefferson City and explained where his campaign fund came from. But he got very busy in the East and went to New York for the purpose of avoiding testifying before the Senate Committee."

Mr. Bartholdt declined to permit an interruption from Mr. Rucker of Missouri, who would have challenged the St. Louis Republican to deny that the policemen of St. Louis have not been permitted to contribute to a campaign since the election of Mr. Folk. He also would have asked about the brewers' contributions to the Republican committee in Missouri in 1904.

Democrats, under the leadership of Representatives Williams of Mississippi, Robinson of Arkansas and Hardwick of Georgia, criticised the alleged activity of Republican National Chairman Cortelyou, during the last presidential campaign, in soliciting funds from corporations.

Representative Grosvenor defended Mr. Cortelyou and said his elevation to be Secretary of the Treasury was upon merit. Mr. Grosvenor said he would vote for the bill so as to give the people an opportunity to see how bad a failure it would be.

STOLE EXAMINATION PAPERS

Yeatman High School Boys Confess to Guilt.

Principal Knox of the Yeatman High School is deliberating what punishment he shall impose on two boys who stole lists of questions for examination from a teacher's desk.

The midyear examinations at the school began last Thursday. The boys obtained a key to the desk and took lists out of it Wednesday. The absence of the papers was discovered within an hour, and Principal Knox gave orders to the instructors to change every list of questions for every examination. It meant a night's work for some of the teachers, but it was done, and Principal Knox felt satisfied that the examinations were proceeding without any unfair advantages of some students over others.

Investigation disclosed the identity of the boys who had taken the papers, and they were summoned before the faculty. Each admitted his part in the offense, but shielded his companion and refused to tell who had seen the papers after they were taken. Prof. Knox said Tuesday to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he admired the spirit that prevented the boys from shielding themselves at the expense of others.

Twelve students, some boys and some girls, copied the papers after they were taken from the desk. The boys who took them are 16 years old and are taking mixed classes in the freshman and sophomore terms.

MAD SLAYERS ARE SHUT UP.

Men Who Killed Brothers Sent to Asylum.

Edward Croissant and John C. Straub, each of whom killed his brother during the past summer and was adjudged insane, were taken Tuesday by three Deputy Sheriffs to the Asylum for the Insane at Farmington, the Public Asylum here being overcrowded.

Croissant killed Albert Croissant at Fourth and Locust streets, and Straub killed Charles Straub in Caesar's cafe.

Croissant wore a soldier's uniform, scorning the clothes taken to him by his sisters and father, and refusing to bid them farewell. Straub's beard has grown since he has been imprisoned. He wore a straw hat.

EMMA EAMES HURT.

Dislocates Knee-Cartilage on Eve of Performance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Mme. Emma Eames, the prima donna, dislocated a cartilage of her right knee-cap last night just before she was to appear in a performance, and will probably be prevented from going before the public again for some time. Mme. Eames was billed to sing in Verdi's "Aida," and was ready to leave her apartments at the Hotel Astor with her secretary for the opera house, when she head a pet Dacshund dog whining. She stooped to pick the dog up, when the cartilege suddenly became displaced and she sank to the floor in great pain. Dr. George Jacoby, her physician, was summoned, and he found that the hurt was a severe one. He called Dr. Robert Abbe into consultation and operated upon the injured leg. At the Metropolitan Opera House, before the curtain went up for the performance, Manager Goerlitz told a large audience that Mme. Eames had met with an accident, and could not appear.

Mme. Eames' place was taken by Mme. Boninzgna.

RECOVERS JEWELRY TAKEN BY NEGROES

Bag Containing Mrs. Lockwood's Three Rings Is Found in an Alley.

FATHER MAKES FIND

Young Woman Fought Pluckily When Attacked by the Robbers.

Mrs. Margaret Lockwood of 5233 Vernon avenue recovered Tuesday the jewelry and the bag which two negro youths snatched from her after a struggle, in which she nearly knocked one of the negroes down Monday evening at Union and Vernon avenues. Her father, Richard R. Sandusky, at whose home she lives, found the bag in an alley between Vernon and Raymond avenues, into which the negroes had run after committing the robbery.

The bag, which was valued at $16, had been torn open and irreparably damaged. The money it contained, about $8, was missing, but the jewelry, three rings valued at $200, were untouched in a small velvet case in the bag.

Mrs. Lockwood was returning from a shopping trip downtown early in the evening, when she was attacked. She had stepped from a Hodiamont line car when she noticed two well-dressed negro boys coming toward her. As she stepped from the walk to the street the negroes divided. One of them stepped to her right and seized her bag. He stood still for an instant and Mrs. Lockwood turned toward him and seized the bag with both hands, exclaiming, "No you don't." The negro tried to jerk the bag from her and Mrs. Lockwood struck him several times. She was larger than the negro and at her first blow he staggered backward, but retained his hold and continued to tug at the bag.

Dodged Second Blow.

He dodged the second blow and Mrs. Lockwood knocked off his hat. Then with a jerk he tore the bag from her grasp, breaking the handles, and calling to his companion, ran east in Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Lockwood picked up the hat and ran after them, screaming. She pursued them as far as her father's home, into which she turned and told of the robbery. Mr. Sandusky and his son, Earl, immediately started in pursuit of the negroes.

Tommie Davis, 14 years old, of 5237 Vernon avenue, was playing with other boys in front of his home when the two negroes dashed by. He started in pursuit when Mrs. Lockwood a moment later told them the negroes had robbed her.

Tommie said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday "I ran after them, though, when Mrs. Lockwood told me what they had done. They ran east to Academy avenue and then to an alley between Vernon and Raymond avenues. I was afraid to follow them into the alley. I ran down Raymond avenue and saw them disappear into Maple avenue when I reached King's highway."

Piles

Cured Quickly and Painlessly—No Risk, No Danger.

A Free Trial Package to Convince Sent by Mail to All Who Write.

Common sense is just as necessary (even more so) in medicine as in business or the affairs of every day life. People are getting to know more than they used to. Not so long ago it was the fashion to make all sorts of claims for a medicine, and wind up by asking the reader to go to a drug store and buy a bottle. People won't stand for that kind of thing now. They want proof—tangible proof. They want to try the remedy first, and if they find it to be what is claimed they will be glad enough to go and buy it.

A CONVINCING ARGUMENT.

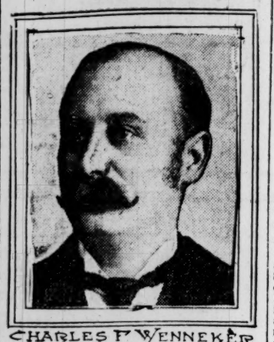

That is why we say to every person suffering from piles or any form of rectal disease, send us your name and we will gladly send you a free trial package. For we know what the result will be. After using the trial you will hurry to your nearest druggist and get a 50c box of Pyramid Pile Cure, now admitted by thousands to be one of the most wonderful reliefs and cures for Piles ever known.

"Please excuse my delay in writing to you sooner in regard to what your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I consider it one of the finest medicines in the world for piles. I suffered untold misery for four months when my wife begged me to send for a 50c box. When it was half gone I know I was better, and it didn't take any begging to get me to send for a second box. I think I am about well now, but if I feel any symptoms of a return I will order at once. I order it from the Pyramid Drug Co. to be sure of the cure. Tell all about this fine remedy for piles.

"And if there is anything in this letter you want to use do so. I received your letter a few days ago. Yours for a remedy like Pyramid Pile Cure. J. J. McELWEE, Coney Grove, Tex., R. R. 9, Box 29.
P. S. Only used two boxes and think I need any more Piles of months standing."

Send a free trial package send to the Pyramid Drug Co., 64 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Michigan. It by return mail and the result both delight and astonish

FOR NEW CRIMINAL COURT.

Prendergast's Bill Seeks to Relieve Congestion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Senator Prendergast introduced today a bill creating a Criminal Court in the city of St. Louis of exclusive jurisdiction in examinations of felonies and a certain class of misdemeanors. It is intended to relieve the Court of Criminal Correction and expedite and facilitate the disposition of criminal accusations in the city of St. Louis.

Representative Wilson of St. Louis introduced a bill to make the Assistant Circuit Attorney in St. Louis appointive by the Circuit Attorney instead of elective.

Representative Biggs of St. Louis introduced a bill to abolish contract labor at the Penitentiary.

Representative Shope of Kansas City introduced a bill abolishing the State Board of Barber Examiners and repealing the law requiring the examination of barbers.

FORAKER STILL FIGHTING.

Roosevelt's Oregon Appointment Is Opposed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—While friends of President Roosevelt are congratulating themselves on the quasi-victory won in connection with the Brownsville resolution, Senators Foraker, Kittredge and Culberson are gally recommending that one of his pet nominations be rejected. As a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee, these Senators unanimously have reported adversely on the appointment of William C. Bristol to be United States Attorney for the District of Oregon.

Mr. Bristol's nomination was strongly urged by former United States District Attorney Heney, who won distinction in connection with the prosecution of the land fraud cases. It was opposed by Senator Fulton, the only Republican Senator from Oregon, who preferred charges against Mr. Bristol. He declared in effect that Mr. Bristol had accepted fees on both sides of a land case. Mr. Bristol retorted by declaring that Senator Fulton opposed him because he intended to prosecute some of the Senator's friends for violating the land laws.

The full Judiciary Committee has not yet acted on the adverse report submitted by Senators Kittredge, Foraker and Culberson.

TO RAISE THEIR PAY.

O'Brien Thinks Equalizers' Salaries Are Too Small.

President O'Brien of the Board of Assessors may obtain the introduction into the Municipal Assembly at a meeting in the near future of a bill to double the pay of the members of the Board of Equalization.

"The present pay of the members of the board is $5 a day," said Assessor O'Brien to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "The session of the board is limited by charter to four weeks, and its membership to four, so that the cost of the work of equalization under the present scale is $120.

"The requirements for a member of the Board of Equalization as stated in the city charter are high. They must be discreet and experienced real estate owners of the city of St. Louis of a prior residence in the city of 10 years. They are appointed by the circuit judges annually the second Monday in March and their meetings begin the third Monday in March. Real estate owners consider a service on the board a distinct honor and there is never a dearth of good men from whom the circuit judges may make their selections. The pay of $5 a day is, however, too small. The Board of License Revision gets $10 a day and their duties are no more arduous than those of the Board of Equalization."

WHO HAS SEEN "FATTY?"

Mother Can't Find Boy, Even With Nickname's Aid.

The nickname, "Fatty," by which Mrs. Etta Grainery of 128 South Fourteenth street has been able heretofore to trail and capture her runaway son, Georgie, 13 years old, is proving unavailing, and Mrs. Grainery has asked the police to find the boy.

He ran away Saturday, but Mrs. Grainery followed him and caught him by asking boys if they had seen "Fatty."

She locked him in a room and took his clothes from him, but he made a key with tools given him Christmas, unlocked the door and escaped Monday. Since then no one reports having seen "Fatty."

Seeing a highwayman in the act of robbing a man, Policeman Voellmecke of the Manchester Avenue District at 11:45 p. m. After giving up the chase Voellmecke returned to the scene of the robbery to interview the victim, but the latter had disappeared.

Mrs. Lena Mazza, conducuting a restaurant at 2133 Olive street, reported to the police that burglars entered her place of business Monday night and stole 20 rings, valued at $100, and $5 in cash.

RAISE FUNDS FOR A HUGE ORCHESTRA

Choral-Symphony Society Has High Hopes for Benefit of City.

A movement to raise a permanent endowment fund to further insure the establishment and maintenance of a great symphony orchestra in St. Louis will shortly be begun by the management of the Choral-Symphony Society, which, after this season, will be known as the St. Louis Symphony Society, having decided to abandon the chorus which has heretofore been a feature of its organization. This new development will, in all likelihood, follow the action of a meeting of Choral-Symphony subscribers to be called for the purpose of ratifying the action of the Board of Managers Monday, deciding upon the elimination of the chorus.

"Subscriptions to this endowment fund will not be limited to wealthy St. Louisans," said a member of the Board of Directors of the Choral-Symphony Society Tuesday. "They may range from $100 to $10,000 or more, according to the means and generosity of the subscribers, and we hope to establish an endowment fund of ample proportions. Thus, in addition to the revenue derived from the 15 annual concerts which we propose to give after this season, besides the regular Sunday afternoon popular concerts, the financial support of the organization will be assured beyond all question. Under the new plan the cost per seat for these regular symphony concerts will not exceed $1 to subscribers. It is our purpose to enlarge and improve the orchestra, placing it in the front rank of such organizations in this country.

"There has been no talk of a successor to Mr. Ernst, the present conductor of the Choral-Symphony Society.

"We decided to abandon the choral feature of the organization because the chorus has always been expensive and troublesome, and we feel that we can obtain better results by devoting our efforts exclusively to the maintenance of a first-class symphony orchestra. If Mr. Galloway or others wish to keep up the choral organization along independent lines, our society will be glad to assist them in every way possible. But our own organization will be exclusively in the interest of the Symphony Orchestra."

WOMAN WIELDS HATCHET.

Burglar Flees to Escape Determined Woman.

Mrs. H. Brandenberger of 4220 Cleveland avenue discovered a burglar in her home and put him to flight with a hatchet. The man was ransacking a cupboard drawer in the kitchen when she came upon him. She picked up a hatchet that was within easy reach and started after the intruder.

The man did not wait for the blow to fall, but turned and jumped through a side window to the yard. He escaped by leaping a fence in the rear.

The man entered the house Monday night through the same window by which he left.

PAWNER OF RINGS NOT PROSECUTED

Neither Employer Nor Wife Will Formally Accuse C. O. Kupper.

JEWELS LOST IN SLEEP

Mrs. Kupper Drops Suit Brought to Get Them From Pawnshop.

Charles O. Kupper, a St. Louis real estate man who was arrested in New Orleans and confessed having pawned two diamond rings that did not belong to him, will not be prosecuted.

Kupper told the New Orleans police he had been intrusted with two diamonds by J. F. Dailey & Co., jewelers at 4 Washington avenue, for whom he solicited business as a side line with his real estate employment, and that he had pawned them at a pawnshop in St. Louis. The value of the rings is placed at $200.

J. F. Dailey told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that Kupper's account with him had been satisfactorily settled, and that there would be no prosecution on his part.

Mrs. Kupper, who has been living at 790 North Euclid avenue, was not at home Tuesday when a Post-Dispatch reporter called. Mrs. D. B. Brennan of 4622 Olive street, mother of Mrs. Kupper, said she did not know where her daughter was.

Mrs. Kupper, accompanied by her brother, J. Wallace Brennan, a real estate dealer, with offices in the Fullerton Building, appeared at the office of Justice Spaulding Jan. 12 and had a replevin suit issued to get possession of a diamond ring valued at $200 which she said was her property and had been pawned at a store on Pine street.

She said that, a few nights before, while she was asleep, the ring was removed from her finger. Detectives found the ring at the pawnshop, where a man giving his name as Grant had pawned it for $100. Brennan and a deputy constable called at the pawnshop and wanted to see the ring, but were not permitted to.

Ben Barnett, proprietor of the shop, and his partner, Joe Van Raalte, were summoned to appear before Justice Spaulding next Friday to show cause why they would not turn over the ring to the Court. The case was dismissed Monday, having been settled out of court.

Brennan told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that a compromise had been reached and the ring returned to Mrs. Kupper, and that Kupper would not be prosecuted by Mrs. Kupper or himself.

HEALTH OFFICERS SEEK PHYSICIANS' HELP IN FIGHT AGAINST CONSUMPTION.

The Kansas and Minnesota State Boards of Health have made a new move against tuberculosis. Letters have been mailed to both physicians and patients, requesting that the former co-operate with the board in its fight against consumption by supplying full information relative to each case that comes under their observation, and advising the latter as to the best known methods of treatment. Among the instructions offered to tuberculosis patients are the following:

Men with consumption should not wear beard or mustache. Sleep alone. Keep the windows open day and night; fresh air is essential. Dress warmly, and don't be afraid of the cold. Eat plenty of nourishing food. Don't spit on the floors or in public places. Stay out of doors all you can; remember that sunshine kills the germs of consumption.

These are wise instructions, and should be observed by every one afflicted, as the most important duty is to get well. Colds and coughs should not be neglected, as colds inflame the lungs, and the cough is extremely wearing on the system.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says that the following simple formula will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; glycerine, two ounces; good whiskey, a half pint. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses every four hours. Great care should be exercised in securing pure ingredients, and, to avoid substitution, it is best that they should be purchased separately and the mixture prepared by yourself. The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) can be secured from any good prescription druggist in the original half-ounce vials, as purchased for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put out under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea, and never effect the desired result.

NEW LAW ASSISTS TITLED AMERICANS

Countess of Castellane May Recover Citizenship Lost by Marriage.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Under the provisions of a bill, introduced by Representative Perkins of New York and passed by the House, Countess of Castellane, or the Duchess of Marlborough, or any of the other young women who married titled foreigners with whom they could not get along, can be restored to all the rights of citizenship which they lost under their marriages.

The bill also provides that a foreigner who comes here, and, becoming naturalized, loses his citizenship if he returns to his own country, not intending to again return here. This provision was put in at the request of the State Department because of the prevalence of the habit of Armenians, Greeks and others taking out citizenship papers and after a while returning to the home of their birth and on slight pretext claiming the protection of the American Government. The bill further provides that any American who lives abroad for five years, unless solely for pleasure or profit, loses his citizenship rights.

Had this law been in effect when William Waldorf Astor went to England, he would not have found it necessary to renounce his citizenship, as he would automatically have forfeited if he did not intend to return to the United States within five years. The bill has already passed the Senate, and as it was amended slightly in the House, will go back and be sent to conference.

100,000 TRAINMEN DEMAND INCREASE

Amounts in Some Cases to 40 Per Cent—Roads Willing to Give 10.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Trainmen and conductors on every railroad west of Chicago are demanding advances in wages, which, if granted, will increase the payrolls many millions of dollars annually.

The demands affect more than 100,000 employes and are now being discussed by committees representing the general managers and the labor organizations.

The first conference was held in Chicago yesterday, and it is understood the men were emphatically told all of their demands could not be entertained.

In some cases the increase asked amounts to 35 or 40 per cent, as they comprehend an increase of 15 per cent in the wage scale and a reduction of the working day from ten to eight hours.

It is understood the railroads are willing to give their men an increase of about 10 per cent, but no more.

IS LYNCH VENGEANCE EVER JUSTIFIED? HERE IS TILLMAN'S ANSWER

Goaded by Spooner, South Carolina Senator Makes Eloquent Speech in Defense of Mob Law "For Crime and One Crime Only, the Blackest in the Catagory."

Law is nothing more than the will of the people. There are written laws and unwritten laws, and the unwritten laws are always the very embodiment of savage justice. The Senators from Wisconsin and Colorado may rave, the newspapers may howl, but men who were reared by virtuous mothers and who revere womanly virtues as the most priceless jewel of their civilization, will do as we of the South have done.—Senator Tillman.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—One of the most eloquent speeches to which the United States Senate has listened in many a day was that of Tillman of South Carolina yesterday, when, goaded by Senator Spooner into an explanation of his views on the race question, the South Carolinan defended lynching as a punishment for the "blackest crime in all the category of crimes." He challenged any man to prove that he had ever advocated lynch law except for this one crime; and his advocacy of summary vengeance, within or without the pale of the law, on the assailant of a woman, black or white, "is justified," he said, "by my conscience, in the sight of God."

Mr. Tillman said, addressing the Senate:

"It was adroit for the Senator (Spooner) to shift the minds of his auditors and the readers of the Record from the President's outrageous discrimination against the black soldiery and favoring the white ones, to my own utterances and attitude toward the negro rapists. The shrewdness and dishonesty of the argument and the indecency of the attack was emphasized when the Senator from Wisconsin proceeded to quote from a former speech of mine in this body, in which I said: 'We shot them, we killed them and we will do it again.'

"Now, what about those words of mine, 'We shot them, etc.'? In what connection did I utter them? If I mistake not the Senator from Wisconsin was in the chamber when I used that language. There were present a large number of leading Republicans. I challenged each and every man here to show wherein the people of South Carolina were not justified, and no one dared reply."

Mr. Tillman reviewed the conditions under which the people of his State acted at the time to show the disturbed state of legal procedure as justifying the course pursued.

"Now a word about lynching," he continued, "and my attitude toward it. A great deal has been said in the newspapers North and South about my responsibility in connection with this matter. My position has been purposely misrepresented and the Senator from Wisconsin has assumed to himself the right to arraign me in this body and to pass judgment of condemnation in most biting and vindictive phrases.

"Have I ever advocated lynch law at any time or at any place? I answer on my honor, 'Never.' I have justified it for one crime, and one only, and I have consistently and persistently maintained that attitude for the last 14 years. As Governor of South Carolina I proclaimed that, although I had taken the oath of office to support the law and enforce it, I would lead a mob to lynch any man, black or white, who had ravished any woman, black or white. This is my attitude, calmly and deliberately taken, and justified by my conscience in the sight of God.

"Mr. President, the Senator from Wisconsin speaks of 'lynching bees.' So far as lynching for rape is concerned, the word is a misnomer. When stern and sad-faced white men put to death a creature in human form who has deflowered a white woman, there is nothing of the bee about it. There is more of the feeling of participation as a mourner at a funeral. They have avenged the greatest wrong, the blackest crime in all the category of crimes—not so much as an act of retribution, but as a warning as to what any man may expect who shall repeat the offense. They are looking to the protection of their loved ones.

The Unwritten Law.

"The Senator from Wisconsin prates about the law. He erects the law into a deity, which must be worshipped regardless of justice. He has studied law books until his mind has become saturated with the bigotry which ignores the fundamental principle in this government: Law is nothing more than the will of the people. There are written laws and unwritten laws, and the unwritten laws are always the very embodiment of savage justice. The Senator from Wisconsin is incapable of understanding conditions in the South, or else he has lost those natural impulses which for centuries have been the characteristics of race.

"That trinity of words, the noblest and holiest in our language, womanhood, wifehood, motherhood, have Saxon origin. And a man who speaks with lightness or flippancy or discusses coldbloodedly a matter so vital as the purity and chastity of womanhood is a disgrace to his own mother and unworthy the love of a good wife. It is idle to reason about it. It is idle to preach about it. Our brains reel under the staggering blow, and hot blood surges to the heart; civilization peels off us—any and all of us who are men—and we revert to the original savage type whose impulses under any and all such circumstances have always been to 'kill, kill, kill.'

"I do not know what the Senator from Wisconsin would do under these circumstances, neither do I care. I have three daughters. So help me God, I had rather find any one of them killed by a tiger or by a bear and gather up her bones and bury them, conscious that she had died in the purity of her maidenhood, than have her crawl to me and tell me the horrid story that she had lost the jewel of her womanhood, or rather had been robbed of it by a black fiend. The wild beast would only obey the instinct of nature, and we would hunt him down and kill him just as soon as possible.

"What shall we do with a man who has outbruted the brute and committed an act which is more cruel than death? Try him? Drag the victim into court—for she alone can furnish legal evidence—and make her testify to the fearful ordeal through which she has passed, undergoing a second crucifixion. That is what the Senator from Wisconsin says he would do, and he is welcome to all of the honor he can get out of it.

Judge Lynch's Court.

"Our rule is to make the woman witness, prosecutor, judge and jury. I have known Judge Lynch's court to sit for a week while suspect after suspect had been run down and arrested, and in every instance they were brought into the presence of the victim and when she said, 'That is not the man,' he was set free, but when she declared, 'That is the man,' it was enough, and until the white men of the South shall change their natures and become degenerate it will continue to be enough.

"The senators from Wisconsin and Colorado may rave, the newspapers may howl, but men who were reared by virtuous mothers and who revere womanly virtue as the most priceless jewel of their civilization will do as we of the South have done. On this question I apologize for nothing. I spurn and scorn the charlatanry and cant, the hypocrisy and cowardice, the insolence and effrontery of all such creatures."

Regarding his position on the Brownsville affair, Mr. Tillman said:

"I am charged with being unable to see anything good in Theodore Roosevelt and with being a monomaniac in my personal hatred of him. I beg to remind Senators that when we were about to have a vote on the rate bill I gave him all the credit for having compelled any railroad legislation at all and being entitled to gratitude for whatever benefits might arise from it. I may be narrow and prejudiced, but I try to be just, and when I criticized him about Indianola, about usurpation in Panama, about his San Domingo, about his conduct in the Minor Morris case, I felt justified; and while I may get no credit for sincerity of conviction in this Brownsville matter, I plant myself on the bedrock principle that the innocent should not be punished for the sins of the guilty, and that men should be presumed to be innocent until they are proved guilty."

AGED SENATORS RETURNED.

Morgan and Pettus Re-Elected by Alabama.

The present term of Mr. Morgan will expire in March and that of Mr. Pettus in 1909. Should they live to serve out their new terms, Mr. Morgan will be 83 years of age, and Mr. Pettus 94.

COAL FAMINE IN WINNIPEG.

Five Frozen Owing to Inability to Get Fuel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 22.—Within 24 hours Winnipeg will be without fuel, if the report of Capt. Harper Wilson, fuel inspector, can be relied on. Throughout the Canadian Northwest conditions are the same. Everywhere people are crying for fuel, and it is feared several similar cases will occur to that in Calgary Friday, when a family of five were frozen to death owing to inability to get fuel, though they had plenty of money.

BARBER SLAYS ASSAILANT.

Man Had Attacked Illinoisan With Two Razors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELDORADO, Ill., Jan. 22.—Jim Brown, a barber, shot and instantly killed B. F. English, of Mt. Vernon, Ind., here yesterday. English walked into a barber shop where Brown and Leo Little were at work, went to the glass and shaved himself. He then seized a razor in each hand, made for Brown swearing he would kill him. Seeing no way to escape, Brown is said to have drawn a revolver and shot English through the heart.

GET LINEN COLLARS

And Be Sure of It

When you buy some brands of 15c. collars there is no way of knowing their actual quality. They are stamped with some such vague term as "Shrunk," "Best Made," "High Grade," and the talk is of their "fabric"—which simply means they are cotton and ashamed of it.

When you buy Triangle Linen Collars you know you are getting genuine Linen collars, 4-ply, because they are so stamped. Because you know the law prohibits manufacturers stamping the work "Linen" on any but a linen collar. That's your protection against inferior cotton makes.

The 3-thread eyelet button-holes are an extra feature in Triangle Linen Collars that makes them wear longer. And every Triangle Collar is "shrunk-to-size"—guaranteed to fit and stay fit. Quarter sizes make your fit exact.

Most dealers carry a full range of seasonable styles. If your dealer hasn't the style you like, write us and we will see that you get it. All Triangle Collars are 15 cents (2 for 25c.)—though they are worth more.

CUTS INTO DOOR TO ROB.

Burglar Makes Hard Job of It for $51 Loot.

A burglar cut his way through a door and two windows to enter the saloon of Andrew Parle at 510 Walnut street, according to a police report. A quantity of whisky and cigars and $51 were missing when Frank Arendes, the bartender, reported the robbery to the police Tuesday.

The burglar had apparently broken open a window, thinking he could crawl through it into the saloon. Instead, the window was in the wall of a closet in the rear of the saloon. When the door, locked, was forced, it opened onto a courtyard instead of leading into the saloon.

From the courtyard the burglar removed a pane of glass in the back door and at last obtained entrance.

MAY JOIN CRACKER TRUST.

Independent Biscuit Makers Confer in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—An all-day secret meeting was held here yesterday by 20 representatives of the Independent Biscuit Manufacturers' Association. The meeting adjourned shortly before midnight.

H. B. Grubbs of Cleveland, O., secretary and treasurer of the association, admitted that the question at issue was whether or not the independents should join the so-called cracker trust. He said the final vote on the question would be taken at a meeting to be held today.

Just what overtures have been made to the independents by the trust Mr. Grubbs would not say, but he intimated that the concerns accepting the offer would be admitted on terms of equality.

WRONG MAN ADMITS MURDER WHEN POLICE CALL HIM THE SLAYER

Johns Hopkins Psychologist, Studies Negro's Case and Declares His Admission, like That of Ivens, was Result of Hypnotic Suggestion—Recommends Reform.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 22.—The police jubilantly announced that they had caught "Al" Carter, the colored man whom they have been seeking for some time, on the charge of having killed Thomas M. Rhinehart in Howard County about a year ago. Then their jubilation was increased by a thrilling confession, signed with the illiterate colored man's mark, which they procured in the usual police fashion. Their jubilation has been turned to confusion by the discovery that their prisoner is not "Al" Carter after all, and the confessor is not in any way concerned in the murder.

The prisoner turned out to be George Washington Lamberger, who had escaped from the House of Correction, and was fully identified by the superintendent, W. W. Johnson, who was Carter's employer, and declares that the negro under arrest was unlike the real Carter as day is from night. Then to the surprise of all, Lamberger denied that he had killed anyone and said he would much rather be shot himself than shoot anyone.

"I told them they had the wrong man," he said, "but they kept telling me I was Carter, so I told them I was. I ain't never killed nobody and I never will, and I just knew they had the wrong man from the start."

Lamberger's arrest recalled the case of Richard Ivens, a young Chicagoan, who was arrested for the murder of Mrs. Bessie Hollister, choir singer. He denied committing the murder at first, then confessed it and was hanged, though a few days before the hanging he repudiated the confession.

"Since you say I said those things," he told the officers, "I must have done it, but I have no recollection of it. All I remember is that a revolver was flashed before my face."

From Hypnotic Suggestion.

In a recent magazine article, Prof. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard University, takes the ground that this young man was innocent of the murder and that his confession was the result of hypnotic suggestion from the officers who administered the "third degree." Prof. J. Mark Baldwin, professor of psychology at the Johns Hopkins University here, was asked about the two cases.

"Unquestionably," he said, "both of these men confessed as a result of hypnotic suggestion. The flashing of a light before a subject is one of the commonest methods of inducting that state of attention which makes the subject reception to hypnotic suggestion. So is the repetition of a statement over and over again to the subject.

"Nevertheless, I would have to be convinced by the most conclusive evidence before I would believe it in any particular case. A prominent student of hypnotism in France, who is also a legal expert, takes the ground that in all court cases where there is a suspicion that hypnotic suggestion determined the accused's action, that expert witnesses in hypnotism should be called, just as medical or handwriting experts are called in our country, and I believe that in France that practice has been adopted to a certain extent.

"I have practiced hypnotism to a certain extent in the course of my work, but for the purposes of scientific study, and there is one thing contrary to popular belief that I found. That is, that the more normal a man is, the harder does he receive hypnotic suggestions. The people whom you cannot hypnotize at all are those found in the asylums for the insane; those who cannot, if they wish, fix their minds on the one subject."

LOSES HER REASON OVER THAW CASE

Girl Said Man Was Trying to Steal Information She Had for Trial.

INSANITY TO BE PLEA

Howard Nesbit Willing to Take Stand to Defend Stanford White.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The first person known to have lost her reason because of the Thaw case is May Kellard of Door of Hope fame. She went to see Assistant District Attorney Garvan and insisted that a handsome, fat man—she called him "Charley"—had been boring holes into the ceiling of her room to steal from her information she had about the Thaw case. Mr. Garvan had the woman committed to Bellevue, where she will be examined as to her sanity.

If Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw takes the witness stand at the trial of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford White, and tells the jury that Mr. White endeavored to induce her to become a faithless wife, her brother, Howard Nesbit, will deny under oath any assertion of that nature that his sister may make.

Howard Nesbit, a fine-looking youth of 19, is here from his home in Pittsburg. He is glad to be here, no matter how much annoyance he may have to suffer, if it can be of the slightest service in defending the reputation of his benefactor—Stanford White. Young Nesbit was educated partly at the expense of Mr. White, who not only sent him to college, but also told him that he would give him a good start in life, once he had graduated. White not only aided the boy's mother, but also did much to advance the interests of Evelyn Nesbit before she became Thaw's wife.

Defense to Be Insanity.

Young Nesbit said that at no time had he ever heard White say anything which might be considered offensive. In speaking of his sister, he told Mr. Garvan that he did not believe White had ever insulted Harry K. Thaw. Mr. Garvan will not be able to call Howard to the witness stand unless the defense should introduce testimony tending to show that White had annoyed young Mrs. Thaw.

The defense, it was announced today, will be emotional insanity; that Thaw was not of sound mind at the time he killed White because of the many reports he had heard against the architect, and whom he suspected of attempting to take his wife away from him. The defense will insist that Thaw, having committed the crime when his mind was unbalanced, is not to be held responsible, but, now being sane, should not be sent to the Asylum for Criminal Insane at Matteawan. This is practically the defense which Ex-Judge Olcott proposed and which Thaw threw aside when he discharged his former counsel.

The Thaw trial proper will commence Wednesday before Justice Fitzgerald in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

TOBACCO CRUSADE STARTED.

New Jersey Storekeeper Burns Supply in Street.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 22.—Every man and boy has sworn off tobacco in every form at Port Republic, a thriving hamlet on the mainland. The pipe of repentance was lit by the visit of an eloquent evangelist who declared: "Hell is full of chewers and smokers; cigarette smokers are chained in the hottest corners."

Women took up the crusade. While they sang joyous hymns, Miss Amanda Blake, proprietor of the village's general store, piled in the street her entire stock of tobacco, cigars, pipes and cigarettes, set fire to them and they went up in smoke. John H. Johnson, 70 years old, sexton of the church, who has "never been without a pipe for 55 years," swore off and is dangerously ill. But he is resisting temptation, saying piteously:

"I would rather do without a whiff of tobacco than live for all eternity in an atmosphere of sulphur."

EMPLOYE RAPS HITCHCOCK.

Commissioner Says Indian Girls Are Debauched.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 22.—Former Gov. McConnell of Idaho, and Indian Commissioner, in an interview in the Herald, charges gross mismanagement of the Indian schools and arraigns the system by which young Indian girls are taken away from their parents and sent to the Indian schools.

He alleges that the teachers in the schools practice great cruelty upon their charges, and that the girl pupils are allowed to be debauched. The blame for these conditions he places with Secretary Hitchcock, whom, he says, he acquainted with these conditions during his tenure of office, but who pigeon-holed his report. He further says that the officials of the Interior Department conceal the true state of affairs from the President. The reservation schools are badly overcrowded, he says, as the agents try to obtain as large a per-capita appropriation as possible. He claims to have seen instances where Indian boys with running tubercular sores were compelled to sleep with healthy Indians.

Slays Wife and Self.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Mary Sanford, colored, was stabbed to death by her husband, Louis Sanford, who then committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid, in a lodging house. The bodies were discovered late last night by Mrs. Anna Smith, who conducts the place.

Pensions for Old Teachers.

A measure to pension public school teachers disqualified by age or disability will be presented to the Board of Education at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon by Dr. William Taussig. If approved, the pension system will take the place of the Teachers' Annuity Association.

STORM RAZES RESIDENCES.

Several Hurt in Tornado at Blackwell, Okla.

BLACKWELL, Okla., Jan. 22.—A tornado struck this city Sunday night, demolishing a number of buildings and injuring several persons. The residence of George E. Benson of North Main stret was overturned, pinning Mr. and Mrs. Benson under the building and injuring them severely. It was two hours before they could be rescued. George Riz and Louis Jordan were caught in the ruins of a barn and severely injured.

The storm raised the streams, washing out 300 feet of Frisco track between Blackwell and Ponca City. The railroad bridge at Bodock was swept away and the Santa Fe track between Nardin and Deer Creek is out.

1 DEAD, 3 HURT IN WRECK.

Fire Destroys Several Coaches on South Carolina Train.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 22.—A dispatch from Yemasse, S. C., 59 miles from here, says the Atlantic Coast Line special, New York & Florida northbound train, ran into an open switch there last night and struck a freight train standing on the siding. Engineer Johnson of the passenger train was killed and Engineer Norton and three trainmen of the freight were injured.

The train, which was composed of a baggage car and several Pullmans, caught fire, and all but one Pullman car were destroyed. It is said that but few passengers were aboard, and only one was injured. Surgeon-General Wyman of the United States Marine Hospital Service, who was a passenger on the northbound train, escaped without injury.

THOSE SUDDEN TWINGES

Pain is nature's signal of distress, a warning that must not be ignored. Those sharp twinges in the back, those stab-like pains that follow any sudden twist or turn, are simply signs of hidden danger in the kidneys.

No trouble starts more easily, gains ground more rapidly, nor proves more often fatal than any disorder of the kidneys. All the outward appearances of health may remain until a terrible disease has taken root.

It is best to learn the duties of the kidneys, to watch for early signs of trouble, and to correct any irregularity before its serious stage begins.

The blood goes to the kidneys in an incessant stream, to be cleared of poison and relieved of surplus water. This is passed off by the kidneys in the urine. It is the retention of poison in kidney trouble that breeds fatal disease.

Don't wait. The moment you feel any uneasiness, lameness or pain in the back, begin with Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy has been curing kidney troubles for seventy-six years, and never yet has failed to give relief, if taken in time. It cures the kidneys, and thus cures backache, lame back, headache, dizzy spells, urinary troubles, rheumatic pain, gravel, dropsy swellings, nervousness, languor, sciatica, and all other symptoms of kidney troubles.

Fifty thousand people have testified to the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a home case:

St. Louis Proof.

Mrs. D. P. Farrell, 2337 Clark av., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have been a great sufferer from kidney trouble and severe pains in the small of my back and loins. The kidney secretions were greatly disordered. I consulted a doctor, who treated me, but received very little benefit from his medicine. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in the paper and got a box. It greatly helped me, and a further use of the remedy resulted in a cure."—(From a statement made in 1901.)

TESTED AND PROVEN.

On Sept. 27, 1906, Mrs. D. P. Farrell was interviewed and said: "I just as heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at this time as I did in the year 1901. The cure has been a permanent one, as I have had no return of the trouble during an elapse of five years."

A President who splits the infinitive may also split his party.

So long as Chicago and St. Louis real estate men dine together, what can break the peace between the two cities?

"I seemed to be swept on in a whirlwind of folly," writes a $200,000 absconder. The disposition to blame things on whirlwinds and everything but ourselves is quite common.

BENEVOLENCE AND BUMPTIOUSNES

A great many disagreeable things occurred in the Nineteenth Century. When history is being made that is full of extraordinary events nearly all disagreeable, extraordinary words come into use, many of them disagreeable enough to fit the supposed causes of the events.

One of the disagreeable words often used during the Nineteenth Century to explain the causes of history was "bumptious." It seems to be the only word which fits the history made in Jamaica when Sir James Alexander Swettenham, Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief, asked Rear Admiral O. H. Davis, U. S. N., not to be too benevolent.

As Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief, Sir James Alexander certainly expressed himself in a way which only the word "bumptious" can define. He wrote as if he wished it to be clearly understood that he is not a Cuban, or a Porto Rican, or a Filipino, to have an American fleet bearing down on him at a time of disorder to take charge and show the world how benevolently superior to all other methods our methods are when we undertake to bring confusion out of chaos.

It is held by some that all British baronets are bumptious. This may be a mistake. Probably it is. No doubt some of them are as kind, as gentle, as unassuming, as benevolent as if they were rear admirals in an American fleet, accustomed to benevolent work in our "colonial possessions." But as for Sir Alexander Swettenham, he is certainly bumptious and he knows how to show it in a most convincingly bumptious way.

A moral maniac should no more be at large than any other dangerous person. It would have been far better for young Mr. Thaw if he had passed his life in an asylum.

TILLMAN'S STUNT.

Senator Tillman did not place himself in the senatorial troupe of vaudeville artists whose talents and stunts he "barked" so eloquently, to the diversion of the public and the rage of his fellow senators. The best suggestion of the Tillman stunt is found in the story of the children who were getting up an amateur show and found great difficulty in placing Jimmy, a pestiferous, noisy chatterer, who was always interrupting the proceedings with irrelevant exclamations. Finally one of the youthful managers said: "I know what to do with Jimmy—we'll let him play the idiot child, and then he can say and do whatever he pleases and nobody will pay any attention to him."

It may be Foraker's aim to show that he is broader than Taft.

NO DEARTH OF HEROES.

In January, 1906, the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission found that there was a dearth of heroes, no awards having been made for three months. The stories of the awards for heroic acts in and around St. Louis, in recent issues of the Post-Dispatch, seem to show that no such complaint can be made at this time.

With one or two exceptions, the persons who have received medals or grants of money from the $5,000,000 Carnegie hero fund have performed acts which, though heroic, have not been especially spectacular. In the line of duty, stimulated by no applauding public, men and women, boys and girls, have risked their lives as a matter of course.

In a list of awards printed in 1906, 11 medals were awarded to persons who had rescued others from drowning; three to persons who had rescued others from railroad wrecks, at the risk of their own lives; two for rescues from burning buildings; 2 for rescues from death by electricity; one for saving life in a mine and one from a rattlesnake.

In the case of a shipwreck, there is sometimes an opportunity for heroism of the spectacular kind. Such was the case of Mark Casto, who, lashed to the wheel of the steamer Cherokee, with nine companions of like mold, saved the lives of 55 persons and won a medal.

Such opportunities, however, do not come to the average individual. Nor are they necessary. The record shows that heroism is much more natural than anyone would suppose. But because it is natural, it is none the less honorable. And whatever criticism may be made on the Carnegie hero fund, the fact that it is proving heroism to be a common human trait cannot fail to have a good effect.

In France women are demanding the ballot and waiters are demanding mustaches. The new year is full of uproar for the third republic.

AN OLD MAID'S HEAVEN.

The St. Louis old maid who writes to the Post-Dispatch to protest because Col. George Harvey condemns old maids deserves a full and careful hearing.

She "received enough admiration to have satisfied five women." She might have married, but having a mother to support, she remained single to support her, at the expense of much hardship, which now leaves her an old maid. She loves children, dumb animals and flowers and hates gossip. She wants "to realize some measure of heaven in this life," even if she is an old maid.

This is her case. The question on the evidence is of whether she is not realizing as great a measure of heaven in this life as is possible for anyone, married or single.

She has never been in the divorce courts, and while she is an old maid, she is safe from them. She has never had a husband sent to the Penitentiary or otherwise disgraced, because in taking all the traffic would bear to supply her with diamonds, a slip of his fingers amounted to more than the law allowed. If she has no children of her own, she can find children enough who need to be loved by the right sort of a woman.

It is true that if she had married she might have made some good man a better one; she might have educated a family of her own to give the world as much and ask as little as possible from it; and in a home of her own with her own husband and her own children and grandchildren she might have realized the fullest measure of heaven possible on earth.

This might have been. But in spite of all that presidents and others with strenuous opinions can say in attempting to regulate everything for other people, the mere matter of populating the world is no concern of any man or any woman who sees it a duty to stay single. An old maid doing her duty, single handed in the world, and for the world, may be realizing heaven already, if it is true that there is no sort of a heaven outside of the line of duty anywhere in the universe.

Invited by the Post-Dispatch to give the world his conclusions regarding the Thaw case, the eminent criminologist, Prof. Cesare Lombroso of Turin, Italy, made a special and exhaustive study of the case and summed up his findings in the Sunday Post-Dispatch. Prof. Lombroso dwells especially on Thaw's insane jealousy, which made him treat his wife brutally, and was the cause of the homicidal obsession which brought about the ultimate tragedy. He says he is a "moral maniac." He accounts for this by showing that Thaw is a victim of heredity, his father having exhausted his vitality in the piling up of a fortune by superhuman efforts within a few years. This is something new for ambitious young men to ponder—is it worth while to toil and moil and pinch and lie awake nights to become a millionaire, only to find that the effort has sapped the very springs of life, to the ruin of those who are nearest and dearest? Thus science proves morality. Lombroso does not preach. He shows by life itself that Nature never forgives. "Sow a habit, reap a character. Sow a character, reap a destiny."

EQUALIZING CLUBS AND SALOONS.

Speaking of the bill introduced by himself and Senator McAllister to compel clubs to take out saloon licenses, Senator McDavid says that the object of it is to put the clubs on an equality with the saloons in the matter of the enforcement of the dramshop act and to get at the so-called "lid-lifting clubs." "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," says the Senator.

But are these senators providing the right sort of sauce for either the goose or the gander? Is it sound in principle to turn the clubs into saloons in order to place them on the same basis with saloons in the matter of enforcing the Sunday law? Is it wise to do this?

A legitimate club is not in any sense a saloon, nor ought it to be a saloon. It is the home of many men, and the men who live at a club should have the privileges of a home. They should be free to eat and drink as they would at home. The same principle applies to the hotel. It ought to apply to all clubs, whether they are rich men's clubs or poor men's clubs.

The saloon has been called the poor man's club. If it is orderly and properly regulated there is no objection to it. The inequality of the club and the saloon is caused by the effort to place puritanical and intolerant restraints on the latter and thus deprive the poor man of his beer on Sunday, while permitting the rich man an unlimited supply of refreshment every day in the week. The equalizing should be done by the fair regulation of the saloon, which will not interfere with innocent habits, customs and diversions of the masses of the people. Let us equalize on the side of tolerance and sound American principles, not on the side of puritanical, intolerant efforts to control the manner of living, habits and customs of others, according to the narrow views of a part of the people.

The 50,000 St. Louis voters yet unregistered have rather vague ideas of patriotism.

NEWSPAPERS AND AUTOMOBILES.

Mr. J. H. Phillips, who appeals for justice to the automobile industry in another column of this issue, misunderstood the comment in the editorial to which he refers. The comment was based upon the statement of an automobile owner to the effect that most automobiles were so geared that their speed could not be reduced to the legal limit. The Post-Dispatch did not suggest that the machines be geared so that they could not exceed that limit, but that they be so geared that the owners can comply with the law—a very different proposition.

Mr. Phillips is mistaken in his assumption that the Post-Dispatch is hostile to the use and development of the automobile, or is inclined to be prejudiced against the owners and drivers of machines. has published pages of appreciation of the invention, its wonderful development and its great possibilities. It regards automobile development as one of the finest and most promising factors of social and industrial progress.

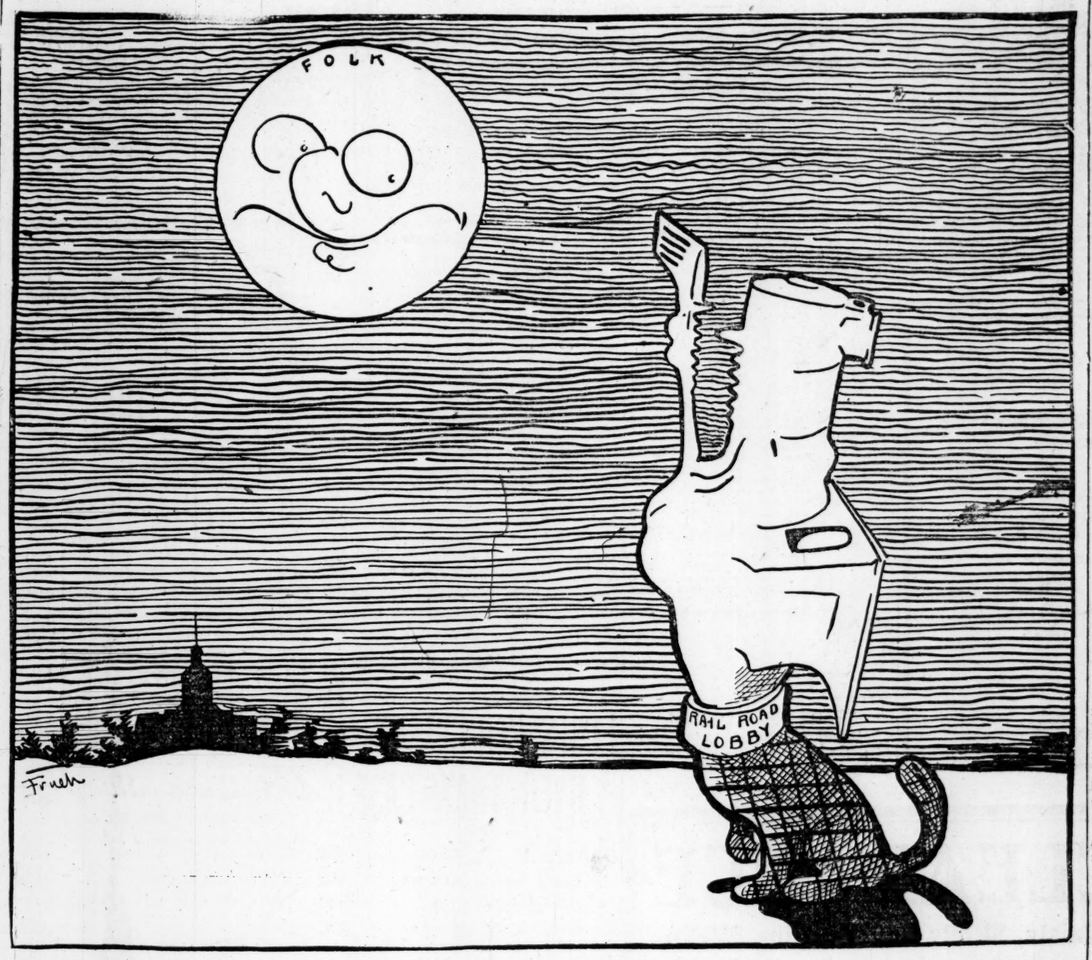

The Post-Dispatch invariably has urged fair regulation for the sole purpose of protecting life and limb and never for the purpose of harassing the owners and users of autos. It has opposed invariably legislation or official action hostile or harassing to auto owners and users.

We have condemned the class of auto drivers and owners which Mr. Phillips condemns in his letter: that is, those who recklessly charge through the streets at excessive speed, with contemptuous and inhuman disregard of the comfort and safety of others. We shall continue to condemn them. We shall give their misdeeds and the results of their recklessness the benefit of the widest publicity of a sort that will not be pleasing to them. We shall demand their punishment to the full extent of the law for violations of the law and the increase of the penalties in the laws they violate. We shall hammer them until their kind is driven from the streets, where it is a menace to the public.

If the intelligent and humane automobilists will be less hostile to newspaper criticism of reckless auto driving and more hostile to reckless auto drivers, if they will criticize newspaper condemnation of reckless driving less and support the effort of fair newspapers to eliminate it more, the conditions of auto using in the city and county will rapidly improve. The worst enemy of the automobile is the reckless, inhuman, law-breaking automobilist.

IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Senator Ben Tillman appeared on the streets of the Capital this morning encased in a complete suit of armor, helmet and all. He kept in the middle of the road on his way to the Senate Chamber, and only removed his armor when safe in the protection of the Sergeant-at-Arms.

Senator Stone of Missouri emerged from his Washington hotel this morning, dragging a toy cannon. He proceeded toward the Senate Chamber with great stealth, keeping his eye peeled for someone and shoving the cannon ahead of him whenever he rounded a corner.

Senator Carmack of Tennessee created something of a reign of terror on the streets of Washington this morning. He came forth in war paint, with three feathers stuck in his shock of red hair, and carried an ax. The capital police followed him at a distance until he disappeared in the Senate Chamber.

Senator Spooner attempted to enter the Senate Chamber this morning with a brick concealed under his vest. Fortunately, it fell out in the presence of the Sergeant-at-Arms, and was confiscated. The Senator refuses to explain.

Senator Lodge had a distressing experience in the cloak room of the Senate this morning. His overcoat slipped from his hand and fell to the floor. The cloak room was almost instantly filled with the terrible odor of eggs in a high state of putrefaction. The Senator consented to the removal of the coat, but refuses to say what he intended doing with the eggs.

LOVE AFFAIRS OF FAMOUS MEN

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

EDGAR ALLEN POE AND VIRGINIA CLEMM.

EDGAR ALLEN POE, greatest American poet and of all Americans possessor of the widest foreign fame, married when he was 27 years old his beautiful cousin, Virginia Clemm, whom he met while editing the Southern Literary Messenger in Baltimore. She was a child in years, and was a fragile, unearthly creature, with no more idea of practical things than the poet himself. Neither had any money, and during the 12 years of their life together, divided into three principal migrations from Baltimore to New York, New York to Philadelphia, and thence back to New York, the mother-in-law, Mrs. Clemm, was not only the star of the poet's wandering bark, but too often pilot and steward as well. Had it not been for her efforts, indeed, the improvident Poe and his invalid child wife must certainly have starved to death. As it was, they were, toward the end of the young wife's life, reduced to the direst poverty. Like most geniuses, Poe was unable to keep a job. His Pegasus was not a plow horse and could not be made to do the work of one. He lost or resigned from the editorship of half a dozen periodicals in turn and found freelancing to be unsatisfactory and precarious.

Mrs. Clemm, Virginia's mother, kept boarders and peddled the poet's manuscripts in newspaper and magazine offices. Her daughter, who developed tuberculosis after the rupture of a blood vessel while singing, made Poe a charming but entirely helpless wife. To grief and worry over her invalidism the poet attributed the dissipated habits which in life most interfered with his success, and after death were used by Pharisee and Philistine to minimize his fame.

Mrs. Poe died in 1847 in the now celebrated cottage at Fordham. It has been said that on the day of her death the poverty-ridden household was without fuel, and in order to keep her warm the poet sat at her feet and the large family cat lay across her chest. Poe, though not a good husband, inasmuch as he subjected this fragile creature to dire hardship, loved his wife with a fine poetic almost mystical affection, to which he gave expression after her death in the commemorative poems, "Ulalume" and "Annabel Lee."

In the latter poem, his last, for he survived Mrs. Poe only two years, he told of "the wind that blew out of a cloud," chilling his Annabel Lee, and declared this continuance of love after death in the beautiful stanza:

"But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we,
Of many far wiser than we;
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee."

What neither the angels nor the demons could do was, however, accomplished by mere woman—in fact by two women, for within a year after Virginia's death Poe was engaged to Mrs. Sarah Helen Whitman, also a poet. Mrs. Whitman broke the engagement on account of the genius' dissipation, but at the time of his death he was betrothed to another widow in Richmond, Va.

But perhaps, after all, his soul was still true to the child-love of his youth.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By WALDO PONDRAY WARREN.

The following thought, applicable to every-day business, is furnished by Waldo Pondray Warren, for the past six years advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago. Having given the business man's relation to the public such careful consideration as his position necessitated, Mr. Warren's thoughts are well worth studying. They will appear from day to day in the Post-Dispatch.

ARE YOU A DIPLOMAT?

THE diplomat holds a high place in business affairs, and it is well to understand what constitutes diplomatic tact. For, like many other valuable qualities, it may be acquired.

Diplomacy is common sense reduced to a fine art. A diplomat is a man who throws away his cigar when he visits a powder magazine. He slows up as he turns the corner. He speaks cordially to the strange dog. He walks slowly when he is escorting an elderly lady. He speaks concisely when he is talking to a busy man. He never whips the horse pulling steadily up hill. He does not wear his vermilion golf jacket when he visits the stock farm. He always strokes the fur the right way. And in dealing with human nature he makes allowances for conceit, arrogance, and reserve, and does not disturb them when this would only defeat a nobler purpose.

Diplomacy should never be confused with mere cunning, its counterfeit. It is one thing to take an unfair advantage—another to make use of the advantage already yours—the advantage of discretion. The true diplomat is the man who has advanced more than others in the gentle art of getting along with his fellow men.

Thanks for Remembrance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Hassendeubel W. R. C. sends many thanks for the Christmas baskets kindly donated. Such lovely baskets, containing the best of provisions, with warm clothing. Our poor spent a merry Christmas and were very thankful. The Post-Dispatch surely deserves great praise for the good work, and we hope when again making preparations for a Christmas dinner, you will send a subscription blank to Hassendeubel W. R. C. It will surely help swell the fund.

HASSENDEUBEL W. R. C.

Ye Olden Tyme.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Thanks for article headed "Ye Boiler on Ye Courthouse Green" in your issue of Jan. 19. I don't want to be a knocker, but it seems that our city fathers do not understand the meaning of "To the Front."

Give us some more of ye news of ye old St. Louis. L. CLERC.

Teddy Bear Fad.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Of all the silly fads of the smart set the supremely silly is the Teddy bear fad. The Teddy bear is simply a bundle of skin and excelsior or sawdust; and women actually cuddle these bundles on the streets and fondle them at theaters. The lap dog is at least a living creature and gives some return for affection bestowed. If the woman who presses the bundle of sawdust in her arms and bestows endearing terms upon it were in her second childhood she might be pardoned. Otherwise, not.

Empty arms of women are made for flesh and blood babies. There are plenty of real babies who need cuddling and protecting. If a woman has no babe of her own she can easily find one that needs a mother's care, and blessed is the woman whose hands, though rough with toil, minister to the helpless babe.

The woman who rejects her mission, who regards a child as an incumbrance and who fills her arms and heart with a rag and a hank of hair is doomed, and justly doomed, to bitterness of mind and soul. W. J. Mc.

Whose Interests?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Are the State Senators from St. Louis representing the people or the breweries and saloons? If the former, on what is their opposition to Mulvihill based? There are none who can accuse him of falling in his duty, and if the laws he enforces are distasteful to them, it would seem more to their credit to bend their efforts toward changing the laws. I hope to see our worthy Senators show respect for one who has done his duty, giving their constituents reason to believe they favor the interests they have sworn to represent, rather than the only interests that can be unfavorable to enforcement of the law—proving it by confirming Gov. Folk's reappointment of Mr. Mulvihill next week. R. E. H.

Have Sidewalks Cleaned.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why is it that the people of the residence district of our city are compelled to have their sidewalks cleaned, while parties owning the property on Olive and Locust streets, from Main to Commercial, never have a cleaner but on the pavement? It is almost an impossibility for one who is required to go through this district to walk on a bad morning. It is also noticeable that a great number of those working in this district are ladies, and they suffer greatly in trying to get up and down those hills. This is a location entirely overlooked by the city.

Cannot something be done, or are we to be obliged to put up with this danger-ous oversight? They all say "Beautify the city." I for one will say start at Commercial street.

A SUFFERER.

Children and Crime.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reply to the suggestion of "many children as home savers," I cannot agree with the statement. I believe the cause of crime and evil is largely due to large families by poor parents and the raising of this family under an atmosphere of poverty and bad environment.

Child criminals are being brought before the courts at an alarming rate, which is more serious than childless marriages. Well regulated families are much in the minority. W. ELMS.

THE OPTIMIST

He Says a Good Word for the Quick-Service Luncheries and Closes His Remarks With an Object Lesson.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Hiram W. Hayes.

"NICE place for luncheon, this," said the optimist as he finished giving his order and looked up to recognize a chance acquaintance across the table. "Polite help, good cooking and quick service! I'm glad I ran across it."

"Oh, yes, it does very well," said his fellow quick-luncher as he extracted an unsolved mystery from a piece of mince pie. "But they're all bad. Some are worse than others, that's all."

"I think you're wrong," replied the man who tries to see the bright side. "I think they're all a good deal better than we have a right to expect, considering the large number they have to serve in the short space of a couple of hours. Of course, when you're eating at a quick luncheries, you don't expect the service nor the edibles that you do at a course dinner."

"It's a good thing you don't, for my observation is that they're all bad."

"No, no. I find them all pretty good, but this one happens to be a little better."

"It's all right for a blind man," said his vis-a-vis. "But if you're at all squeamish"—— a shrug finished the sentence.

"Well, I'm glad I learned long ago to take St. Paul's advice to eat what is set before me and ask no questions for conscience's sake. It's this continual thinking what you are going to eat, where you'll get it and how it must be cooked, that makes us a race of dyspeptics. We'd be even better off if we'd let someone else do our ordering."

"Like they do at a Locust street boarding house, eh?"

"Well, what's the matter with a Locust street boarding house? When I first came to town I boarded at a Locust street boarding house and I always found plenty; and I'm sure," he continued as an after thought, "I was never troubled with indigestion.

"The trouble with most people who eat around at these midday lunch places is that they expect too much. They want a 35-cent luncheon to equal a Planters House table d'hote dinner. They want a 20-cent chop to come with mushroom trimmings. They want pie like mother used to make, when they ought to know that the pies mother baked 30 years ago were made by the half dozen, while these are made by the thousand. They want—say, what do you call that?" asked the optimist of the waiter as he took a taste of the steaming dish just set before him.

"Turkey hash, sir. Isn't that"——

"Turkey hash! And the first thing I get hold of is a piece of stewed kidney and I just can't eat kidney. Take it back and give me a piece of medium roast beef without any gravy, and be sure it's hot, this is the worst I ever saw—but as I was saying"——

He raised his eyes to continue, but his audience had escaped.

THE JARR FAMILY

Eavesdropping for the Post-Dispatch By Roy L. McCardell.

THEY DISCUSS TEDDY BEAR.

"I DON'T know what gets into children these days!" began Mrs. Jarr.

"I can tell you," replied the head of the family; "candy gets into them and porridge and parsnips and prunes and pins and"——

"Oh, you shut up!" said Mrs. Jarr. "You think you're funny!"

"Not guilty!" said Mr. Jarr. "But go ahead and tell me what you think gets into them besides breath and the spirit of mischief."

"The spirit of contrariness, I think," said Mrs. Jarr. "Here's little Emma—that child didn't care a bit for the Teddy bear she got Christmas; all she cared for was her doll.

"Yesterday she took her things out to play with them on the street, and she either lost the Teddy bear or it was stolen from her."

"Well, so long as she didn't care for it, what's the difference?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Ah," said Mrs. Jarr, "that's just what I was talking about. When she had it she didn't want it. Now it's gone she's crying and fretting for it all the blessed time.

"What can I do?" asked Mr. Jarr helplessly.

"Well, you can go right in there and tell her if she don't keep quiet you'll give her a good whipping," said Mrs. Jarr.

"I'd rather buy the poor little kid another Teddy bear," said Mr. Jarr.

"They are so dear," sighed Mrs. Jarr. "It seems such a waste of money. Now I saw some in a tobacco store that they give to you for nothing for only 125 coupons.

"Great!" said Mr. Jarr with a sneer. "They give you a coupon for every 5 cents you spend. I'd have to buy $31.25 worth of cigars to get one for nothing."

After a discussion that ran the domestic barometer up and down through various extremes of heat and cold, it was decided to buy the child another Teddy bear, and Mr. and Mrs. Jarr rode downtown together to where they were for sale.

Mr. Jarr insisted on getting an expensive one, of course.

"Now," he said, "there's a nice one. You can carry it home in your arms and you'll be right in style."

What!" exclaimed Mrs. Jarr indignantly. "Do you think I'd make a show of MYSELF lugging a plaything like that in my arms?"

"I see lots of women doing it," said Mr. Jarr. "I see them in the cars hugging them and talking baby talk to them."

"That is all right for women who have no more sense or who want to make themselves conspicuous!" said Mrs. Jarr with dignity. "It's a pity they wouldn't lavish some love and affection on somee poor orphan child instead of making laughing stocks of themselves carrying stuffed toy animals around."

The Jarrs emerged from the store and parted, Mrs. Jarr to take a car home and Mr. Jarr to run across the street to his office. As he looked out of his window, there was Mrs. Jarr just boarding a Delmar car and in her arms the Teddy bear.

She had removed the last vestige of paper and string from around the bear and was holding it proudly to her bosom.

"I win!" said Mr. Jarr to himself.

But why was it he thought it discretion not to ever mention the matter to her afterwards?

DOMESTIC HAPS AND MISHAPS

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch. BY QUINCY SCOTT

DEVOTEES OF THE WEED

AN Italian Prince had strictly forbidden one of his daughters to smoke, but so great a hold had the habit obtained over her that she secretly engaged in the practice at every opportunity. One day she was indulging in a cigarette as she reclined on a balcony attired in a dress of the lightest muslin. Suddenly her father appeared on the scene. In the hurry to hide the evidence of her disobedience the Princess placed her hand with the burning cigarette behind her back. The result was startling and tragic—her frock was immediately in a blaze, and she was fearfully burned from head to foot, dying after suffering intensely.

An old Hungarian countryman had smoked the same pipe for more than fifty years, and, as a natural consequence, had grown to love it as a companion. One day, however, his infant grandson smashed the pipe beyond all hope of repair. The old man was so broken-hearted at his loss that he hanged himself on a peg. In his pocket was found a scrap of paper on which was scribbled: "My pipe is done for and I must go, too."

There is only one reigning sovereign in Europe who does not smoke at all, and that is King Oscar of Sweden. The greatest smokers are King Edward, who smokes the very best cigars, and King Leopold of Belgium, who smokes not fewer than a dozen cigars a day. The Emperor of Austria smokes a pipe morning and evening, but the other sovereigns are contented with cigarettes, the Czar consuming about thirty a day.

Games New and Old

IT IS probable that the little boy in the street who calls hockey stick a golf club is only speaking the truth a few centuries too late. There are many reasons to believe that the Scotch game of golf, sometimes called bandy ball in the old accounts of it, developed into hockey with a flavor of football about it when it came South, and this is borne out by an old fifteenth century print of two handy-ball players in which the stick is used, called bandy because bent, resembles a hockey stick far more than a golf club. The Gentlemen's Magazine, in 1735, also mentions shinty as a Scotch game similar to golf, and another writer defines shinty as "an inferior kind of golf played by young people and in London called hockey."

In the ancient game of "coddam," there are usually three players on a side and the three who are in conceal their hands under the table and hide a button or small coin in one of them. Then the hands are brought simultaneously on to the table and one of the other side has to guess which hand the piece is in. "He may do this if he likes, by a process of elimination, ordering away one by one the hands he thinks are empty, the order 'Galleries away!' meaning that he guesses both outside hands to be empty. An incorrect guess scores a point against the guessing side, a correct one puts them "in."

There is another form of this game called "tip it." The difference between "coddam" and "tip it" is that in one the guesser only is allowed to speak, in the other the "in" side may talk as much as they will in the hope of leading the guesser astray.

AUTOMOBILIST APPEALS FOR JUSTICE

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The writer encloses a clipping from the editorial page of last Monday's Post-Dispatch, and wishes to call your attention to the impossibility of a regulation of the gearing of autos, such as is proposed, and also to the injustice to one of the largest industries of the country of the publication of such articles as this.

We see in the newspapers frequent statements that an automobile was geared for a certain speed, and in a very recent case there was an article occupying nearly half a column in the Post-Dispatch in which it was stated that the low gear was set for eight miles an hour and the high gear for 60 miles an hour. These statements are entirely misleading to the average reader and are totally ridiculous to the man understanding automobiles.

The gasoline motor generates its power only when working at a fairly high speed, and the transmission of the power from the engine to the driving wheels is one of the greatest problems in automobile construction. The best solution of this problem that has been discovered up to the present time is what is called the sliding gear transmission, which is usually three speeds forward and one reverse, while on some of the latest models of high-powered cars there are four speeds forward.

To move the car from a dead standstill without a serious jerk, that would be an injury to the car or a great discomfort to its occupants, a very low gear is used in the transmission, for starting. The second speed or intermediate is a hill climbing gear for use on excessively bad roads or excessively steep hills. The driving of the car under all ordinary conditions is done on the third speed, which is universally a direct drive from the engine to the rear axle, cutting out the intermediate gears of the transmission. The speed of the car is controlled entirely by the speed of the engine, which in turn is controlled by the advancing and retarding of the spark, and the opening and closing of the throttle. A really first-class automobile will drive along the level with the use of so little gasoline that the throttle can be almost closed, and for instance, to maintain a speed of eight miles an hour up the grade from Vandeventer avenue to Grand avenue on Olive or Lindell avenue would require the advancement of the spark and the opening of the throttle to an extent that would give 40 miles an hour on the level, and if the car were adjusted so that it was impossible to go more than eight miles an hour on the level, it would be impossible to climb that grade at all.

The automobile industry is a large one. St. Louis is the poorest automobile city in the United States in comparison to its size, and this condition is largely due to the attitude of the newspapers of St. Louis. The automobile dealers of St. Louis do less newspaper advertising than any of the other cities of anything like its population, and the great reason for it is that the newspapers assume a position antagonistic to the automobile trade, and in turn their position seems to be due mainly to ignorance of actual automobile conditions.

There are inconsiderate owners and drivers of automobiles who disregard the rights and safety of others, but they are a very small minority and are a no greater percentage than are the reckless and inconsiderate drivers of horses, and are a very much less percentage than the reckless and inconsiderate drivers of street cars.

The automobile is one of the great developments of the present age, and the investment in this industry at the present time amounts into millions, and at the same time it is only a small fraction of what the investment will be in the near future.

Every street car run in St. Louis will travel at from 35 to 40 miles per hour on the level with the controller in the high speed notch and every street car in St. Louis is run with the controller in the high speed notch as much as possible and it is really necessary that this be done or the motors would be damaged. If less powerful cars were put on the streets the street car service would suffer and thousands of people be inconvenienced and damaged by it. If the influential daily newspapers of St. Louis really have the interests of the public at heart in this matter I feel that it would be the part of wisdom and good business judgment to detail a bright, intelligent reporter, with some knowledge of mechanics, to learn the automobile business, so that when automobiles are talked about in the papers they could at least be talked of intelligently.

An automobile can be controlled easier than the street car, and, caution, accidents can be avoided by being able to get out of the way instead of being confined to a certain position in the street.

Twenty-five miles an hour is a perfectly safe speed for a modern automobile anywhere west of Jefferson avenue in St. Louis, and 25 miles an hour is a perfectly safe speed for a street car equipped with air brakes. The street car service of the city cannot be maintained in even a fairly efficient manner with a speed of less than 25 miles an hour, and there is no legitimate reason why the street cars and automobiles should both be forced to break the law in order to accomplish fairly efficient results.

If the newspapers would take this matter up conscientiously and get at the real facts and conditions I believe it would be but a short time until a proper ordinance were passed.

This letter is not written in a faultfinding spirit, but in an effort to advance the interests of an enormous industry by removing a false impression, so as to prevent misstatements in a powerful and fearless newspaper that I do not believe would stoop to deliberate misrepresentation that would work a great harm to many people.

J. H. PHILLIPS.

Scientific Tenacity.

From the Philadelphia Record.

The tenacity of purpose displayed by Prof. Waldstein, the eminent archeologist, has earned its just reward; his project has assumed a definite shape, and is now countenanced by the Italian Government.

The Central Commission of Antiquities and Fine Arts has unanimously accepted the professor's scheme for the excavation of Herculaneum on the following conditions: First, the subscriptions in and of the work shall be contributed from private sources, the funds to be administered by an international committee, under the presidency of the King of Italy. Secondly, that the Executive Committee be composed of an equal number of Italian and foreign members, all of whom are to be nominated by the Minister of Public Instruction. Thirdly, that the official report on the excavation shall be issued by and at the expense of the Italian Government. Fourthly, foreign members of the committee to be allowed to introduce students of their own nationality, who are to assist in the work of excavation. Fifthly, that whatever objects are discovered shall be the property of the Italian Government, which may allow foreign nations which have taken an important part in the work to have specimens and duplicates.

It will be seen from the distinctly worded conditions under which the excavations at Herculaneum are to be made that the Italian Government has not the slightest intention of departing from its long-established habit of claiming the lion's share of whatever may be unearthed.

Only Extravagant.

The earning of Sandy McIntosh amounted to a pound a week, and, like a good husband, when he was paid on Saturday he went straight home and gave that pound to his better half. One Saturday, however, he handed her over only 19 shillings and tenpence. Mrs. Sandy looked at the coins sadly, but offered no remark.

On the following Saturday entered Sandy once more with the same amount. Mrs. Sandy took the proffered coins without a word. The third Saturday, however, it was too much for her, and on receiving the same amont she burst into tears.

"O, Sandy, Sandy," she walled, "what hae ye been doin'?"

"Weel," said Sandy, "ale met auld Donald, and we had drinks."

"O, Sandy," she sobbed, "I'm sae glad. I dinna mind yer extravagance so much, but I was afraid ye were keeping up two establishments."—Short Stories.

STORIES OF PLACES

HERR MUERBE, a Dresden schoolmaster, on visiting Halle lately, went up to a policeman, and, touching his hat, begged in a courteous tone to be directed to his destination. The policeman stared at him, and told him that if he desired a reply he must speak more respectfully and take off his hat. This was too much for Herr Muerbe, who asked the policeman not to be insolent. Legal proceedings followed, and the Court has decided that, while Herr Muerbe was not obliged to take off his hat when addressing a policeman, he must pay a fine for using the word "insolent."

Cuban soil is so fertile that at the present time the cane field is planted only about once in 10 years. Experienced American growers say that there is no necessity ever to plant more than once if care is taken, in cutting the cane at harvest time, not to pull up any of the roots, as the new cane will immediately sprout from these. Ten tons of cane produce one ton of sugar if treated by the latest mechanical processes. A single plantation of 1000 acres may yield 3000 tons of the commercial article under fairly favorable conditions.

The appearance of a lawyer at Calabar, Africa, has moved a Gold Coast journal to remark that it "is unsafe for the people for lawyers to practice at this place. Their appearance will soon invegle everyone who is not careful into litigation, and the lawyers will feed on their folly, thereby ruining them."

Where the Escort Should Ride.

Perhaps one may say here that in accompanying a lady the escort's place is always upon her left and never, as is conventional, upon her right. Thus placed the man's right hand is always at her disposal, and he is between her and all passing dangers in traffic, where (as in America) we turn to the right. In other countries the position on the right is proper; but this custom of holding the reins in one hand and mounting only from the left side we have adopted without any reason.

While the two latter details are not necessary in civilian riding the former is improper for every reason in any riding, nor has the single objection argued against it—that a man if thus placed bump the lady's left leg and possibly bruise her—any weight if we allow that such an escort must, to be thus ranked, be at least a fair horseman, and in reasonable control of his own horse. He may, riding thus, save her from falling, and even lift her entirely off.—From "Learning to Ride" in the Outing Magazine.

KAISER WILHELM would like to substitute German for the French words which have become general in describing parts of automobiles and the men who drive them. He objects to the word "chauffeur," and henceforth those in his employ will be styled "wagen-fuhrer," that is to say, car or wagon drivers. He also objects to "chassis," "tonneau," "limousine," "garage" and sundry other French descriptive words, for which he has ordered plain German terms to be substituted.

M'GINNIS AND THE LABEL

Mr. Joseph A. McGinnis was for unions all the way;
He favored larger wages and a somewhat shorter day,
A walkout always pleased him, though he didn't have a cent;
But when the delegate said "Strike" McGinnis always went.
He did the shopping for his wife, because he liked to know
That naught save union articles were purchased with his dough.

"Has it got the union label?" McGinnis used to say.
"Has it got the union label? Show me if you're able.
If it hasn't got the label, take the bloomin' thing away."
Now, Joseph A. McGinnis was a man of good repute,
He went to church on Sunday in his union tailored suit.
Like many other union men, he led a blameless life,
And when he died, the neighbors said, "The blow will kill his wife."
He reached the pearly gates on time, as upright spirits do.
"Welcome," was St. Peter's greeting, and "I've got a harp for you."

"Has it got the union label?" McGinnis used to say.
"Has it got the union label? Show me if you're able.

RECIPES

Apple Cake.

ONE cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one-half teaspoon cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup sour apple sauce. Dissolve one teaspoon soda in a little hot water and beat in apple sauce. Stir in mixtures, add two cups of flour, one-half cup raisins. Bake 45 minutes.

Turkey Stuffing.

MIX one cup stale bread crumbs, one cup rolled cracker crumbs, one-half cup cold cooked ham, finely chopped, and one-half cup melted butter. Season with one tablespoonful poultry seasoning, one-half tablespoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper; then moisten with one and one-third cups scalded milk. If stuffing is to be served cold add one egg, slightly beaten.

Frosted Lemon.

BE sure to put this pie together just as directed and you will find it delicious: One smooth, juicy lemon, grate rind and cut up the pulp, put it into a cheesecloth and squeeze out all the juice. Now put a cup of sugar and piece of butter size of an egg into a bowl, put one teacup of water into a granite saucepan; stir a tablespoon of cornstarch up in a little cold water and add to the water in the same pan; stir it smooth, add butter and sugar, then the lemon juice and rind. Let this cool a little, then stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs. Pour this into the open crust and bake. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add one or two tablespoons of powdered sugar, heap over the pie and set into a very cool oven. This makes a nice pie, but it is very rich.

Cranberry Sauce.

ADD a handful of raisins when cooking cranberries. It makes a very nice sauce indeed. Instead of stewing cranberries and straining them, put them through a meat grinder, then stew them. No straining needed, so no waste. The raisins could be run through at the same time.

Plum Pudding.

NINE eggs, one pound of sugar, one pounds of chopped suet, one pound stoned raisins, one pound of currants, one-quarter pound of dried citron, one pound of flour, one tablespoon of mixed spice and one glass of brandy; add sufficient milk to mix it quite stiff. Steam six hours.

TRUE STORY OF GREAT STEWARD-CORBETT BOUT

Joe Made the Champion of the World Take to Cover With a Pair of Indian Clubs Before Friends Interfered.

NIE'S COLUMN

JOE STEWART was buried this morning and at the funeral were all of the old guard of sportsmen to pay tribute to one of the best real "sports"—and that geos in the real meaning of the word—St. Louis has ever known.

Every one who was at the funeral had something to say afterwards about the time Joe had his trouble with Jim Corbett when the pugilist was in his prime and was the champion of the world. So many versions of that famous encounter have been told that I am going to tell it all over, for I was there when it happened and was one of several who dragged Stewart away to prevent his putting an end to Corbett's career—and it took several, too, to protect the champion.

It was '97 and Corbett was playing a theatrical engagement in the city. There was no Missouri Athletic Club in those days, but the Pastime Club was in a flourishing condition on Vandeventer avenue in the building now called Louisiana Hall and Corbett would go out there in the morning and do some light work getting in shape for the trouncing he was later to get at the hands of Fitzsimmons.

On this particular morning Corbett put on the gloves with Stewart, who was a pretty shifty man with his hands. The champion thought he had a mark in front of him and was taking things easy when Joe cut loose a swing that almost put Corbett out. Jim was very jealous of his reputation at that time, and when the few spectators in the gymnasium laughed he lost his head and went after Stewart. Joe blocked the blows for a minute or two and then said he had enough. As he dropped his hands Corbett went at him and landed two or three hard blows and showed no intention of quitting.

It took Stewart about a second to get the gloves off and make a dash for the side of the hall where there was a rack of indian clubs. The next instant one of the heavy clubs sailed in Corbett's direction and the champion took to cover. Stewart grabbed two more of the clubs and went after Corbett yelling that he would kill him. It was then that the spectators dragged Stewart away and saved the champion from a broken head.

ATTELL SEEMS TO HAVE FOUND KNOCKOUT PUNCH.

When Abe Attell began fighting around St. Louis on Oct. 28, 1901, and, by winning from Dixon, began his real climb to the featherweight championship after a year and a half of minor fights in San Francisco and Denver, Joe Stewart was one of the admirers of the little Hebrew fighter and taught him a great deal about the game.

At that time Attell gave no promise of ever acquiring a knockout punch. The only knockout he landed around here was when he put Harry Forbes against the ropes and before Forbes could get his arms untangled Abe saw a chance and landed a swing that was not interrupted until it met Forbes' unprotected jaw.

That is one of the few knockouts credited to Attell and the fights fans have come to believe that he lacked the punch. The way he put it over Harry Lewis in Los Angeles the other night would indicate however that Abe has developed the long-desired wallop.

This boy has ever lacked in the game of fisticuffs to make him unbeatable. His class was the ability to strike a hard blow.

Blended it has been conceded all along that he was the cleverest boxer in the game. He has also been known that his blows never seemed to have much force behind them. Besides, he always appeared satisfied to outpoint his adversary, Sable never a hard thing for him to accomplish, owing to his wonderful $10 ins on points, was usually the referee's verdict at the conclusion Isab at, and so far as the money involved was concerned such a verdict was $2 good to him as one won by a knockout would have been.

But, nevertheless, his style of fighting was not popular with the fight fans. Those who go to see a boxing contest nowadays and pay for the privilege want to see slugging and not fancy boxing. They like to see the blood fly, and plenty of it, and not feinting and side-stepping of the Attell variety.

I, for one, have always contended that Attell could hit hard enough to put an opponent out if he would only set to deliver his blows and not try to deliver them while in motion.

He is a big fellow for his weight.

He has a strong and well-developed back, denoting great hitting power.

He has a splendid pair of arms and shoulders and knows how to scientifically deliver a blow as well as any boxer in the land, but somehow or other he has preferred to win his battles on points instead of by the knockout route. There never appeared any good reason why he should have pursued such tactics in a fight, as he possesses both the strength and ability to follow a more rugged and at the same time a more popular form of milling.

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY-IOWA GAME OFF.

The first authoritative information announced with reference to the games to appear on the Iowa University schedule shows that the stories so far published in that connection have not been far from the truth. The most notable thing in connection with football gossip is the fact that the Board of Athletic Control has adopted a new policy with reference to scheduling games. When the five-game rule was adopted the Hawkeyes immediately announced that at least two of the five games would be played with Iowa college teams. But in order to make football earn enough to support all other brances of athletic activity it is necesary that none but the major games be scheduled and for that reason it is possible that Ames will be the only Iowa college to play the Iowa State University next fall.

The University of Illinois has the first call on one of the other three games to be arranged, and it is probable that the negotiations now in progress between the two institutions will result in the signing of the contract for a game to be played in Iowa City. Nebraska is also favorably considered, though Kansas and Missouri Universities are asking for the date. The game scheduled with one of these three institutions will probably be played in Iowa City. Minnesota will not have a game on the Iowa schedule, and the Hawkeyes have regretfully broken relations with St. Louis University. The management of the latter institution have asked Iowa for another Thanksgiving Day game next fall, but the conference rule forbids such a contest. Iowa can have another date any time during the season, but it is doubtful if the game is arranged.

A NEW USE FOR CORK IN AUTO BUILDING.

That familiar article, the cork, has found another use, a use that seems almost impossible of belief. The elevated railroads of Boston found great difficulty in finding a satisfactory friction surface for their car brakes, experimenting with almost every known material suitable for the purpose. Finally cork was tried and the experiments revealed some hitherto unknown quantities possessed by that material. Its familiar springy sponginess would seem to indicate incapacity for hard work, but the experiments proved exactly the opposite of this, and cork was actually found to stand up better under the tremendous labor imposed upon it by the quick stoppage of railroad cars than any other material tried. In the course of evolution it was applied to brakes and clutches of automobiles, and has been adopted by some of the makers of high grade cars.

ST. LOUIS CHESS EXPERT TO PLAY

Geo. H. Wolbrecht Invited to Participate in International Cup Race.

IS WESTERN CHAMPION

George H. Wolbrecht of the St. Louis Chess Club, champion chess player of the Western United States and Canada, has recently been invited by the Brooklyn Cness Club to be one of a team of America's ten strongest chess players to play against an English team for the Newnes trophy.

This gift is the magnificent silver cup donated in 1896 by Sir George Newnes of the City of London Chess Club, to be played for annually by the strongest teams of ten players from the two nations, the country winning it three times in succession to be the final holder and owner.

One of the conditions imposed is that the players be native born and this has barred some famous players from participating, notably Dr. E. Lacker, world champion, and Max Judd of St. Louis, now deceased. The contest this year will take place in Brooklyn, Feb. 22 and 23, and the American team will include Frank Marshall, American champion; Herman Helms of Brooklyn, A. W. Fox of Manhattan and other well-known experts.

This is only the third time in the ten-year history of cable chess that a Western player has been accorded the high honor of an invitation to enter, the other instances being S. P. Johnson of Chicago, in 1898, and J. A. Galbreath of New Orleans, in 1898.

HARVARD TEAMS RESTLESS OVER ATHLETIC QUESTION

Students Have Begun to Complain of the Slow Work of the Investigators and for the Time Being Sports Are at a Standstill.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Harvard's athletic board has met again to discuss the question of intercollegiate athletics, the questions of competitive football and Harvard football again, several minor questions—and began and ended again at the old starting point of all recent discussions. On precisely what took place during the conference the members of the board observed their usual courteous reticence.

Prof. White stated, however, that the members confined themselves generally to the general situation of athletics in Cambridge. The special subjects of coaches for the baseball and football teams was temporarily neglected. Prof. White substantiated the general belief that no particular individual was under consideration for Bill Reid's vacant position.

The board is waiting impatiently for the Investigating Committee of the overseers and corporations to make its report on the subject of competitive athletics for Harvard. According to one member of the board whose name cannot be used just now, and for obvious reasons, the Investigating Committee is handicapping the athletic interests of Harvard, disturbing both graduates and undergraduates and embarrassing the present controlling board greatly by spending an unnecessary length of time on its labors.

This member, who seems to reflect very fairly the prevalent disgust in Cambridge, believes that the committee should make its report without delay, and so relieve the very evident tension and permit Harvard either to go ahead with her athletic arrangements or definitely drop all intercollegiate relations.

The other day the Athletic Board was compelled to notify Yale that it could not renew the usual two-year agreement. Humiliating as this confession of inability to act was, no alternative was, under the existing awkward circumstances, possible. Fortunately, Yale understood Harvard's position. The letter was formally recorded, but a date for the usual football game with Harvard was left open and the good feeling between the athletic heads of the two institutions was unaffected. Behind the note was a statement of the peculiar "local situations" in Cambridge and of the tardiness of the Investigating Committee to make its report.

It is not believed that this minority, so long out of relation with college athletics, understands fully the practical side of the control of college sports sufficiently also to understand the necessity of promptness. Football, of course, is only one branch of intercollegiate athletics in Cambridge. But football may very well serve as an illustration of the necessity for alacrity on the part of the Investigating Committee.

The manager of the eleven, in common with the managers of other elevens, begins to make out his schedule shortly after the close of the season. At the present time, therefore, the football schedules at nearly all the universities are in the process of completion and the outlook is clear for the transaction of numerous compulsory details. Harvard's schedule, however, is not even embryonic. It is possible, of course, to make out an informal schedule—to ask other universities to leave open this and that date for Harvard, in the event that intercollegiate football will be allowed at Cambridge during the coming fall.

BITS OF SPORT FOR HURRIED READERS

JACK SCHNEIDER, fullback on the St. Louis University football team, and while on the varsity track team last year considered one of the best hurdlers in the city, has been elected captain of the varsity track. Schneider is training with the remainder of the candidates for the team in the St. Louis U. gymnasium each afternoon.

O. D. DAVIS defeated Frank Keith by a score of 100 to 83 in the State pool championship tournament match at the Broadway last night. Davis' high run was 20. Davis will play Frank Dumont this evening.

FRANK BENSON defeated Charley Noland in the professional handicap three-cushion billiard tournament match at the Grand last night by a score of 20 to 13. Both men are allowed a five-point handicap in the tournament. Jesse Lean will play Frank Day this evening.

THOMAS HUESTON, the local man who holds the pool champion emblem, has settled upon New York as the city in which he will meet George Dawson, challenger for the title. The dates will be Feb. 7, 8 and 9. Jerome Keough, from whom Hueston won the title, is out with an announcement that he will challenge the winner. Dawson is at present playing in the Lindell Academy.

THE ST. LOUIS University independents will meet the Central Y. M. C. A. basket-ball team in a game in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this evening. The Wageners and Central Y. M. C. A. second five will precede the big game of the evening.

HARRY CLINE, the Philadelphia billiardist, will meet John Daly of New York in a special 40-point game of three-cushion billiards at the Lindell Academy tonight. Tomorrow night Charley Peterson and Alfredo De Oro will clash in a 50-point red-ball match.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS for the first annual dance to be given by the Mound City Football League at Liederkranz Hall, 3940 Easton avenue, on Jan. 23, will be made this evening at a meeting to be held at Hibernian Hall.

FRED BEELL and Demetral, the Greek wrestler, will meet in a match in Chicago Friday night which will be best two out of three falls. Demetral recently won a match in Chicago and is, therefore, a good drawing card in the Windy City. Charles Olsen, the local wrestler, is also after a match with Demetral.

PAUL FRESE and M. Summerfield, each with 88 scores out of a possible 100 tied for high honors in the weekly shoot of the St. Louis Revolver Club last night. Sidney Sears made an 86 score. All of the men were many points away from their best marks.

AT A MEETING of the Athletic Committee of the Missouri A. C., to be held this evening, the athletic program for the club athletes for the next three months will be mapped out. It is probable that the club will at least hold one open handicap athletic meet in the gymnasium before spring.

GEORGE SUTTON retains his title as 18.2 balk-line billiard champion because of his defeat of Ora Morningstar in a 500-point match for the championship played at Chicago last night. Sutton scored 500 while Morningstar was gathering 472. Both men were in but ordinary form, and it took over four hours to play the match.

JACK DUNN speaks glowingly of the ability of Storke, the Amherst third baseman secured by Pittsburg from Providence. In style and build he resembles Devlin and Bradley. Another collegian to keep an eye on is Grant, whom Billy Murray takes from Jersey City to Philadelphia. Grant is a Harvard man.

COAKLEY IS a Holy Cross man, and nothing but crackerjacks ever turned out from that institution. Garry Herrmann need not worry about Coakley.—Exchange.

AMBROSE PUTTMANN, the human hatpin, who was never quit good enough to pitch for the Yanks, had a record of 18 victories and 17 defeats last year.

THEY ARE all taking knocks at John T. Brush, but there was never a man who ever had the best interest of the game at heart more than John T. His speech at the banquet given to Messrs. Soden and Conant was a classic. Mr. Brush naturally has the interests of his own club to look after, but never to the detriment of the sport. John T. is the most misjudged man who was ever interested in the national game.—New York Exchange.

JIM BANNON says the Eastern League pays far better salaries than the American Asociation, and Jim ought to know.

THE YANKEES can let Chesbro go for Patten, perhaps, but any bonus or the including of Joe Yeager in the deal would be foolish.

MIKE DONLIN is sorry because Joe Cantillon's Senators are not in the National League. Cantillon once said that Mike never takes a drink between seasons. Mike never sandwiches them in between base hits.

JIMMY DELAHANTY will make a good man for the St. Louis Browns. Make no mistake about that. That Delahanty family is a wonder.—Exchange.

M. A. C. BOXERS TRAINING HARD

Dual Meet With Illinois A. C. Fighters Holds No Alarms for Sullivan.

HEAVYWEIGHT IN TRY

Four bouts will compose the program for the dual amateur boxing tournament between the Missouri A. C. and New Illinois A. C., to be held at the M. A. C., Saturday night. Three other bouts between local men will also be put on.

The Chicago men are expected to arrive Friday night. They are to weigh in at 3 p. m. Saturday. Joe Choynski, the well-known professional fighter, is training the Chicago men and will handle them on the night of the tournament. Tommy Sullivan, boxing instructor of the Missouri A. C., is getting the club boxers in condition for the tournament. Al Tefte, another local professional boxer, is helping Sullivan to work the wearers of the Cherry Diamond.

Sullivan is confident that his men will win the tournament. Bob Gresham, in the 105-pound class, is looked upon as a sure winner. Oliver Kirk is expected to win from John Hoelle at 125 pounds, as Kirk seems to be at his best now, judging from his victory over Monte Dale at the Olympic A. C. last Friday night.

Joe Lydon is in good condition and is taking long runs through the park early in the morning, so that he should be right on edge for the bout with Ben Lindstedt, who is said to be one of the best 132-pound men in Chicago. Lydon's best weight is 135 pounds. Lydon knows that in Lindstedt he will be meeting a hard man to defeat, and therefore will box carefully.

Frank Geschke is working like a Trojan every afternoon to get in condition for James Hoelle, who will meet him at 147 pounds. Geschke says that he feels good and that Hoelle will find that he will be able to go the three rounds at a fast clip.

What should be the best contest of the evening, however, will be between Marshall Eaton, representing the Crescent A. C. and Jack Shelton of the Missouri A. C. These boys met in the final of the 115-pound class of the W. A. A. U. championships and after a whirlwind battle Shelton won on a knockout in the third round.

Big Jim Feenan, the heavyweight, is to get a chance to show his speed when he meets W. Krause of the Crescent A. C. Krause is strong and husky. He won the W. A. U. title. He can make 158 pounds while Feenan weighs 210. Yesterday Feenan put on the gloves with Pat Campion, a young fellow standing 6 feet 2 inches. Campion was not in condition and Feenan handled him in easy fashion, because the Granite City man never had an outside chance.

BEACH RACK MEET IS NOW RUNNING

Autos Are Trying for Wonderful Speed Records Down in Florida.

FAST ONES ARE THERE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ORMOND, Fla., Jan. 22.—The fifth annual Ormond-Daytona automobile meet has begun. The original program provided for record trials Monday. Several requests were made, however, for a postponement until Tuesday and "Senator" W. J. Morgan agreed to this arrangement.

One reason of the change was a railroad accident, to the Stanley steam creations while en route for Ormond, by which several wheels were broken on the cars. It became necessary to send north for others, and it is not expected all the steamers will be ready for the beach until Tuesday evening.

Expect to Race in Mornings.

The time of starting each day's events on the fine stretch of sand depends on tidal conditions. During all the week low water prevails during the morning hours, making it almost a certainty that the greater part of the racing will be decided before noon.

The 20-mile stretch of excellent going on the beach between Ormond and Daytonia is one of the finest speeding grounds in the world. The shell underbody allows the water to sink away quickly, leaving a hard surface, equal in smoothness to a billiard table.

The clubhouse of the Florida East Coast Automobile Association, under whose auspices the meet is held, is located at Daytona, some six miles from Ormond. At the latter place most of the motorists from the North take quarters. The management of the racing aims to divide the starting point of the different events as equally as possible between Ormond and Daytona. Whenever the starts are made opposite the clubhouse at Daytona, motorists stopping at Ormond have to make the six-mile ride down the beach.

The Results.

The five-mile event, from standing start, was won by Blakely in a 70 horsepower gasoline car. His time was 4m. 25s. There was no previous standing-start record for this distance.

The five-mile event, flying start, open to all weights and powers, was won by Marriott in a 30 horsepower steam car in 3m. 44-5s. which is 1m. slower than the record.

9:45 p. m.—Merchants, Geo. Jenette; Crit-Genden, E. Steiger; Ermatingers, W. H. Sicksick; Northwestern; Entre Nous, William Schlueter; Independents, F. Vierling; Empire, H. J. Korte; Banner, Dr. Grier.

With 2710 on the flat and a handicap of 18 pins, making a grand total of 2728 pins, the Fern Glens carried off the honors in the five-man team series Monday evening before one of the largest audiences yet in attendance at the city tournament. The Bankers were one large disappointment. Dope on form had it that they would make a strong bid looking towards the breaking of records already held, but the failure to come up to their usual average held them to 2382 pins, including the handicap.

The 197 average of Louis Pabst for nine games seems destined to remain the leading figure of the tourney. With a high score of 597, or 199 average, Pabst has it on all comers and will probably be the medal man. Lake, Phillips, Mudd and other bowlers from whom much was expected have not come up to form.

AUTO INDUSTRY GAINING.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—The French automobile industry during the past year has continued to make remarkable strides. The statistics of exportation, which have just become available, show the exportation of French machines during the first nine months of 1906 exceeded those for the corresponding period of last year by 33,841,000 francs, the total exportation amounting to 126,451,000 francs, against an importation of foreign cars of only 7,150,000.

IDIOSYNCRASIES OF YOUNGSTERS

Youthful Baseball Bantlings Possess Peculiar Manias, Bad and Otherwise.

NEWS OF THE DIAMOND

M. Stanley Robison of the Cardinals is as fond of a fanning bee as an old maid of a tea party, and any time of the day or night, in his open faced suit or disenhabille, he is ready to discuss baseball and the players. With a sound basis for his views, he is one of the keenest and most charitable observers of the "bugginess" of some of the fanatics of the game and it's not hard to lead him into a discussion of the subject that might well be entitled "Bugs That I Have Known." Robison holds that the fixedness of some one peculiar idea often destroys the chances of a youngster in making good in fast company. These ideas run the gamut all the way from extreme modesty and lack of confidence up to a desire to murder the veteran whom he fails to supplant after a trying out.

One of the youngsters taken South last spring proved to have marked homicidal tendencies. He was an outfielder and was trying for one of the regular positions. Promptly on his arrival he went to the veteran covering the position and told him that he would kill him if he did not land it. He next attacked one of the other youngsters and only prompt interference prevented a tragedy.

This player also threatened others and was constantly burning with a moroseness that even the facile pen of an Edgar Allen Poe would have been inadequate to picture. He was about as companionable as a rattlesnake and was sent to the pines before the season was very old.

Thought He Had Enemies.

Another bantling possessed the mania of a man pursued by enemies. He had come from a minor club, where his work had been lauded to the blue dome and his advent into training and its consequent combative obscurity had "soured" him. He would come on the field, and, if not given the glad hand, would go to the bench and sulk the rest of the day. He brooded over his imagined ills, and, as a result, his playing was of a poor order. All of his good qualities were so eclipsed by this self-created melancholy that the order of "23" was the only natural sequence. This player undoubtedly carried back to the league from which he sprang the story of the hard row he had to hoe during his few days in big league society.

The fledgeling, who had a mania for wanting to do a monologue stunt when he should have been paying strict attention to playing ball, wasn't one, two, ninety-nine. This rapid fire conversationalist will never play on a big league circuit. A rut has been hollowed out for him in the country town leagues where that sort of thing is appreciated.

There is only one real idiosyncrasy that is appreciated by big league managers. The player whose worst hallucination is that of wanting to win every game is the one who will, in nine cases out of ten, outshine the stars who are inclined to shirk. That kind of a player is usually signed on the spot.

Harry Howell was manager of the Baltimore team for a few days in 1902. He still appreciates himself as manager, but it is in a humorous way. He was playing third base with the Baltimore team because there was no one else to play that corner and other pitchers were distributed around the lot on the days they should have been sitting on the bench.

FORTUNE WON HERE FOR GREEK BRIDE

Most Adept of Novel Chefs Off to Meet His Pretty Wife.

SON AWAITING COMING

Scoffers at Dream of Wealth in America Will Hide Heads.

Bound for ancient Greece to greet the young wife whom he left four years ago and for the first time to clasp in his arms his young son, Theodore Coukoulis, who has amassed a comfortable fortune in St. Louis during the past three years, left the city Monday night to make good a promise he made to his dark-eyed little sweetheart.

Coukoulic's real triumph will come when he can look the native scoffer in the eye, clothe his wife and little one in fine raiment and in triumph sail away with them for America.

Coukoulic has taken with him a snug $1000 in cash and letters of credit. The $1000 he announced Monday night would be spent to a penny.

When Coukoulic left Greece, penniless and with a young wife to support, his friends chaffed him and his enemies sneered. Then came the resolve to silence their jeers with the gold won in free America.

His introduction to the United States was not of the most pleasant character. He found that a man without money, who could not speak or understand the English language, was destined to have a hard row to hoe, and it was some time before he obtained employment. The language mastered, there was still the problem of establishing the home for the little woman in far away Greece, of whom he had never ceased to think, and while he was pondering over this subject the announcement came from home that a little boy had arrived.

With the announcement of the birth of his son life took on a new interest for Coukoulis. He worked for the baby and its mother by day and dreamed of them at night. Drifting into St. Louis, he succeeded in inducing Fred Suhr, who conducts a buffet at Sixth and Market streets, to rent him the door leading into the North Sixth street entrance to the place. Behind this door he established a lunchroom. A little gasoline stove did service in the early days, but now there is a modern gas range, and, bit by bit, the long awaited fortune materialized. And all from prices which were astonishingly low.

THREE-YEAR-OLD, RESCUES SISTER

Wisconsin Boy Drags Baby From Burning Room.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LA CROSSE, Wis., Jan. 22.—By dragging his baby sister, an infant in the cradle, from a burning house, "Toddles" Schrank, 3 years old, has become candidate for a Carnegie medal.

"Toddles'" heroism is believed by La Crosse people, who are advocating his decoration for bravery, to be unequaled, when his age is considered. He is in danger, however, of being spoiled by hero worshippers. Not only friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Schrank, but many others, hearing of his act, have crowded to pay tribute and see the youthful hero.

Mrs. Schrank was doing her morning's marketing. She left "Toddles" and the baby alone. The room caught fire. "Toddles" saw the flames and screamed for help. When none came, he tugged manfully at the clothes in the cradle until he pulled it over. The baby fell, crying, to the floor. "Toddles" grabbed his little sister's dress and dragged her over the floor to the front door. He opened this with difficulty, as he could hardly reach the knob. He then pulled the baby out of doors and into the street.

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED.

One Wife Couldn't Lead Horse Straight for Husband.

Three divorces were granted in the Clayton Circuit Court Tuesday morning by Judge McElhinney. Each case was granted on default. Tuesday was "divorce day" at Clayton.

Adam Marcrander, 23 years old, of Old Orchard, St. Louis County, was granted a divorce from Anna Laura Marcrander. He testified that he was married in Clayton, June 21, 1905, and he separated from his wife Aug. 5, 1905. A few days before the separation, Marcrander testified, he intercepted a letter for his wife and found it to be from an old admirer. He resented the letter. When his wife left, Marcrander was under the impression that she had gone to Indian Territory with another man. While they were married Marcrander testified that they lived with his father, Peter Marcrander, in Old Orchard.

Mrs. Sophia Steinkamp was granted a divorce from Henry Steinkamp. Mrs. Steinkamp testified that she was married in June, 1903, and separated from her husband in July, 1906. She testified that while living near Jefferson Barracks her husband drove her out of the house with a revolver and on other occasions, after getting her out of the house, would lock the windows and doors.

Mrs. Steinkamp said that on one occasion, while her husband and herself were planting potatoes, Steinkamp became angry and scolded her because she failed to lead the horse in a straight line.

Mrs. Ida Blanchfield of Ferguson was granted a divorce from James H. Blanchfield. Mrs. Blanchfield testified that her husband's home is in California.

WINS $1000 FOR BEING PUT OFF CAR

P. J. Carmody Must Relinquish $2 Verdict to Get Bigger Sum.

By foregoing $2, Patrick J. Carmody may make $1000, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals handed down Tuesday. Carmody sued the St. Louis Transit Co. for a total of $30,000 damages, $10,000 actual and $20,000 punitive, for having been put off a Broadway car May 18, 1901, at Seventh and Soulard streets, when he presented a transfer that had been torn in two.

In the Circuit Court he was awarded $1000 actual and $2 punitive damages. By the decision of the Court of Appeals he is given the option of accepting the $1000 and remitting the $2 or of having the case reversed and remanded on the ground that there was an error in the instructions relating to the punitive damages. He is given 10 days in which to make up his mind.

MAYOR AWAITS GRAND JURY.

He May Investigate Macaulay's Fees Later On.

Mayor Wells told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that he would take no action relative to the investigation being made by the grand jury of the fees received by Owen J. Macaulay, Clerk of the City Hall Police Court, until it had made its report. He said that if the grand jury left the matter open, he would begin another investigation through the law department of his office.

Clerk Macaulay collects fees for making bonds on appeals from the First District Police Court, and in some instances, it is said, his receipts have been as high as $20 a day. The salary of the position is $1200 a year.

"I do not think I should interfere in the matter while the grand jury has it under consideration," said Mayor Wells Tuesday. "If the grand jury's conclusion does not settle it definitely, I have made up my mind to investigate for myself and find if the clerk of the court has a right to accept such fees.

"The case was attracted to my attention before the grand jury took it up and I made some inquiries at the time. I was then told that the making of bonds for appeal by a responsible person, such as the clerk of the court, was a distinct public service and benefit.

"It seemed better to me then that a responsible man should do the work than any Tom, Dick or Harry, who would do it in a bungling manner and charge unreasonable fees.

"If the matter is still open when the grand jury arrives at a conclusion, I shall take it up through the law department and learn whether the law has been violated."

FEAR MADE HIM A PLOTTER.

Ex-Convict Blames Safe-Blowing Plan on Pals.

William Sandman, who surrendered to the police of the Chestnut Street Station Monday night, saying he and two other men had planned to blow the safe of the Lafayette Bank, Broadway and Park avenue, admitted to Chief of Detectives Desmond Tuesday that he is an ex-convict. He says he served two years in the Penitentiary at Jefferson City for stealing copper.

"I was standing at Sixth and Chestnut streets shortly before 7 o'clock Monday evening when two strangers approached me and asked if I would help them do a job," said Sandman. "I asked them what kind of a job they wanted me to do and they told me they intended to rob a safe at the Lafayette Bank. One of the men told me he had the 'stuff' to do the job with. I was afraid to refuse, thinking they might assault me, so I made an appointment to meet them at Sixth and Market streets at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Then I went to the Chestnut Street Station and reported the matter. They locked me up."

Sandman said he would know the two men if he should see them again. He is 49 years old and lives at the Erie House.

AMELIA BINGHAM BANQUETED

Faust Dinner in Her Honor Given by Messrs. Openheimer.

A banquet in honor of Miss Amelia Bingham was given by the Messrs. Sol N. and Jacob Oppenheimer of the Lyric Amusement Co. at Faust's Monday night, following the performance of "The Lilac Room" by Miss Bingham and her company at the Century Theater. The Faust annex was decorated with lilacs and rechristened the "lilac room" for the occasion, a series of Bingham portraits adorned the apartment where the guests of the evening assembled, the menu card was decorated with lilacs, its cover bearing a portrait of Miss Bingham as Emily Painter in "The Lilac Room," and the souvenirs consisted of dolls dressed to represent Miss Bingham in the lilac bedroom scene of her new play.

The guests assembled about 11:30 o'clock, being received by the Messrs. Oppenheimer and Richard Spamer, and quite an elaborate banquet was served at midnight, the tables being arranged T-shaped, with Miss Bingham occupying the post of honor. The name of each guest on the menu card was followed by an appropriate poetical quotation, and impromptu responses to toasts were pleasant features of the gathering, during which there was much reminiscent talk of Miss Bangham's last-summer engagement at Suburban Garden and expressions of expectation of pleasure to be derived from her engagement for next summer, when she opens the Suburban season, beginning May 19. Among those participating were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bingham, the guests of honor; Messieurs and Mmes. Frank E. Anfenger, Charles T. Cavanagh, Albert Cohn, August Diez, Otto E. Forster, Ripley D. Saunders, Patrick Short and Richard Spamer, Mrs Georgia Head, Misses Mamie Cohn and Fannie Rich, and Messrs. Louis Dodge, A. H. Head, S. N. Oppenheimer, Jacob Oppenheimer and Morris Rich.

GAMBLING A CELEBRATION.

Plea of Greek New Year Custom Was in Vain.

Three men arraigned in the City Hall Police Court Tuesday for gambling on Jan. 14, made the defense that the day was the Greek New Year, on which playing games for cakes is a custom among all classes in their mother country.

The men were arrested on the second floor of 516 Walnut street. They were playing, according to the testimony of policemen, a Greek card game called "Triantaena," or "31." They were seen to pass money from hand to hand.

Steve Kokanjos told Judge Tracy that the game was not for money, but for cakes. He said that the proprietor of the place, which is a coffee house, had told them that the Police Department would permit gambling on that day in deference to the custom of their country.

Judge Tracy held that the customs of Greece were immaterial in America and fined each of the defendants $5 and costs. The others are John Terzis and Evan Conlis. Peter Towncanis, proprietor of the place, was arraigned for keeping a gambling house and was discharged.

George Lamanes of 516 Walnut street, who was arrested with the others, did not appear in court. A bond forfeiture was ordered to issue against Samuel Epstein of 208 South Broadway, who furnished security for him.

FOLK'S OPPONENTS LOOK INTO PARDONS

Seven Applications Granted by Governor Since Assembly Convened.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Opponents of the State administration are discussing with vigor the report that since the General Assembly convened, Gov. Folk, at the instance of various senators and representatives, has issued one-seventh as many pardons as were granted during the previous two years of his administration.

At the same time, the Governor's critics are unwilling to charge that these pardons are not justified by substantial reasons. However, there is talk in legislative circles of a resolution of inquiry into the matter.

The records of the Secretary of State's office show that since Jan. 1, or during the three weeks the General Assembly has been in session, Gov. Folk has granted seven pardons, and that during the previous two years he passed favorably on but 53 applications. Four of the seven were recommended by members of the present Assembly, one by a member of the last Senate, and in two cases there are no written recommendations on file.

Senator T. R. R. Ely of Dunklin County indorsed two pardons issued by the Governor, one for W. T. Nicholas, alias Ruffet Nicholas of Pemiscot County, and the other for William Evans of Carter County.

In his order in the Evans case, the Governor says "Senator Ely, after a full investigation of the case, recommends the pardon of Evans." Ely's letter, on file with the Secretary of State, says he indorses the application for a pardon after "a hasty perusal" of the letters on file with the Pardon Attorney. Ely especially mentioned the letter of the trial Judge as leading him to believe the pardon was justified.

Nicholas was serving a sentence of 10 years in the Penitentiary for second degree murder, and Evans was serving 15 years on the same charge.

Whitaker Indorsed One.

Representative John Whitaker of Hickory County indorsed the pardon application of James E. Kelley of Polk County, who was freed by the Governor Saturday. Kelley had a sentence of two years for assault. The application of T. H. Norris of Christian County was indorsed by Senator G. R. Curry of Ozark County. Norris was released on a pardon Jan. 12. He was serving five years for forgery.

Arch Fagan, who was serving two years for assault to kill, was pardoned by the Governor Jan. 5. Accompanying the papers in the Fagan case is a letter from former Senator L. A. Vories. Fagan was paroled by the trial judge at the time of the trial, but violated the conditions of his parole and was sent to the Penitentiary.

In the cases of Charles Bershears of Butler County and L. H. Wright of Morgan County, two pardons issued, there are no written indorsements by members of either the House or Senate. Bershears was serving three years in the Reform School for Boys at Boonville, for burglary, and Wright was serving three years in the penitentiary for embezzlement.

BURNHAM TO SING SING.

Former Life Insurance Official Goes to Prison Today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Unless there should be an unexpected change in the arrangements, George Burnham Jr., former vice-president and general counsel to the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co., will be removed from the Tombs to Sing Sing today. He was convicted of grand larceny in connection with the management of the affairs of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co.

The grand jury has not yet taken up consideration of the Metropolitan Life. It may not do so before next week. Meantime, Assistant District Attorney Kresel and his experts are perfecting plans for probing into the Metropolitan Life books.

Ninety New Locomotives.

Ninety new engines—75 for freight and 15 for passenger service—have just been ordered by the Burlington for 1907 delivery. The 15 passenger locomotives are of the Pacific type and belong to the "S1" class.

Ready for service, the new monsters weigh 376,000 pounds and are over 75 feet long; their drive wheels, six in number, are 74 inches high. The tender holds 8000 gallons of water and 26,000 pounds of coal.

The freight engines are a trifle lighter—a matter of some 8000 pounds—but this is not apparent to the casual observer. They weigh only 368,000 pounds and are well adapted for fast service. They are 73 feet long, have six drivers and carry in their tenders 8000 gallons of water and 32,000 pounds of coal.

With the delivery of the new engines the Burlington will have 45 "S1" class passenger engines and 175 "R5" freight engines. They are considered the best locomotives ever built for their respective branches of service. The American Locomotive Co. is the builder of the 90 new engines.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—A dwelling house at Lake Forest, owned by Albert M. Day, and occupied by J. A. Miller, head of the Miller Slate Roofing Co., Chicago, was destroyed by fire early yesterday, together with most of its contents. The Lake Forest Fire Department, college students and others were unable to save it. The loss was estimated at $50,000, covered by insurance. A defective flue is said to have started the fire.

FALLS ON STOVE, FATALLY BURNED

Miss Bertha Mussler Meets With Serious Accident at West Granite City Home.

Miss Bertha Mussler, 45 years old, who lives with her sister, Mrs. Henry Renicher of 2127 Dewey avenue, West Granite City, was probably fatally burned Monday afternoon. She was alone in the sitting room with her sister's small child, and it is believed that she fainted and fell against a stove. Her clothing caught on fire and was burned from her body.

Thomas F. Leydon and a man named McCasland were passing the house and saw the flames. They went to the aid of Miss Mussler, but she had already been so badly burned that she is not expected to recover.

The flames from her dress had set fire to the curtains and the carpets in the room. Leydon and McCasland put out the fire with buckets of water. The child who was in the room when Miss Mussler's clothes caught fire ran out and escaped injury.

BOY HIGHWAYMAN GETS TEN YEARS

Geoffrey Ryan, Who Terrorized West End by Seven Hold-Ups, Goes to Prison.

Geoffrey Ryan, who will be 19 years old next month, was sentenced to serve 10 years in the Penitentiary by a jury in Judge Sale's court Tuesday, on a charge of highway robbery.

Before the case was tried, Mrs. Margaret Ryan, the boy's mother, and his attorney, A. C. Ketring, tried to persuade him to accept the State's offer to let him off with a six-year sentence if he would plead guilty. He refused. The witnesses against him were William Robinson and Miss Pearl Carr of 3044 Cass avenue, whom he was accused of robbing at Cass and Garrison avenues on the night of Dec. 22.

Ryan is accused also of taking a watch and $13 from Henry Emery of 2506 Knapp street on the same night. Unless he applies for a new trial the latter charge will be dismissed. If he insists on a retrial he will be prosecuted in the Emery case. The trial is set for 2 p. m. Tuesday.

DRINKS ACID AND ASKS NOOK TO DIE

Belleville Suicide, Sick and Poor, Craves Last Boon of Life.

George Thebus of Belleville, sick and unable to get work, swallowed carbolic acid with a cup of coffee he persuaded his mother to prepare for him. Then he turned to her.

"Mother," he said, "I've done it. I'll go out now and find a place to die."

He walked from the room into the kitchen, and fell to the floor. He was dying when Mrs. Thebus reached his side, and when a physician reached the home, 13 West Fourth street, life was extinct.

Thebus was an iron molder, 32 years old. He had often threatened to end his life. He swallowed the acid Monday afternoon. A Coroner's jury Monday night returned a verdict of suicide. The mother and two brothers survive him.

City Convention for House.

Nomination of Democratic candidates for the House of Delegates by a city convention, rather than by ward gatherings, was advocated by August Heman, president of the Jefferson Club, who was present on a Committeeman's proxy at the Democratic City Committee meeting Monday night at the Jefferson Club. No action was taken on Heman's suggestion. The committee did nothing except to make plans for registration Feb. 14.

LOST 24 HOURS ON RIVER.

Two Nearly Dead When Taken From a Drift.

WABASH, Ind., Jan. 22.—Alfred and Pearl McNear were rescued from a drift in the swollen Eel River Sunday, after having been marooned for 24 hours in a severe rain and wind storm. Searching parties had almost given up hopes of finding them when the boat in which the two had gone on the river was discovered.

The boat had capsized, but the occupants had succeeded in reaching the drift. They were almost unconscious from exposure when rescued. Shortly after removing the couple from the drift, Ernest Ebbinghouse and Newton Lautzenhiser were thrown from the boat by a steamer going down the river and barely escaped with their lives.

NEW TRIAL FOR LAND CASE.

Judge McElhinney Heeds Plea for a Rehearing.

Judge McElhinney in the Clayton Circuit Court has granted a new trial in the case of Sidney A. Dean and others against Cholen G. Cloud and others, in which Dean sought to set aside a transfer of 241 acres of land in St. Louis County for land in Mount Vernon, Ill., and in Brewster and Foley County, Tex.

The case was tried at the last term of the Clayton Circuit Court and was decided against Dean. In his motion for a new trial he alleged that Cloud's title to a part of the Texas land was not perfect. An affidavit of the Recorder of Deeds of Brewster County, Texas, was filed supporting the motion.

The St. Louis County land is valued at $18,000.

COFFEE POISON ANTIDOTE.

Husband's Departure Causes Woman to Take Acid.

Hot coffee, administered as an emergency antidote by boarders who found Mrs. Leona Maxwell of 2638 Pine street unconscious after taking a large dose of carbolic acid, saved her life, physicians say. She is recovering at the City Hospital, according to reports Tuesday.

Mrs. Maxwell is 24 years old, and is the wife of F. E. Maxwell, said to be a traveling representative of the Westlake Construction Co. She and her 2-year-old daughter board at 2638 Pine street.

Mrs. Maxwell said she attempted to take her life because she had been troubled with an affliction of the throat, and because her husband had decided to go to Tennessee.

FARRIS SAYS HE IS NOT FOLK'S AVOWED ENEMY

Representative Defends His Course While Speaking for Lobby Bill.

MEASURE IS ADVANCED

Substitute Goes to Engrossment as Corporation Agents Arrive.

ONE VOTE AGAINST IT

Hill Calls It Freak Legislation, Then Changes Ballot in Favor.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—At the moment when the House of Representatives was debating the merits of the anti-lobby bill, a Missouri Pacific train, carrying a score of corporation agents, pulled into Jefferson City As the passengers wended their way from the depot to the Madison House the following familiar faces were recognized:

Henry L. Priest, general counsel of the United Railways Co.; Morton Jourdan, attorney for the same corporation; Col. William H. Phelps and Col. "Jim" Seibert, representing the Missouri Pacific and St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway companies; W. L. McDonald, vice-president of the Commonwealth Trust Co. of St. Louis; Charles W. Gleed, director in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Co. and the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co., and E. S. Wilson, attorney at Mexico, Mo., of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Co

This delegation was preceded earlier in the day by a number of former senators and representatives, who are lobbying here in behalf of special interests.

"How is the anti-lobby bill getting along?" asked Phelps, as he dropped a mysterious-looking handbag to the floor and reached for a pen to inscribe his name on the register.

"It has just been adopted and sent to engrossment," came a chorus of answers.

The Colonel chuckled and walked away.

In support of the anti-lobby bill, as adopted by the House, Representative Spencer of Stoddard and other Democratic leaders called attention to the story in last Thursday's Post-Dispatch relative to the activity of the lobby. The Post-Dispatch was praised as that "great, independent paper" that had not hesitated to furnish the public with information of the lobby's doings and to print the names of lobbyists who are making Jefferson City their headquarters during the legislative session.

Cites Post-Dispatch Story.

Before the largest crowd ever assembled in the Missouri House of Representatives, Mr. Spence produced copies of the Post-Dispatch containing exposures of the lobby's work. Dramatically, he reviewed that part of the story detailing the lavish expenditures of J. H. Van Brunt, president of the St. Joseph Street Railway Co.

"If that story is not true," exclaimed Mr. Spence, "it is a slander on this Assembly, but I believe it is true."

Members joined with the spectators in cheering Mr. Spence's remarks, but no one attempted to question the accuracy of the Post-Dispatch publication.

The anti-lobby bill, changing in most of its salient features the original administration measure, was sent to engrossment in the House after a spirited debate of more than two hours.

The amended bill, introduced by Hughes of Callaway County, the author of the original, was introduced immediately after the House convened It was understood among the members that the amended bill had the indorsement of Gov. Folk.

It was very apparent before the session opened that there was great danger that Gov. Folk's anti-lobby bill would not pass even the House. For several days the Governor has been in frequent conference with Hughes and other friends of the administration, with the result that at the last moment, the amendment was drafted, changing the features objected to in the original. The amendment was pleasing to the House, which gave a practically unanimous vote for the bill as amended. Many Democrats had announced positively that they would not vote for the original. All voted for the amended bill.

The original measure provided that legislative agents or lobbyists should not approach any member of the Legislature for the purpose of talking with him regarding proposed or pending bills.

This feature of the bill was entirely eliminated by the amendment, which provides instead that all paid legislative agents shall register in the office of the Secretary of State, stating in an affidavit the bills in which they are interested. The employers of these lobbyists are required to make affidavit within two months after the session closes as to the amount of money expended and the manner and purposes of the expenditure.

Violation of any of the provisions is made punishable by a fine of not more than $1000 and imprisonment for two years. The amended bill leaves the one section of the original prohibiting lobbyists from appearing on the floor of either House of the General Assembly while it is in session.

One feature of the debate was that only one member of the Republican minority voted with the minority leader, Hill of Butler, and the latter changed his vote after finding that only two votes were cast against the engrossment of the bill. Silver of St. Charles County voted with Hill and did not change his vote. Hill classed the bill with freak legislation.

Hill Opposed to Bill.

Hill made the only speech against the bill. Those speaking for it were Hughes of Callaway, Spence of Stoddard, Gannaway of Monroe, Huck of Ste. Genevieve, Spear of Osage, Whitaker of Hickory, Farris of Crawford and Oliver of Pemiscot.

Spence made a strong appeal favoring the bill, remarking on the frailty of men. He mentioned the indictment of former Lieutenant-Governor John A. Lee for bribery. Lee was not tried. Representative Frank Farris, then a Senator, was also indicted, but was not convicted. Spence did not mention Farris, but the latter started his speech in the form of an answer to Spence.

During that portion of the Farris speech the House was in great suspense, and the scene was dramatic. Farris' wife was seated at his side. As he began speaking, deploring the reference to the indictment of former officers, the House became intensely silent.

"There have been more guilty men who have not been indicted than have been indicted," declared Farris. "For myself, I have no criticism for any public officer, even though his action affected my welfare and my reputation, even though it wrung the life blood from the members of my family. The verdict of the jury is the verdict of the law.

"It is at least unkind to refer to the past. Everything that could have been said about a man has been said about me. I care not for that. I care not for what any person may say or may think about me. I have the consciousness in my own mind that in my public career I have been guilty of no crime."

This statement brought applause from the House and galleries.

"In my 10 years of legislative experience," Mr. Farris went on, "there is no man who can truthfully say that my vote has been influenced by corrupt means. There is not a man who has served with me in those 10 years that can say I ever said I would vote for or against a bill and then changed my vote.

"I realize that men who do not know me came here with ears closed to anything I might say. I say, Mr. Speaker, that even you feared to give me committee assignments to which my experience entitles me. But whether you did or not, I have no censure for you. But, sir, with faith in myself and my own consciousness, I do not and will not fear to speak my sentiments.

Not Folk's Avowed Enemy.

"I am not here currying favor with those in political power, nor am I the enemy of such an one. If any measure meets my approval, I shall vote for it, no matter who the author may be. On any measure, except purely a political one, even a caucus could not bind me.

"I am not here as the avowed enemy of the chief executive. I have tried to be broad minded enough not to allow my personal feelings to influence my public acts. I am here as the personal representative of nobody except my constituents and the whole people of the State."

Farris closed with the announcement that he was opposed to the original anti-lobby bill, but favored the amended bill.

POST-DISPATCH COMPLETE DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCIAL

ST. LOUIS STOCK MARKET IS EASIER

In a Rather Dull Forenoon Session Trust Stocks are the Feature at Lower Figures—Bond Market Active—Commerce Sells at 323 Ex Rights.

There was a dull forenoon session of the Stock Exchange Tuesday. The bid and ask was fairly active, but the market was on the decline and selling did not materialize until nearly the close.

There was practically no market on traction preferred, for which 76¾ was bid at the opening. The bid was not increased and on offers of the stock at 77 there were sales at that figure in 10 and 17-share lots.

After the session was half over there was marked activity in Missouri-Lincoln Trust stock at 129½, the selling amounting in all to about 50 shares.

There was a fair market in Mississippi Valley Trust shares toward the close, sales of 150 shares in lots of 25 being made at 310, the price that has been bid for the stock during the last week. These sales were easier, however, than the last recorded.

Selling ex-rights in small lots there were few transactions in Bank of Commerce, easier at 323. The general tone of the local stock market continues to be easier. The close of the forenoon session was firm.

FINANCIAL.

J. P. Morgan & Co. took the $15,000,000 of new Southern Railway three-year 5-per-cent notes.

Call money on the New York Stock Exchange opened Thursday at 3 per cent and was quoted subsequently at 2¾ per cent.

Private wire to the financial district Tuesday morning announced the reduction of the discount rate of the Imperial German Bank to 6 per cent. The reduction follows by one week that of the English bank rate to 5 per cent, and it is believed a further reduction will be made in the English rate because of gains in gold by the English bank made the reduction. The reduction of the discount rates by the Bank of England and by the Imperial German were) forecasted in an official circular of the Swiss Bankverein, issued from the London branch the first week of the year.

A contest started on Francis L. Robbins, chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburg Coal Co., one year ago and resulted in Mr. Robbins winning the first round for control. He has secured his re-election as a director in the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Co., which is a subsidiary of the Pittsburg Coal Co., and also forced the retirement of M. H. Taylor, president of the Pittsburg Coal Co.; W. R. Woodford, vice-president of the same company, and R. H. Boggs as directors. In their places were elected David B. Oliver, J. Denniston Lyon and D. Leet Wilson, friends of Mr. Robbins. The latter will be re-elected president of the River Coal Co., a position he now occupies.

To drain Trout Lake the United States Steel Corporation will spend nearly $2,000,000. The lake is seven miles from Grand Rapids, Minn. It is a beautiful body of water four miles long and a mile wide. Trout Lake is near the Canisteo Mine, which has been opened by the Steel Corporation.

The strength in Chicago Railway Equipment Co. shares continues. A detailed statement of earnings will shortly be presented to shareholders. Local brokers are going on record as saying that the stock will command par or $10 very soon. They assert that much of the company's profits have been put into plant and charged against depreciation and other conservative accounts. They also point to the fact that at the present time the concern has also a record-breaking amount of orders on its books for future delivery.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for today, $10,578,448; last week, $10,088,462. Balances for today, $611,577; last week, $1,281,189. Increase, clearings, $489,986; decrease, balances, $669,612.

There is a heavy business just now in mercantile bills and short-term commercial notes. St. Louis note brokerage concerns are doing a lively business and one of their number stated today that he had moved over $1,000,000 of this class of paper within the past week, all of it going to institutions in the South and Southwest. As this business flows to St. Louis its importance as a banking center necessarily increases, and local intitutions are therefore fostering to a large extent this new factor.

SMALL EXIT COMES HIGH.

East St Louis Pays Well for Land Strip.

It will cost the City of East St. Louis $2187.50 to purchase a 60-foot strip of ground fronting on Washington place for the purpose of allowing Belmont avenue an exit on that street. A petition of the property owners, giving the amount required to purchase the ground, was filed with the City Council Monday and was referred to the Streets and Alleys Committee.

Belmont avenue has no outlet at either end. It is only seven blocks long, one terminal being at the Southern Railroad belt tracks, where it runs into an embankment eight feet high. At the other end the street terminates at the rear of a vacant lot 100 feet from Washington place. The only method of ingress and egress is through side streets.

HOGS—The run today was liberal, nearly twice as much as this day a year ago and the general quality good, although some lights and Southwest kinds were also included. The market opened 5c higher and trading was active at the advance, although appearance was not affected until late owing to the fact that many trains were late in getting in.

MARKET CLOSE IS ABOUT PARITY

Advance Tuesday Not Large but General, Covering Both Lists —Gain Over Monday's Finals 1 to 1½ Points—Close Firm With Strong Public Interest Apparent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—There has been a slow but steady advance from the opening of the market. There was a short wavering and hesitancy at the end of the first hour, but that passed and prices have not reverted to levels below the opening since.

The volume of trading is fair, but looks very professional. The sales to noon were less than half a million, and it is likely the sales for today will fall something under a million.

The advances Tuesday were over both lists, all of the leading issues of both lists participating. Amalgamated Copper and St. Paul were active with what was declared to be buying for inside interests. The Hill and Harriman shares took their part of the general advance, which averaged nearly 2 points at 1 o'clock and carried the general level at that time about a point over the finals of Monday and ½ to a point over the opening for the day.

Amalgamated Copper was supported all day around 115½ and there were very few quotations below that figure. St. Paul got as high as 150¾, but no lower than 149¼.

The kind of a market that has been recorded today will eventually bring better prices without any alarming jumps up or down for specialties, and it is believed is the kind of an advance the financial interests want. There is considerable accession of public interest in the market today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The market opening Tuesday was fractionally higher and the tone a great improvement on last week and Monday.

Fueling stocks and the Steel issues are strong and on the advance in the early quotations, with the exception of Smelter, which opened ½ to ⅜ off.

The general expectation is that the market will be irregular again today and probably for some few days to come. As soon as the talk about new stock issues subsides the market will improve.

WILL SIFT FEDERAL SITES.

Postmaster H. F. Bader of East St. Louis was notified Tuesday morning that a special agent of the U. S. Treasury Department, assigned by Secretary Shaw to investigate the purchase of the site for the proposed Federal building, will be in the city Thursday. He will hold a public hearing in the Federal Courtroom at 10:30 a. m.

The official notice requests that all persons interested in the selection of the site be present and present their claims. The site selected recently was the block on Missouri avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets, offered by H. D. Sexton, the purchase price being $52,500. Mutterings of dissatisfaction were freely heard and Congressman W. A. Rodenberg, through whom the appropriation was made for the $300,000 Federal building, officially requested that the purchase of the site be held up and an investigation made.

WHEAT SHOWS FEW CHANGES

Early Prices Were Firm and Higher, but Sold Off Near the End.

CLOSE ABOUT STEADY

Other Grains Slightly Lower—Bradstreet's Shows Decrease —Cash Offerings Light.

Local wheat, after being firm and fractionally higher in the early part of Tuesday's session, sold off towards the last and closed unchanged from ⅛c higher than Monday's finals. Corn closed 1-16c to ⅛@¼c lower, and oats ⅛c lower for the live option.

May wheat opened 1-16c lower at 76¾@76⅞c, advanced to 77¼c, declined to 76⅝c, and closed at 76⅞c sellers. July option opened ⅛c higher at 76c, advanced to 76⅛c, declined to 76@76⅛c and closed at 76⅛c bid.

May corn opened unchanged at 43¾c, declined to 43½@43⅝c and closed at 43⅝@43¾c bid. July corn opened ¼c lower at 44c and closed at 44@44⅛c asked, after going as high as 44⅜c.

January oats was quotable unchanged at 36⅝c nominal. May option opened ⅛c lower at 37⅝c and closed at 37⅞c bid. July oats was offered at 35⅛c, ⅛c higher than Monday's close.

Bradstreet estimates a decrease of 1,251,000 bu. against an increase of 1,130,000 bu last year, in wheat east of the Rocky Mountains, a decrease of 5,000,000 bu. against a decrease of 7,000,000 bu last year in wheat to Europe and afloat, and a decrease of 6,487,000 bu. against 430,000 bu decrease last year in the total world's visible supply of wheat. The visible supply of wheat in the United States, which was delayed Monday decreased 839,000 bu and amounted to 45,460,000 bu, against an increase of 1,941,000 bu, with 48,962,000 bu in sight at the same time last year.

Liverpool future wheat closed ¼d higher, with spot wheat unchanged. Paris closed ¼c lower to ¼c higher on wheat and unchanged to ¼c higher on flour. Berlin wheat closed 1c higher, Budapest ⅜c higher and Antwerp unchanged for the day.

At the opening of the local market there was some disposition to liquidate among the traders and the market was rather heavy. Commission houses were good buyers, however, apparently for outside interests, and a good demand existed throughout the early part of the session, which absorbed all of the offerings and prevented any decline. The higher cables, the unimproved movement locally and in the Northwest, and the decrease of 90,000 bu in Minneapolis stocks for three days were the elements producing strength, causing some quite good buying. Prices advanced steadily early in the day, reaching a point, ⅜c to ⅝c above Monday's finals.

In the late trading there was some aggressive selling in the pit and the demand having been practically exhausted prices receded steadily from the early advances, despite the bullish tone to Bradstreet's report. At the close prices were ⅛c lower to 3-16c higher than Monday's close.

Cash wheat was strong on the light offerings. The demand was not large, but everything offered was taken and at firm prices. The cash demand at Chicago and Minneapolis was good, No. 1 Northern in the latter market selling 2½c to 3c over May option, and No. 2 at May price to ½c over. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 202,000 bu.

The corn market opened easier, with a fair amount of trade. The colder weather in the corn belt, which is expected to cause an improvement in the movement, was the principal factor affecting prices.

There was considerable liquidation early in the day and prices declining ⅛@¼c and closing slightly above the low point at a loss of 1-16c to ⅛@¼c for the day. The world's visible supply of corn increased 1,405,000 bu, against an increase of 1,265,000 bu the same week last year. The visible supply of corn in the United States increased 773,000 bu and amounted to 7,272,000 bu, against an increase of 462,000 bu, with 14,223,000 bu visible at the same time last year. Cash corn prices were firm. Cables on corn were unchanged for the futures and unchanged to ½d higher on spot corn. Clearances of corn for the day were 130,000 bu.

Trading in oats was quiet and prices easier. Receipts locally picked up considerably and in Chicago were above the estimates. The weather is favorable for the crop movement. Prices on the active option, May, closed ¼c lower and were nominally unchanged to slightly higher on January and July. The visible supply of oats in the United States decreased 326,000 bu, and totals 12,241,000 bu, against an increase of 63,000 bu, with 27,315,000 bu in sight last year. Cash oats prices were strong, with a light business. Oats clearances were 12,000 bu.

Following is Broomhall's weekly foreign crop summary:

United Kingdom—Crop outlook satisfactory.

France—Weather is unseasonably mild, but crop outlook satisfactory.

Germany—Weather mild, but no complaints heard regarding crop outlook, which is good.

Hungary—Official report for week ending 15th said weather seasonable and outlook is good, except where damaged by mice, which is of small consequence.

Roumania—Official report for week ending Jan. 15, said crop outlook very favorable, good snow covering.

Russia—Splendid snow covering, except in southern coast belt. Arrivals at ports small. Government is still actively buying grain for famine districts, mostly rye.

Denmark and Spain—Crop outlok favorable.

Portugal—Some damage at time of seeding, owing to drought, and importation of wheat is expected. Corn is about exhausted and imports are necessary.

Argentine—It is generally believed that there will be a reduction in duty on corn, and negotiations have already commenced to form a commercial treaty with the United States.

Liverpool Corn Trade News estimates European wheat requirements Jan. 1 to April 30 at 130,000,000, against 113,500,000 last year. The probable requirements for the period from Jan. 1 to April 30 are estimated at 153,600,000, or 21,000,000 more than the probable arrivals from foreign sources, thus making it necessary that stocks on hand will have to be drawn upon for the deficiency. In the shipments for the four months, America is put down for 36,000,000 and Russia and Balkan states 32,000,000 and Argentine same, 32,000,000.

Minneapolis stock decreased 90,000 bu. for three days. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis, 130, against 225 last year; Duluth, 59, against 149 last year; Winnipeg, 36, against 167 last year. Total, 225, against 541 last year.

Primary movement: Receipts—Wheat, 319,364 bu, against 562,564 bu last year. Corn, 818,904 bu, against 579,574 bu last year. Oats, 565,839 bu, against 619,664 bu last year. Shipments—Wheat, 145,187 bu, against 248,000 bu last year. Corn, 420,650 bu, against 554,000 bu last year. Oats, 356,349 bu, against 681,000 bu last year.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.

The New York opening: March 1 up at 9:42; May, 1 up at 9:52; July, 1 up at 9:60.

Liverpool cable: Moderate business in spot; middling lower; sales 7000 bales. Receipts are 74,000, of which 64,600 are American. At 12:30 o'clock the market was steady, 2 lower to 2 up.

Liverpool closed steady, 3 to 5 points advance. January and February, 5.49d; March and April, 5.41d; May and June, 5.45d; July and August, 5.44½d.

The National Ginners' report gives the estimate of the amount of cotton ginned up to Jan. 16 at 12,045,000 bales. New York commission houses look for further report tomorrow to show about 12,050,000 bales.

Francis' wire from Randolph says it is impossible to foresee any combination in circumstances that will prevent lower prices for cotton during the spring months.

MEN RIDE UNDER CARS ON "FLAT WHEEL" EASTON LINE

South Side Drawbar Method Improved On by Northwest Residents.

FENDER ROD HOLDS FEET

TWO CRUSHES EACH DAY

Seats Not to Be Had a Block West of Downtown Terminus.

When Earth's last trolley is planted
And under the ground we ride;
When the oldest strap is discarded,
And the drawbars are laid aside,
We shall rest, and, faith, we shall need it—
Sit down for an aeon or two,
Till the master of all bad magnates
Shall force us to stand anew.

The Easton line, which runs from the city limits to Fourth street through congested residence districts and taps the busiest retail district in St. Louis, is in some respects the worst which has been observed by Post-Dispatch investigators of the United Railways Co. service.

There are too few cars, and they are run with such irregularity that those dependent on the line have no certainty that they will reach their destinations in the morning and evening hours.

The cars are rickety, dirty and poorly heated and the division is known to those who ride upon it as "the flat-wheel line."

On this division the art of riding on the drawbar has reached its highest development, and some of the passengers have mastered a new accomplishment which bids fair to become the latest vogue in trolley bucking. They ride under the car.

On the Easton cars there is no projecting ledge back of rear dashboard, but there is a substitute. This is an iron bar three inches wide which extends under and across the platform, a foot beyond the dashboard and 18 inches from the ground. It was used as a support for the fenders before the company removed them from the rear ends of the cars.

Passengers who have learned the trick grasp the railing of the rear dashboard and throw their feet under the car until they rest on the crossbar. This puts a very tall man in a half-sitting posture, said to be much more comfortable than drawbar riding.

A Post-Dispatch reporter saw six men riding that way on car 2503 of the Easton avenue line at Broadway and Franklin avenue at 5:50 p. m. Monday. And there was one on the drawbar besides.

Seats Filled in Block.

The congestion at the Fourth street terminus of the line is as great as, if not greater, than that on any other division of the United Railways Co. at the evening rush hour.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock it is impossible to obtain a seat even a block from the end of the line.

Monday evening 60 persons, 32 of whom were women, stood at the corner of Broadway and Franklin avenue from 5:30 to 6 p. m., and the westbound cars at that point, one block from the terminus, were so crowded that six cars passed before one of the waiting passengers could even find hanging room on a step.

Wrestler Gotch's famous toe hold is not in it with the prehensile capacity which is being developed in United Railways passengers.

When car 2501 reached Broadway at 5:48 all of its 50 seats were filled. The aisles and platforms were packed and three passengers rode behind, one on the drawbar and two on the fender rod. There were not less than 120 persons on the car, and the western trip had just been begun. No one was able to board this car at Broadway or at any intervening corner until Jefferson avenue was reached.

Car 2503, also hopelessly crowded, came along a minute later.

When the next car, 2514, arrived, it carried 125 passengers. Six of the men who had been waiting at Broadway clambered on behind. They were riding on the fender rod when the car disappeared up Franklin avenue.

Two minutes later car 2526 came around the corner from Fourth street. Six men and four women were able to board it. This car was not nearly so crowded as those which preceded it. Yet the seats and platforms were filled, and many stood in the aisle. At Jefferson avenue the registers showed 82 cash fares and 21 transfers.

This Will Interest Company.

Closely following this car was 2520, so packed that no one was able to board it at Broadway. The seats, the aisle and the platforms were filled to their utmost capacity. The registers on 2520, at Jefferson avenue, showed 51 cash fares and 11 transfers.

Morning conditions on the Easton avenue line are equally bad. From 5:30 until 7:30 o'clock hundreds of passengers, who live only a few blocks from the west end of the line, are delayed because they cannot get on the cars.

Until 8:30 the congestion continues so great that it is impossible to travel in comfort on the line.

Car 2515 was so filled when it reached Grand avenue at 7:45 a. m. Tuesday that passengers waiting for it there were unable to board it. From that point cast a glance told all waiting passengers that the car was out of commission, so far as they were concerned.

Car 2500 had 115 passengers aboard when it reached Jefferson avenue at 8 o'clock.

During the early rush hour Tuesday the fender bars on the Easton cars were all occupied by passengers who could get no better accommodation.

ARTICLE NO. 7

OF a series designed to show the exact conditions of street railway traffic in St. Louis. The information is gathered by Post-Dispatch reporters, and is based wholly on actual observation.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS ARTICLES.

Last Tuesday the results of an investigation of the Hodiamont line, formerly the Suburban, were published. It was shown that this division, with the best and largest cars in St. Louis, is totally inadequate to handle its passengers.

Wednesday's article showed that the Olive line, with three splendidly equipped divisions, cannot meet the traffic demands made upon it.

The third article, published Thursday, demonstrated that three cars a minute are too few for the city's north and south artery, the Broadway line.

Friday the result of observations on the Page line were printed. It was shown that since the diversion of all Washington avenue traffic to this line, the cars have been overcrowded during the morning and evening rush hours.

The fifth article of the series Saturday showed how danger is added to great inconvenience on the Manchester line, formerly the Maplewood division of the Suburban. As now routed, this line intersects a dangerous grade crossing at Vandeventer avenue.

Monday's article, the sixth in the series, told of the overcrowding of cars on the Bellefontaine line, where conditions are such that passengers are forced to ride on the drawbars behind the rear dashboards.

THIS CONDUCTOR EARNED HIS PAY.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When Page car No. 2251, in charge of conductor No. 557, left Third and Washington at 5:25 Monday evening, it was one-third full. At Eighth street men and women were standing in the aisles, and at Twelfth street the car was packed. This conductor certainly earned his salary, for he collected 118 cash fares and 41 transfers between Third street and Page boulevard. M.

CRAMER WILL INTRODUCE STREET CAR RESOLUTION.

Councilman Cramer has announced his intention of presenting at Tuesday's Council meeting a resolution looking toward the forfeiture of the franchises of the United Railways Co. The resolution instructs City Counselor Bates to act with Attorney-General Hadley in legal proceedings for the forfeiture of the franchises.

The allegations advanced in support of the resolution are that the company has unlawfully been hauling freight, that it has changed the routes laid down in its original franchises, that it is laying tracks without proper authority, and that it is not running its cars on schedule.

Councilman Cramer has in the past introduced a number of resolutions on a variety of subjects, but they have been invariably knocked on the head by the Council without even the scant ceremony of an adverse vote. Some Councilman has always moved that the resolution be referred to a committee. The resolution has been so referred, and it has never thereafter been heard of.

The most recent of the Cramer resolutions was one censuring the United Railways Co. for laying its Manchester avenue track without proper authority. Councilman Hitchcock obtained its reference to the Legislation Committee on the ground that he had not investigated the subject sufficiently to vote on it intelligently.

CALABOOSE FOR OFFICIALS.

State Supervision of Trolley Lines Suggested.

Complaints of suburban residents against the United Railways Co. took definite shape when the Maplewood Improvement Association decided to petition the State Senate to place all street railway companies under the supervision of the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission. This movement will be pushed unless the route of suburban cars is changed so as to avoid the dangerous grade crossing at Tower Grove Station.

The Kirkwood Board of Aldermen further helped along the movement Monday night by passing an ordinance directed at the United Railways Co. The ordinance provides a penalty of $25 to $100 for each failure of the company to run cars as provided by law and empowers the Police Judge, in addition, to imprison railway officials in the town Calaboose from five to ninety days.

An ordinance previously passed requires that cars be run at least every 15 minutes during business hours and every half hour after 8 p. m.

CARS CRASH, WOMEN FAINT.

Bellefontaine Car Leaves Track, Knocks Over Pole.

Several women fainted and a number of passengers were slightly hurt when a westbound Hodiamont car collided with the rear end of a northbound Bellefontaine car at Seventh and Locust streets Monday night. The Bellefontaine car was hurled from the tracks to the sidewalk, where it knocked over an iron trolley pole. In both cars all the seats were occupied, and many passengers were on the platforms and hanging to straps.

Those who were slightly hurt were Miss Clara Edler of 1518 Mallinckrodt street; her sister, Miss Katherine Edler, Mrs. A. B. Tewe of Edgewood, Hall E. Reck of 750A Aubert avenue and Louis Schroell of 921 North Twenty-third street.

CORONER FLAYS DISPATCHER

In returning a verdict after an inquest into the death of Clarence Beechly, a McKinley Interurban lineman, who was electrocuted at Hamel, Ill., Deputy Coroner Marks of Edwardsville censured Robert F. Thompson, the company's dispatcher at Staunton, Ill., saying that if Thompson had given proper orders Beechly would not have lost his life.

Beechly, on the roof of the power station at Hamel, seven miles north of Edwardsville, Monday, was laughing heartily at a joke when 33,000 volts of electricity shot through his body. After his instantaneous death it was found that his face was still wreathed in smiles, just as though it had been frozen hard while he was laughing.

Beechly and C. O. Welker, another lineman, were at work on high tension wires. Each was at the top of poles a short distance apart. They stopped work for a moment while Welker told a funny story. Beechly thought it was very amusing and laughed outright. At that instant the power was turned on at Anderson, a substation 37 miles distant, and he was instantly killed.

Beechly fell to the ground. Welker, who had escaped injury, slipped down the pole and ran to his companion's assistance. When he saw the smiles on Beechly's face he at first thought the man had not been hurt and was trying to play a practical joke.

Beechly and Welker were linemen who worked on the wires alternately. Sunday night Beechly was asked to assist Welker.

It was brought out at the inquest that the dispatcher at Anderson misunderstood some of the signals and thought the two men had finished their work.

WARMING ARBUCKLES' SLIGHTLY MAKES THE GRINDING EASY

If you want to drink real coffee, buy a sealed package of Arbuckles' ARIOSA and grind it in your own kitchen as you want to use it. Roasted coffee loses its strength and flavor if exposed to the air, and even its identity as coffee after grinding. Loose coffee sold out of a bag, bin or tin is usually dusty and soiled by handling.

Don't take it!

Complies with all requirements of the National Pure Food Law, Guarantee No. 2041, filed at Washington.
